When Louis XVI was guillotined on January 21 1793 vast networks of production that had provided splendor and sophistication to the royal court were severed Although the king's royal possessions from drapery and tableware to clocks and furniture suites were scattered and destroyed many of the artists who made them found ways to survive This book explores the fabrication circulation and survival of French luxury after the death of the king Spanning the final years of the ancien régime from the 1790s to the first two decades of the nineteenth century this richly illustrated book positions luxury within the turbulent politics of dispersal disinheritance and dispossession Exploring exceptional works created from silver silk wood and porcelain as well as unrealized architectural projects Iris Moon presents new perspectives on the changing meanings of luxury in the revolutionary and Napoleonic periods a time when artists were forced into hiding exile or emigration Moon draws on her expertise as a curator to revise conventional accounts of the so called Louis XVI style arguing that it was only after the revolutionary auctions liquidated the king's collections that their provenance accrued deeper cultural meanings as objects with both a royal imprimatur and a threatening reactionary potential Lively and accessible this thought provoking study will be of interest to curators art historians scholars and students of the decorative arts as well as specialists in the French Revolution
