Music + Revolution Richard Barone, 2022-09-15 Even before the Beatnik Riots of 1961 New York City's Greenwich Village was the epicenter of revolutionary movements in American music and culture But in the early 1960s and throughout the decade a new wave of writers and performers inspired by the folk music revival of the 1950s created socially aware and deeply personal songs that spoke to a generation like never before These writers Bob Dylan Buffy Sainte Marie Janis Ian and Phil Ochs to name a few changed the folk repertoire from traditional songs to songs sprung from personal contemporary experiences and the nation's headlines raising the level of political self expression to high art Message and music merged and mirrored society In Music Revolution Greenwich Village in the 1960s Richard Barone unrolls a freewheeling historical narrative peppered with personal stories and insights from those who were there Illustrated with contemporaneous portraits of the musicians by renowned photographer David Gahr it celebrates the lasting legacy of a pivotal decade with stories behind the songs that resonate just as strongly today

The Company You Keep Tracy Kelleher, 2012-07-01 Running slam dunk into Vic Golinski at her college reunion leaves Mimi Lodge with a lot of questions

Back in the day they were Grantham University's star athletes and polar opposites. If she said left, he said right. If he said hot, she said cold. All of that opposition had an unexpected consequence: a heated attraction. So will she and Vic still clash like the fiercely competitive jocks they once were? Life might have softened their beliefs, but clearly that incredible chemistry is still there. As the reunion unfolds, every meeting is a study in grown-up lust and restraint as they decide where these exhilarating feelings are taking them.

Beyond the Frozen Hills Miranda Pertin, 2021-10-30 There is an age-old myth about the Himalayas being home to a ferocious beast called the yeti or the abominable snowman. Are the legends true or just a product of human imagination? After the death of their parents in a car accident, Zaraveeh and her elder sister Mimi Mavih leave Itanagar to stay with their Aunt Lobsang in the picturesque town of Tawang, a place of inhospitable winters but generous and warm-hearted people. In Tawang, Zaraveeh leads a happy childhood with her sister, who has stopped speaking after the accident under the care of her aunt. But as life would have it, when their aunt dies of cancer, she finds herself lost in a dark pit of helplessness and depression. On a hunch that climbing hills and mountains could be her calling, she makes an attempt to climb Yarchin peak, she can see from her home and which has fascinated her from when she was a child. As Zaraveeh tried to make a difficult descent, a miscalculation leads her to slip and fall. When she regains consciousness, she finds herself staring into the lion-like amber eyes of a strange creature, and now she is terrified that her life is over and that the beast will, in all probability, kill her. What happens to Zaraveeh? Will the creature kill her? Or by a miracle will she be able to escape?
