Dörnberg: in the Shadow of the Josefsberg Henry A. Fischer, 2019-02-06 In the past the steep majestic heavily forested and somewhat impregnable Josefsberg was the lair of robber bands and brigands following the expulsion of the Turks from the area and all of Hungary In the future it would become known as the J szefhegy It is one of the highest elevations in northeastern Somogy County In its lengthening shadow the village of Dörnberg would emerge in the early decades of the eighteenth century named as such by its German settlers in reference to the abundance of thorns in its lower regions These first settlers were in large part of Hessian origin having joined the Schwabenzug the Great Swabian migration of the eighteenth century into Hungary at the invitation of the Habsburg emperor Charles VI The fact that they were Lutherans would lead to decades in which they were forced to exist as an underground congregation until the Edict of Toleration was promulgated by the emperor Joseph II in 1782 which led to the naming of the local heights as the Josefsberg in his honor It was sometime later that the county administration renamed the village and it became Somogydör cske The village would maintain its German character throughout its history until the end of the Second World War when Protocol XIII of the Potsdam Declaration was carried out on April 6 1948 and the vast majority of the village population was expelled along with the German families in its affiliates in Bonnya and Gad cs and sent by cattle car to the then Russian zone of occupation of Germany Those from Szil followed a week later This publication is addressed to the English speaking descendants of those families that immigrated to Canada Australia and the United States prior to the Second World War as well as the families who were successful in escaping from the Russian zone of Germany to the west and were able to find a new home in English speaking countries It provides them with genealogical information about their forebears and additional information regarding
