The Tribal Mind and the Psychology of Collectivism Joseph P. Forgas, 2024-07-30 Tribalism is a key evolutionary feature of humans and the recent growth in tribal polarisation presents a serious challenge to our highly individualistic civilisation This fascinating book examines the psychological origins and consequences of tribalism both in our private and in our public lives The chapters explore how social evolutionary biological and cognitive factors shape our tribal habits featuring contributions from eminent international researchers The chapters review the nature and origins of tribalism the psychological mechanisms promoting tribalism how tribal narratives can distort rationality and perceptions of reality and the role of tribalism in politics and public affairs The contributions investigate how insecurity the search for meaning and attachment victimhood grievance and cognitive shortcomings can facilitate tribal bonding and how such groups once formed can foster conflict hatred and irrational behaviours The book suggests that the survival of our extremely successful civilisation based on the enlightenment values of liberty and individualism may well depend on our ability to understand and manage the human evolutionary propensity for tribalism The book will be of great interest to students and researchers in psychology sociology and other disciplines of behavioural and social sciences as well as all readers who seek to understand one of the most intriguing issues that shape human social life

On the Warpath Jim Orford, 2023-04-11 This book unpacks the reasons why ordinary citizens often and willingly support war in the West and elsewhere It explores topics such as the personal appeal of war and wartime the role of nationalism and other values in defense of which wars are fought war as a male enterprise images of the enemy militarism and society the role of propaganda and the moral dilemma posed by war

Diplomatic Interventions K. Fierke, 2005-04-22 Diplomatic Interventions argues that war is a social construction In so doing it unsettles the definition of intervention as a coercive interference by one state in the affairs of another to examine the range of communicative or diplomatic practices which through their presence modify the experience of war The tension between claims that war is pervasive and that war is a social construct is analysed in relation to a range of moral legal military economic cultural and therapeutic interventions The concluding chapter highlights how the book itself is a critical intervention that requires us look at again from a new angle at international practice

Forged in War R. David Lankes, 2021-05-15 I deal for readers seeking a more comprehensive look at information dissemination technology its context and its impact on the way in which we now live Library Journal Starred Review Many of what we think of as Information Age tools and media computers cell phones the internet encryption and more evolved directly out of modern warfare These tools started with World War I which began not with arms but with England cutting off underwater cables to Germany and isolating it accelerated through World War II and the Cold War and now play a center role in both declared and non declared conflicts like election interference and cyberbattles We buy phones and smart speakers because they are new and unlock great potential Voice assistants like Siri and Alexa help us do our work and answer that one piece of trivia that bugs us Yet these devices are data gatherers They collect repackage and monetize our questions purchases photographs web surfing to form a data industry now larger than the oil industry Well over 100 years ago the data industry put in place a business model that trades our attention for news and entertainment That model has evolved into a complex art and science of message targeting and content ownership that has splintered communities while simultaneously concentrating media ownership to a few massive corporations Forged in War takes a critical look at the systems we use and how we ended up in a society that values data over personal liberty and commerce over the public good It tells a compelling and previously story of how our ideas of information and knowledge reflect the century of war that has militarized our worldview Author David Lankes s work has been funded by organizations such as The MacArthur Foundation The Institute for Library and Museum Services NASA The U S Department of Education The U S Department of Defense The National Science Foundation and The U S State Department This his latest book will help all of us learn how war has shaped our world and how to begin to create an agenda to stand down weaponized data and a media that seeks to own our personal even intimate data like one owns a gold mine

The BBC Tom Mills, 2020-10-13 The BBC the mouthpiece of the Establishment The BBC is one of the most important institutions in Britain it is also one of the most misunderstood Despite its claim to be independent and impartial and the constant accusations of a liberal bias the BBC has always sided with the elite As Tom Mills demonstrates we are only getting the news that the Establishment wants aired in public Throughout its existence the BBC has been in thrall to those in power This was true in 1926 when it stood against the workers during the General Strike and since then the Corporation has continued to mute the voices of those who oppose the status quo miners in 1984 anti war protesters in 2003 those who offer alternatives to austerity economics since 2008 From the outset much of its activity has been scrutinised by the secret services at the invitation of those in charge Since the 1990s the BBC has been integrated into the market while its independence from government and big business has been steadily eroded The BBC is an important and timely examination of a crucial public institution that is constantly under threat

Total Cold War Kenneth Alan Osgood, 2006 Osgood focuses on major campaigns such as Atoms for Peace People to People and cultural exchange programs Drawing on recently declassified documents that record U S psychological operations in some three dozen countries he tells how U S propaganda agencies presented everyday life in America to the world its citizens living full happy lives in a classless society where economic bounty was shared by all Osgood further investigates the ways in which superpower disarmament negotiations were used as propaganda maneuvers in the battle for international public opinion He also reexamines the early years of the space race focusing especially on the challenge to American propagandists posed by the Soviet launch of Sputnik

Mind the gap promoting a transatlantic revolution in military affairs, 1999 When American defense officials meet informally with their allies and friends from other North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries the conversation often turns to the growing disparity in combat capability between European and U S forces The problem is bemoaned but the participants are not stirred to action This is unfortunate We need a cross Atlantic debate that seeks feasible solutions to this problem Mind the Gap responds directly to that need It not only dissects the problem of a growing disparity but also rejects its inevitability Instead it lays out a multitiered strategy for its solution which is specific and practical including processes and procedures for implementation The proposed strategy is complicated and would be difficult to execute it would raise questions and even objections That is as it should be The alliance nevertheless has solved larger more complex problems We urgently need to find a way to close the gap because the problem is getting worse The United States continues to implement its vision of a globally mobile military force equipped with the latest technology The European members of NATO are not investing in similar capabilities As a result the gap will widen and be increasingly difficult to close
