Modernization and the Crisis of Development in Africa Jeremiah I. Dibua, 2017-11-28 In this book Jeremiah I Dibua challenges prevailing notions of Africa's development crisis by drawing attention to the role of modernization as a way of understanding the nature and dynamics of the crisis and how to overcome the problem of underdevelopment He specifically focuses on Nigeria and its development trajectory since it exemplifies the crisis of underdevelopment in the continent He explores various theoretical and empirical issues involved in understanding the crisis including state class gender and culture often neglected in analysis from an interdisciplinary radical political economy perspective This is the first book to adopt such an approach and to develop a new framework for analyzing Nigeria's and Africa's development crisis It will influence the debate on the development dilemma of African and Third World societies and will be of interest to scholars and students of race and ethnicity modern African history class analysis gender studies and development studies

Development and Diffusionism J. Dibua, 2015-12-04 This book deconstructs the neopatrimonial paradigm that has dominated analysis of Nigerian and African development It shows that by denying agency to Nigerian societies and devaluing indigenous culture and local realities Eurocentric diffusionism played a significant role in the failure of development planning

Global Geopolitical Power and African Political and Economic Institutions John James Quinn, 2015-12-30 Global Geopolitical Power and African Political and Economic Institutions When Elephants Fight describes the emergence and nature of the prevailing African political and economic institutions in two periods In the first most countries adopted political and economic institutions that funneled significant levels of political and economic power to the political elites usually through one or no party military political systems inward oriented development policies and or state led and often state owned industrialization In the second period most countries adopted institutions that diluted the overarching political and economic power of ruling elites through the adoption of de jure multiparty electoral systems more outward oriented trade policies and the privatization of many state owned or controlled sectors though significant political and economic power remains in their hands The choices made in each period were consistent with prevailing ideas on governance and development the self interests of political elites and the perceived availability of support or autonomy vis vis domestic regional and international sources of power at the time This book illustrates how these two region wide shifts in prevailing political and economic institutions and practices of Africa can be linked to two prior global geopolitical realignments the end of WWII with the ensuing American and Soviet led bipolar system and the end of the Cold War with American primacy Each period featured changed or newly empowered international and regional leaders with competing national priorities within new intellectual and geopolitical climates altering the opportunities and constraints for African leaders in instituting or maintaining particular political and economic institutions or practices The economic and political institutions of Africa that emerged did so as a result of a complex mix of contending domestic regional and international forces material and intellectual all which were themselves greatly transformed in the wake of these two global geopolitical realignments

The International Law on Foreign Investment M. Sornarajah, 1994-08-18 The author examines different techniques adopted by States for attracting foreign investment and for ensuring that foreign investment serves their economic objectives

Agenda Setting and Public Policy in Africa Kelechi A. Kalu, 2017-03-02 Agenda Setting and Public Policy in Africa examines how decision makers have managed and mismanaged public policy issues in sub Saharan Africa It analyses the neglected issue of how ideas about public policy are generated by whom and for what purpose Persistent problems such as political instability environmental pollution famine hunger desertification rent seeking and incessant intra conflicts across the continent are explored in a systematic and structured manner Each contributor proffers convincing solutions to clearly identified problems Well researched and solution orientated this book will engage scholars and policy makers who are interested in public policy and development issues in Africa

Postcolonial Transition and Global Business History Stephanie Decker, 2022-11-30 British multinationals faced unprecedented challenges to their organizational legitimacy in the middle of the twentieth century as the European colonial empires were dismantled and institutional transformations changed colonial relationships in Africa and other parts of the world This book investigates the political networking and internal organizational changes in five British multinationals United Africa Company John Holt Co Ashanti Goldfields Corporation Bank of West Africa and Barclays Bank DCO These firms were forced to adapt their strategies and operations to changing institutional environments in two English speaking West African countries Ghana formerly the Gold Coast and Nigeria from the late 1940s to the late 1970s Decolonization meant that formerly imperial businesses needed to develop new political networks and change their internal organization and staffing to promote more Africans to managerial roles This postcolonial transition culminated in indigenization programmes and targeted nationalizations which forced foreign companies to sell equity and assets to domestic investors in the 1970s Postcolonial Transition and Global Business History is the first in depth historical study on how British firms sought to adapt over several decades to rapid political and economic transformation in West Africa Exploring both postcolonial transitions and development discourse this book addresses the topics with regard to business and economic history and will be of interest to researchers academics and students in the fields of organizational change political economy African studies and globalization Natural Resources and Economic Growth Marc Badia-Miró, Vicente Pinilla, Henry Willebald, 2015-05-22 The relationship between natural capital and economic growth is an open debate in the field of economic development Is an abundance of natural resources a blessing or a curse for economic performance The field of Economic History offers an excellent vantage to explore the relevance of institutions technical progress and supply demand drivers Natural Resources and Economic Growth contains theoretical and empirical articles by leading scholars who have studied this subject in different historical periods from the 19th century to the present day and in different parts of the world Part I presents the theoretical issues and discusses the meaning of the curse and the relevance of the historical perspective Part II captures the diversity of experiences presenting thirteen independent case studies based on historical results from North and South America Africa Asia Oceania and Europe This book emphasizes that an abundance of natural resources is not a fixed situation It is a process that reacts to changes in the structure of commodity prices and factor endowments and progress requires capital labour technical change and appropriate institutional arrangements This abundance is not a given but is part of the evolution of the economic system History shows that institutional quality is the key factor to deal with abundant natural resources and especially with the rents derived from their use and exploitation This wide ranging volume will be of great relevance to all those with an interest in economic history development economic growth natural resources world history and institutional economics Nigeria Julius Ihonvbere, 2024-11-01 Nigeria is in a long standing crisis Military rule has suffocated civil society and has entrenched a culture of repression corruption and official irresponsibility The reign of Ibrahim Babangida has resulted in near total economic disaster for the country The situation is so bad as Julius Ihonvbere shows that Nigerians are now saying that the days of colonialism were better In this major new study Ihonvbere searches out the sources of Nigeria s predicament He finds them in the country s historical experience and the consequences of that experience since gaining political independence Nigeria has become a society in which its citizens live in fear and its youth emigrate to other countries It is now impossible to survive in the country without belonging to a certain religion living in a particular region having connections with top military officers and being involved with some form of corruption Even involvement in drug pushing or extrajudicial murder is no longer considered a crime but a circumstance of life Such conditions have encouraged the emergence of several popular organizations New alliances of students workers women youths intellectuals professionals and the unemployed transcend ethnic regional and religious differences For the author it is at this emerging level of struggle and interaction that the future of Nigeria lies This work examines several critical but often overlooked or underresearched aspects of Nigeria s political economy Ihonvbere analyzes in detail Nigeria s foreign policy its economic crisis the military the decay of its educational system and democratization He pays particular attention to the paradoxical connection between IMF World Bank supervised structural adjustment and the struggle for democracy His book will be of interest to experts hi

Growing Apart Peter Lewis, 2009-12-11 Growing Apart is an important and distinguished contribution to the literature on the political economy of development Indonesia and Nigeria have long presented one of the most natural opportunities for comparative study Peter Lewis one of America's best scholars of Nigeria has produced the definitive treatment of their divergent development paths In the process he tells us much theoretically about when why and how political institutions shape economic growth Larry Diamond Senior Fellow Hoover Institution Growing Apart is a careful and sophisticated analysis of the political factors that have shaped the economic fortunes of Indonesia and Nigeria Both scholars and policymakers will benefit from this book's valuable insights Michael L Ross Associate Professor of Political Science Chair of International Development Studies UCLA Lewis presents an extraordinarily well documented comparative case study of two countries with a great deal in common and yet with remarkably different postcolonial histories His approach is a welcome departure from currently fashionable attempts to explain development using large multi country databases packed with often dubious measures of various aspects of governance Ross H McLeod Editor Bulletin of Indonesian Economic Studies This is a highly readable and important book Peter Lewis provides us with both a compelling institutionalist analysis of economic development performance and a very insightful comparative account of the political economies of two highly complex developing countries Nigeria and Indonesia His well informed account generates interesting findings by focusing on the ability of leaders in both countries to make credible commitments to the private sector and assemble pro growth coalitions This kind of cross regional political economy is often advocated in the profession but actually quite rare because it is so hard to do well Lewis s book will set the standard for a long time Nicolas van de Walle John S Knight Professor of International Studies Cornell University Peter M Lewis is Associate Professor and Director of the African Studies Program Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced International Studies

Exploring Human Geography Stephen Daniels,Roger Lee,2014-05-01 A lively and stimulating resource for all first year students of human geography this introductory Reader comprises key published writings from the main fields of human geography Because the subject is both broad and necessarily only loosely defined a principal aim of this book is to present a view of the subject which is theoretically informed and yet recognises that any view is partial contingent and subject to change The extracts selected are accessible and raise issues of method and theory as well as fact The editors have chosen articles that not only represent main currents in the present flow of academic geography but which are also responsive to developments outside of the discipline Their selection contains a mixture of established and recent writings and each section features a contextualizing introduction and detailed suggestions for further reading

Foreign Direct Investment in Three regions of the South at 20th Century Susan M. McMillan,1999-03-15 Foreign direct investment is an important part of an increasingly global political economy This book explores the consequences of this investment in six countries in the Global South The country comparison chapters detail the political and economic situations of these countries and their policies and experiences with foreign direct investment One chapter examines the statistical patterns among foreign direct investment and its expected outcomes The analysis indicates that the effects of foreign direct investment are shaped by existing development patterns responding positively to it African Economies and the Politics of Permanent Crisis, 1979-1999 Nicolas Van de Walle, 2001-09-24 This 2001 book explains why African countries have remained mired in a disastrous economic crisis since the late 1970s It shows that dynamics internal to African state structures largely explain this failure to overcome economic difficulties rather than external pressures on these same structures as is often argued Far from being prevented from undertaking reforms by societal interest and pressure groups clientelism within the state elite ideological factors and low state capacity have resulted in some limited reform but much prevarication and manipulation of the reform process by governments which do not really believe that reform will be effective which often oppose reforms because they would undercut the patronage and rent seeking practices which undergird political authority and which lack the administrative and technical capacity to implement much reform Over time state decay has increased
