Multinationals And Technology Transfer The Canadian Experience:

Multinationals and Technology Transfer Alan M. Rugman, 1983 Multinationals and Technology Transfer Alan M. Rugman, 1983-05-01 Managing the Multinational Subsidiary Hamid Etemad, Louise Séguin Dulude, 2018-04-17 This book first published in 1986 is concerned with the changing world environment for multinational business and the relationships between multinational parent companies and their subsidiaries which will be necessary to meet the challenges that are being faced The study argues that key changes to the environment are the revolution in manufacturing which has permitted cheap production in one location of complicated products for a world market world product mandating whereby all a company's country subsidiaries produce different product lines for the world market pressure and incentives from host governments for technology transfer in their favour and for research and development facilities within their territory the growth of highly efficient international trading and distribution intermediaries and the complications of increased barter trade arising from international debt problems and currency shortages All this means that the management of multinational subsidiaries has to change This book reviews the challenges and shows a way forward Multinationals and World Trade (Routledge Revivals) Mark Casson, 2012-07-26 First published in 1986 this work reports the results of the Leverhulme project on multinationals and intermediate product trade based at the University of Reading during the academic year 1982-3 Chapter 1 summaries the main results of this project Part I focuses upon the theoretical component of world trade dealing with both the theories of division of labour and vertical integration Part II presents a number of specially commissioned case studies relating to the project concerning the motor industry the bearing industry the synthetic fibre industry the tin industry the copper industry the banana industry and the shipping industry Technological Innovation, Multinational Corporations and New International Competitiveness, 1995 This book examines those countries of Southern Europe influenced by the phases of European construction and countries of Latin America where the opening up process has changed the traditional role played by multinational corporations The Making of Global Enterprise Geoffrey Jones, 1994 This volume provides new insights to the history of international business The international group of authors drawn from the United States Canada Britain and Japan address two main themes How has global business developed over the last century And what has been its impact on host economies These original and wide ranging essays prefaced by an extensive editorial introduction are required reading in courses on international business Multinationals in China S. Zhang, R. Pearce, 2011-12-02 Though it is widely understood that inward foreign direct investment has played a major role in mediating China's emergence into the international economic system how and why MNEs have implemented their involvement as part of their global strategy is less well understood This book explores the nature of the MNE in this era of globalization Multinationals, Governments and International Technology Transfer (RLE International Business) Edward Safarian, Gilles Bertin, 2013-05-07 This book examines the international technology transfer process and the role of both multinationals and host country governments in that process with emphasis on the experience of the more developed countries It explores a range of issues and presents much original thinking and research findings It discusses in particular the strategies of the multinationals assessing how far they are willing to accept technology transfer to external partners as opposed to subsidiaries which they can control It also examines how far technical transfers are successful from the viewpoint of the firm and countries involved arguing that governments are most likely to succeed in attracting multinational transfers if they are aware of and accommodate to some degree multinationals preferences Multinational Enterprise and Economic Analysis Richard E. Caves,1996-01-26 This book surveys the contributions that economic analysis has made to our understanding of why multinational enterprises exist

Technological Innovations, Multinational Corporations and the New International Competitiveness Jos Molero,2013-12-19 The aim of this book is to contribute to a better understanding of those intermediate countries with specific reference to two relevant international areas those countries of southern Europe whose dynamic is very much influenced by the phases of European construction and in countries of Latin America where the opening up process has changed the traditional role played by multinational corporations Canadian High-tech in a New World Economy David W. Conklin,France St-Hilaire,Institute for Research on Public Policy,1988 A broad overview of Canadian high tech activities that suggests insights concerning the direction and scope of such industries as well as public policy Includes a study of Canada s competitiveness in the manufacturing sector and the use and production of new technology an examination of the characteristics of the information technology sector and the likely patterns of development and economic prospects the role of multi national corporations and their corporate decision making government policies that may stimulate Canadian high technology and enhance competitiveness a brief history of GATT tariff negotiations subsidies and possible agreements to limit their use the use of government procurement policies to assist domestic high tech firms regulation in the context of high tech policies the protection of intellectual property and education and research as the basis of a new high tech strategy particularly the Canadian record International Business: Strategic management of multinationals Alan M. Rugman,2002 This comprehensive four volume set includes all major contributions to the field of international business It also includes key writings in the areas of international political economy and on regional and national issues Multinationals and Asia Axele Giroud,Deli Yang,Alex Mohr,2007-05-07 Adopting an international business perspective this book surveys recent business developments in Asia and the activities of multinational firms in the region focusing in particular on the changing nature of organizational and institutional relationships including intra and inter organizational relationships business relationships with institutions and relationships with stakeholders The international team of contributors discuss the current and future trends in a wide range of business sectors across the region as well as assessing how the nature of multinationals activities in the region is changing as the business environment evolves and becomes more globalized The Theory of Multinational Enterprises The late Alan M. Rugman,1996-01-01 The articles in this volume explore aspects of multinational enterprises apply the theory of internalization to North America Europe Japan Rugman provides the reader with insights into the intellectual personal history of the papers Multinationals as Flagship Firms Alan Rugman, Joseph R. D'Cruz, 2003-03-06 The international dimension of business networks has remained relatively unexplored mainly because international business writers focus upon multinational enterprises and network writers ignore international issues In this book Professors Alan Rugman and Joseph D Cruz bridge the literature on networks and multinationals by introducing the new concept of the flagship firm In each business network strategic leadership is provided by the flagship firm which is defined as a multinational enterprise It has other partners key suppliers key customers key competitors and key partners in the non business infrastructure These business networks are usually located in the triad regions of the European Union North America and Japan There are strong cross border network linkages within these regions but less globalization than regional economic integration The theory of the flagship firm five partners model is applied to the telecommunications chemicals automotive and electronics sectors amongst others and the book reports on both empirical studies and field research of the international competitiveness of these sectors The book will be of interest to academics students and professionals in the areas of international business strategic management political science law and sociology

Transnational Corporations and Innovatory Activities John Cantwell, 1994 Multinationals as Mutual Invaders Asim Erdilek, 2019-08-13 One surprising development in the growth of multinational businesses and international trade is the large and growing amount of intra industry direct foreign investment Intra industry direct foreign investment is the phenomenon whereby multinationals from two countries have overseas manufacturing operations in each other's countries The phenom

International Entrepreneurship in Small and Medium Size Enterprises Hamid Etemad, 2004-01-01 The drivers of globalization are removing the barriers that segregated the competitive space of the small and large firms in the past It is becoming increasingly difficult for independent small firms to thrive in their traditional markets unless they are globally competitive Managing an enterprise's commercial industrial and political relations well regardless of size and location is the essence of the entrepreneurial challenge in this competitive arena Small and medium size enterprises SMEs often face very different issues than large multinational enterprises do when confronting internationalization This volume provides an in depth discussion of these challenges The contributors to this volume explore the emerging patterns of SME growth and international expansion in response to the evolving competitive environment dynamics of competitive behavior entrepreneurial processes and formulation of strategy They examine the basis and requirements of growth and expansion from three perspectives the rapidly changing environment in which business is conducted entrepreneurial characteristics and the evolving strategic and competitive response to this changing business environment Business leaders scholars and students interested in international business and entrepreneurship will welcome this volume Canada and the European Community Nicolas G. Papadopoulos, Institute for Research on Public Policy, 1986 This essay is based on part of a project which examines issues of Canadian trade and foreign direct investment with special emphasis on the Canada European Economic Community relationship Canadian Manufactured Exports Donald James Daly, Donald Clare MacCharles, 1986 This study provides important empirical background to the continuing debate on Canadian industrial policy and trade The analysis is based on primary data derived from a unique survey of individual firms both Canadian and foreign owned conducted early in the 1981-1982 recession The main purpose of the study is to assess whether recent changes in tariffs exchange rates wage rates and other factors in Canada and the world economy suggest the need for any significant modification in the earlier analyses and conclusions The study presents prior evidence on costs specialization and trade assesses current costs and productivity and presents new information on how increased exports and specialization would affect cost performance and international competitiveness examines non production costs and other non cost influences on specialization and export performance and suggests strategies for the private sector to consider in order to survive in the changing trade environment of the 1980s
