Multinationals Training Practices Development:

Multinationals' Training Practices and Development International Labour Office, 1981      Multinationals' Training Practices and Development, 1981      Multinational Business and Labour (RLE International Business) Peter Enderwick, 2013-01-17 Aimed at senior undergraduate and post graduate students following courses in International Business and Industrial Relations this book examines the labour market effects of multinational business In reflecting the complexity and dynamism of developments in this area the book makes clear the need to underpin analysis of the labour market effects of multinational business with conceptual understanding of the theory of multinational enterprise

Multinational Banks and Their Social and Labour Practices International Labour Office, 1991 This book looks at the increased world wide competition in multinational banking which is largely attributable to technological improvements deregulation the emergence of off shore banking and new financial services The increased competition has affected both employers and employees      Handbook of International Human Resource Development Thomas Garavan, Alma McCarthy, Ronan Carbery, 2017-10-27 This Handbook draws on a global team of distinguished Human Resource Development and IHRD scholars to provide research and practice insights on a range of contemporary IHRD issues and challenges The Handbook reviews a number of critical contextual dimensions that shape the IHRD goals that organisations pursue impact the IHRD systems policies and practices that are implemented and influence the types of IHRD research questions that are investigated The Handbook examines the processes or actions taken by organisations to globalise IHRD practices and discusses important people development practices that come within the scope of IHRD      International HRM and Development in Emerging Market Multinationals Paresha Sinha, Parth Patel, Verma Prikshat, 2021-12-21 Emerging multinational enterprises or EMNEs have made a huge impact on the international business stage by internationalising at a rapid rate And they have performed remarkably well in both developing and developed countries Accordingly there is a growing strand of literature on how EMNEs manage their international human resource IHRM practices in different international contexts However the majority of the literature on IHRM practices of EMNEs is limited to explaining what international management practices EMNEs implement in their foreign subsidiaries and how they implement them Too often EMNEs struggle to transfer their weak management practices across national borders as they have limited experience resources and capabilities when compared to MNEs from developed countries Developing a better understanding on the manner in which EMNEs adopt their international human resource management and development practices abroad is therefore paramount to fully understand their globalisation related behaviours This dedicated book will aim to provide a holistic picture and contemporary insights on IHRM in emerging multinational enterprises It will be of interest to researchers academics and students in the fields of business and management especially those with a particular interest in human resource management firm internationalisation and emerging markets      Multinational Firms, Innovation and

Productivity D. Castellani, Davide Castellani, Antonello Zanzi, 2006 The book assumes an original place in the literature. Castellani and Zanzi show that the economic impact of MNEs on innovation and productivity depends on evolutionary features of firms and industries, particularly on the heterogeneity of firm strategies and behaviours. This volume contains high quality, well-written research. Simona Iammarino Research Policy This book offers the reader a well-written and very comprehensive analysis on the link between innovation and internalization, which leads to insights into firm heterogeneity. The authors have succeeded in synthesizing the vast body of theoretical and empirical research and given an up-to-date overview of the various issues involved. This is then complemented with their own research findings. The book will undoubtedly enrich the debate on the behavior and impact of MNEs. Yama Temouri Journal of International Business Studies

Davide Castellani and Antonello Zanzi, two well-known Italian economists, have brought forth an excellent new book. I think this book will serve as a starting point for many interesting studies, both because of its findings and because of its empirical and theoretical rigour. The book lays an excellent and empirically well-founded foundation that opens the way for what we need most in research on the international innovative activities and R D configurations of MNCs: intrafirm data and the study of intrafirm processes, configurations and specific interactions with the host country environment. The book, to me, is an important step in moving innovation research forward in this direction. I am sure that this book will serve as a thought-provoking starting point for many future studies on firms' international innovative activities and therefore recommend it without any reservation. Marcus M. Keupp Creativity and Innovation Management

Castellani and Zanzi have developed an original and comprehensive analysis of the role of multinational firms in the transfer, creation and diffusion of technology. By developing their view of the multinationals as double network institutions, the authors provide new insights on a variety of key issues at the frontier of economics of international production and innovation. This book is thought-provoking, incisive and topical, and should be required reading for both economists and policymakers alike. Rajneesh Narula University of Reading, UK

Castellani and Zanzi present an in-depth theoretical and empirical analysis of the key issues underpinning the relationship between innovation and multinationality. This book is strongly recommended reading for any researcher working on innovation or multinationality or the interface between the two. Grazia Ietto Gillies London South Bank University, UK

This book gets to the root of how and why multinational firms differ in the cross-border creation, transfer and diffusion of technology and provides fresh evidence on the effects that these differences have on productivity and innovation in the economic systems in which they are active. Davide Castellani and Antonello Zanzi consider multinationals as heterogeneous institutions that combine internal networks of subsidiaries with external networks of collaborative linkages to bridge different economic and innovation systems. They examine heterogeneity in productivity and innovative behaviour between multinational and national firms, as well as across and within multinationals. The authors argue that not every foreign firm is a good source of externality and not every domestic firm is equally well placed to benefit from multinationals. It is shown that spillovers from multinationals differ according to the technological profiles embeddedness and linkage creation of both foreign and domestic firms active in local markets The book supports this view with empirical evidence based on illustrative case studies and on econometric analysis using extensive firm level datasets on multinati
