Luneberg Portrait Of A City 2nd Edition:

Linear Ray and Wave Optics in Phase Space Amalia Torre, 2005-11-11 Ray wave and quantum concepts are central to diverse and seemingly incompatible models of light Each model particularizes a specific manifestation of light and then corresponds to adequate physical assumptions and formal approximations whose domains of applicability are well established Accordingly each model comprises its own set of geometric and dynamic postulates with the pertinent mathematical means At a basic level the book is a complete introduction to the Wigner optics which bridges between ray and wave optics offering the optical phase space as the ambience and the Wigner function based technique as the mathematical machinery to accommodate between the two opposite extremes of light representation the localized ray of geometrical optics and the unlocalized wave function of wave optics At a parallel level the analogies with other branches of both classical and quantum physics like classical and quantum mechanics quantum optics signal theory as well as magnetic optics are evidenced by pertinent comments and or rigorous mathematics So the Lie algebra and group methods are introduced and explained through the elementary optical systems within both the ray and wave optics contexts the former being related to the symplectic group and the latter to the metaplectic group In a like manner the Wigner function is introduced by following the original issue to individualize a phase space representation of quantum mechanics which is mirrored by the issue to individualize a local frequency spectrum within the signal theory context The basic analogy with the optics of charged particles inherently underlying the ray optics picture in phase space is also evidenced within the wave optics picture in the Wigner phase space amalgamation of a great deal of contributions having witnessed the phase space picture of optics over the past 30 years introduces abstract concepts through concrete systems hosts of figures and logical diagrams to favour intuition and to introduce mathematics emphasis on the interrelations with quantum optics signal theory and magnetic optics feeds a feeling for genuine issues in higher mathematics and theoretical physics Heraldry in Urban Society Marcus Meer, 2024-09-19 Heraldry is often seen as a traditional prerogative of the nobility But it was not just knights princes kings and emperors who bore coats of arms to show off their status in the Middle Ages The merchants and craftsmen who lived in cities too adopted coats of arms and used heraldic customs including display and destruction to underline their social importance and to communicate political messages Medieval burgesses were part of a fascination with heraldry that spread throughout pre modern society and looked at coats of arms as honoured signs of genealogy and history Heraldry in Urban Society analyses the perceptions and functions of heraldry in medieval urban societies by drawing on both English and German language sources from the late fourteenth to the early sixteenth centuries Despite variations that point to socio political differences between cities and their citizens in the relatively centralized monarchy of medieval England and the more independent minded urban governments found in the less closely connected Holy Roman Empire urban heraldry emerges as a versatile and ubiquitous means of multimedia visual communication that spanned medieval Europe Urban heraldic practices defy assumptions about clearly demarcated social practices that belonged to high noble as opposed to low urban culture Townspeople's perceptions of coats of arms paralleled those of the nobility as they readily interpreted and carefully curated them as visual expressions of identity These perceptions allowed townspeople of all ranks as well as noble outsiders to use heraldry and its display along with its defacement and destruction in manuscripts spaces such as town houses public monuments halls and churches and performances like processions and joyous entries to address perennial problems of urban society in the Middle Ages The coats of arms of burgesses guilds and cities were communicative means of individual and collective representation social and political legitimization conducting and resolving conflicts and the pursuit of elevated status in the urban hierarchy Likewise heraldic communication negotiated the all important relationship between the city and wider extramural society from the commercial interests of citizens to their collective ties to the ruler changed only after the city's authorities and a new intellectual elite provided Wrocław with a Polish founding myth and reshaped the city's appearance to fit the postwar legend that it was an age-old Polish city. Thum also shows how the end of the Cold War and Poland's democratization triggered a public debate about Wrocław's amputated memory. Rediscovering the German past: Wrocław's Poles reinvented their city for the second time since World War II. Uprooted traces the complex historical process by which Wrocław's new inhabitants revitalized their city and made it their own. Dictionary of German Biography (DGB).
