Just Policing, Not War Gerald Schlabach,2007 2008 Catholic Press Association Honorable Mention For decades the Catholic Church and historical peace churches such as the Mennonites have come together in ecumenical discussions about war and peace The dividing point has always been between pacifism the view held by Mennonites and other peace churches and the just war theory that dominates Catholic thinking on the issue Given the transformation of global relations over this period increased interdependency and communication as well as the fall of the Soviet Union emerging nationalism movements and the slow development of international courts the time is right to rethink the Christian response to war Gerald Schlabach has proposed just policing theory as a way to narrow the gap between just war and pacifist traditions If the world can address problems of violence through a police model instead of a conventional military model there may be a role for Christians from all traditions In this volume Schlabach presents his theory and has invited a number of scholars representing Catholic Mennonite and other traditions to respond to the theory and address a number of key questions What do we mean by policing Can policing solve conflicts beyond one s own borders How does just policing theory address terrorism Is international policing possible and what would it look like Is just policing a Christian solution that meets the criteria of both traditions This important volume offers a fresh and meaningful discussion to help Christians of all traditions navigate the difficult questions of how to live in these times of violence and war
