Environmental Law Philippe Sands, Jacqueline Peel, Adriana Fabra, Ruth MacKenzie, 2018-03 The new edition of this essential text offers a comprehensive critical and future thinking commentary on international environmental law Cultural Norms, War and the Environment Arthur H. Westing, 1988 The present volume is an outgrowth of a select symposium convened by the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute SIPRI in co operation with the United Nations Environment Programme UNEP in Stockholm 15-18 March 1987 Selected Multilateral Treaties in the Field of the Environment Iwona

Rummel-Bulska, Seth Osafo, 1993 International Environmental Law, Policy, and Ethics Alexander Gillespie, 2014-08-21

This second edition of International Environmental Law Policy and Ethics revises and expands this groundbreaking study into the question of why the environment is protected in the international arena. This question is rarely asked because it is assumed that each member of the international community wants to achieve the same ends. However, in his innovative study of international environmental ethics, Alexander Gillespie explodes this myth. He shows how nations like individuals create environmental laws and policies which are continually inviting failure as such laws can often be riddled with inconsistencies and be ultimately contradictory in purpose. Specifically, he seeks a nexus between the reasons why nations protect the environment, how these reasons are reflected in law and policy, and what complications arise from these choices. This book takes account of the numerous developments in international environmental law and policy that have taken place since the publication of the first edition, most notably at the 2002 World Summit on Sustainable Development and the 2012 Rio 20 United Nations Conference on Sustainable Development. Furthermore, it addresses recent debates on the economic value of nature and the problems of the illegal trade in species and toxic waste. The cultural context has also been considerably advanced in the areas of both intangible and tangible heritage, with increasing attention being given to conservation, wildlife management, and the notion of protected areas. The book investigates the ways in which progress has been made regarding humane trapping and killing of animals, and how, in contrast, the Great Apes initiative and similar work with whales have failed. Finally, the book addresses the fact that while the notion of ecosystem management has been embraced by a number of environmental regimes, it has thus far failed as an international philosophy.

International Environmental Law in the Asia Pacific Ben Boer, Donald R. Rothwell, Ross Ramsay, Donald Rothwell, 1998-02-18. The purpose of this book is to assess the development of international environmental law in the Asia Pacific. Consideration is given to the impact upon the region of global, regional, and subregional environmental law. An assessment is also undertaken of how certain states and groups of states have responded domestically and within their own subregions to these developments. For the purposes of this book, the Asia Pacific is defined as essentially the states which comprise East and Southeast Asia, Australia, New Zealand, and the island states of the Southwest Pacific. Occasional consideration is also given to the states of South Asia.
