Minding The Earth Thinly Disguised Essays On Human Ecology:

Minding the Earth Joseph W. Meeker, 1988 Bringing the Biosphere Home Mitchell Thomashow, 2001-10-26 A guide for understanding the ecological and existential aspects of global environmental change This book shows how to make global environmental problems more tangible so that they become an integral part of everyday awareness At its core is a simple assumption that the best way to learn to perceive the biosphere is to pay close attention to our immediate surroundings Through local natural history observations imagination and memory and spiritual contemplation we develop a place based environmental view that can be expanded to encompass the biosphere Interweaving global change science personal narrative and commentary on a wide range of scientific and literary works the book explores both the ecological and existential aspects of urgent issues such as the loss of biodiversity and global climate change Written in a warm engaging style Bringing the Biosphere Home considers the perceptual connections between the local and global how the ecological news of the community is of interest to the world and how the global movement of people species and weather systems affects the local community It shows how global environmental change can become the province of numerous educational initiatives from the classroom to the Internet from community forums to international conferences from the backyard to the biosphere It explains important scientific concepts in clear nontechnical language and provides dozens of ideas for learning how to practice biospheric perception A New Approach to Ecological Education Gillian Judson, 2010 Part of the Peter Lang Education list P facing t p Ecological Identity Mitchell Thomashow, 1996-07-25 Through theoretical discussion as well as hands on participatory learning approaches Thomashow provides concerned citizens teachers and students with the tools needed to become reflective environmentalists Mitchell Thomashow a preeminent educator shows how environmental studies can be taught from different perspective one that is deeply informed by personal reflection Through theoretical discussion as well as hands on participatory learning approaches Thomashow provides concerned citizens teachers and students with the tools needed to become reflective environmentalists What do I know about the place where I live Where do things come from How do I connect to the earth What is my purpose as a human being These are the questions that Thomashow identifies as being at the heart of environmental education Developing a profound sense of oneself in relationship to natural and social ecosystems is necessary grounding for the difficult work of environmental advocacy In this book he provides a clear and accessible guide to the learning experiences that accompany the construction of an ecological identity using the direct experience of nature as a framework for personal decisions professional choices political action and spiritual inquiry Ecological Identity covers the different types of environmental thought and activism using John Muir Henry David Thoreau and Rachel Carson as environmental archetypes but branching out into ecofeminism and bioregionalism issues of personal property and consumption political identity and citizenship and integrating ecological identity work into environmental studies programs Each chapter has accompanying learning activities such as the Sense of Place Map a Community Network Map and the Political Genogram most of which can be carried out on an individual basis Although people from diverse backgrounds become environmental activists and enroll in environmental studies programs they are rarely encouraged to examine their own history motivations and aspirations Thomashow s approach is to reveal the depth of personal experience that underlies contemporary environmentalism and to explore interpret and nurture the learning spaces made possible when people are moved to contemplate their experience of nature Nature Inside Penny Sparke,2020-01-01 The story of how plants and flowers have shaped interior design for over 200 years From ferns in 19th century British parlors to contemporary living walls in commercial spaces plants and flowers have long been incorporated into the design of public and private spaces Spanning two centuries Nature Inside explores the history and popularity of indoor plants revealing the close relationship between architecture interior design and nature Studying the international modern interior through the lens of plants in the human environment author Penny Sparke attributes a degree of the interest in indoor plants to urbanization and more recently the climate crisis which serve as ongoing reminders that people must maintain a connection to and respect for the natural world While architectural and interior design styles have evolved alongside the popularity of various plant species the human need to bring nature indoors has remained constant Nature Inside Penny Sparke,2020-01-01

EnvironMentality. Roman Bartosch, 2013 This book addresses the role and potential of literature in the process of contesting and re-evaluating concepts of nature and animality describing one's individual environment as the starting point for such negotiations It employs the notion of the literary event to discuss the specific literary quality of verbal art conceptualised as EnvironMentality EnvironMentality is grounded on the understanding that fiction does not explain or second scientific and philosophical notions but that it poses a fundamental challenge to any form of knowledge manifesting in processes determined by the human capacity to think beyond a given hermeneutic situation Bartosch foregrounds the dialectics of understanding the other by means of literary interpretation in ecocritical readings of novels by Amitav Ghosh Zakes Mda Yann Martel Margaret Atwood and J M Coetzee arguing that EnvironMentality helps us as readers of fiction to learn from the books we read that which can only be learned by means of reading to think like a mountain Aldo Leopold and to know what it is like to be a bat Thomas Nagel Environmental Studies Diane M. Fortner, 1994 Written for young people who are just beginning to develop an awareness about one planet one people and one home Includes nature writings legal history current news and a prediction for the future Creation (Problems in Theology) Jeff Astley, Ann Loades, David Brown, 2003-10-01 This reader brings together modern material from a wide range of Christian theologians on the meaning and status of the doctrine of creation its relation to scientific theories our understanding of God and the theology of redemption and its implications for our proper attitude to the world of Nature Process theology the Gaia hypothesis New Age spirituality and pantheism are among the range of topics that are introduced and critiqued Contributors include Carol Adams Karl Barth Teilhard de Chardin Celia Deane Drummond Colin Gunton Jurgen Moltmann Schubert Ogden John Polkinghorne

To Know the World Mitchell Thomashow, 2020-11-03 Why we must rethink our residency on the planet to understand the connected challenges of tribalism inequity climate justice and democracy How can we respond to the current planetary ecological emergency In To Know the World Mitchell Thomashow proposes that we revitalize revisit and reinvigorate how we think about our residency on Earth First we must understand that the major challenges of our time migration race inequity climate justice and democracy connect to the biosphere Traditional environmental education has accomplished much but it has not been able to stem the inexorable decline of global ecosystems Thomashow the former president of a college dedicated to sustainability describes instead environmental learning a term signifying that our relationship to the biosphere must be front and center in all aspects of our daily lives In this illuminating book he provides rationales narratives and approaches for doing just that The Latham Letter ,1984 Weber Studies ,1994 Environmental Ethics ,1990

Wilderness ,1987 American Book Publishing Record ,1988 McGraw-Hill Encyclopedia of Environmental Science & Engineering Sybil P. Parker,1993 This reference work now includes 250 articles many of them new to this volume in all major environmental subjects of broad interest from rainforests to hazardous waste and sewage treatment It offers a complete overview of current environmental problems and the solutions needed to ultimately protect and preserve our environment Numerous photographs diagrams charts graphs and line drawings supplement the text Review of Progress in Quantitative Nondestructive Evaluation ,2001 Review of Progress in Quantitative Nondestructive Evaluation
Dale E. Chimenti,Donald O. Thompson,2002-05-24 This series provides a comprehensive review of the latest research results in quantitative nondestructive evaluation NDE Part A of Volume 21 details the development of nondestructive evaluation techniques Part B addresses advances in materials characterization new applications and reliability Environmental Stewardship Dorothy J. Howell,1997-07-23 This work addresses the cultural background of stewardship as a progression from individual personal aesthetics to a deeply informed environmental ethic that could become a national environmental policy Howell begins by assessing our personal cultural background and our philosophical notions of our role in the natural world She looks at the evolution of Western civilization and changing worldviews in relation to nature examining especially early conceptions of a more appealing simpler life closer to nature in contrast to the perceived civilized world that is portrayed as decadent Howell examines archetypes from literature and the popular arts finding examples in Jungian psychology and in contemporary film and television that support the Wild Man image and promote the Simple Life yearning She then looks at the early 20th century conservation and preservation writers as the most direct ancestors of today s environmental movement and an immediate source of inspiration
