Twentieth-Century Fiction by Irish Women Heather Ingman, 2017-03-02 During much of the twentieth century Irish women's position was on the boundaries of national life Using Julia Kristeva's theories of nationhood often particularly relevant to Ireland this study demonstrates that their marginalization was to women's and indeed the nation's advantage as Irish women writers used their voice to subvert received pieties both about women and about the Irish nation Kristeva's theories of the other the foreigner the semiotic the mother and the sacred are explored in authors as diverse as Elizabeth Bowen Kate O'Brien Edna O'Brien Mary Dorcey Jennifer Johnston and Eilís Ní Dhuibhne as well as authors from Northern Ireland like Deirdre Madden Polly Devlin and Mary Morrissy These writers whose voices have frequently been sidelined or misunderstood because they write against the grain of their country's cultural heritage finally receive their due in this important contribution to Irish and gender studies

The Irish Expatriate Novel in Late Capitalist Globalization Joe Cleary, 2021-11-11 This study of contemporary Irish expatriate fiction offers a boldly original world facing rather than nation focused overview of the contemporary Irish novel Chapters examine how Irish narrative deals with the United States in a time of declining global hegemony a rising China and Asia a thwarted and turbulent Global South and a European Union that has decisively reshaped Ireland in the last half century The author argues that in a late capitalist world defined by volatile economic and cultural globalizations the Irish novel is struggling to imagine new ways to narrate the country's relationship to the world capitalist system and to find new place for Irish writing in the world literary system Looking at a rapidly changing Ireland in a rapidly changing international order Joe Cleary offers new readings of novels by Colm Tóibín Anne Enright Joseph O'Neill Deirdre Madden Mary Costello Naoise Dolan Aidan Higgins Colum McCann Ronan Sheehan and Ronan Bennett unifying concern has been the appliance of postcolonial and gender perspectives to the analysis of Irish literature prose drama and verse and cinema as well as to the aesthetic production of both the Republic of Ireland and Northern Ireland Along the volume while some authors have chosen to delve into the broad theoretical debate concerning the position of Irish studies within postcolonial and feminist theories others offer detailed examinations of specific literary pieces and authors that fit in this panorama All in all the chapters are wide and diverse enough to trace a spatial and temporal map of the evolution of these paradigms within contemporary Irish studies North and South of the border

John Banville Neil Murphy, 2018-05-18 John Banville offers a close analysis of most of Banville's major novels as well as the Quirke crime novels he has written under the pseudonym Benjamin Black and his dramatic adaptations of Heinrich von Kleist's plays From the beginning Banville's work has been marked both by the presence of a complex embedded discourse about the significance of art and by a concurrent self-conscious obsession with its own status as art His novels perpetually reveal an overt fascination with the visual arts in particular and with the aesthetic principle of literature as art This study argues that as a whole Banville's work presents an elaborate and richly textured coded account of his relationship with art and with the self-referential fictional world that his novels have conjured It is from this critical context that John Banville's central argument is derived This book asserts that Banville's fiction can be viewed both as an extended interrogation into the meaning and status of art as well as itself being a representative of the type of art that is admired in the pages of the novels As such it also represents an extremely sophisticated enactment of the novel form that goes beyond the self-reflexivity of late twentieth-century fiction to chart new developments in the literary arts The book's critical process involves several specific reference points Firstly Banville's own theoretical statements about art in interviews essays reviews and journalistic writing over the past 40 years are synthesized into a coherent interpretation of the author's artistic vision which is thereafter used as a conceptual touchstone when considering his major works of fiction This is done in conjunction with investigating specific theoretical perspectives about the relationship between literature and art by critics such as Denis Donoghue and Susan Sontag and by philosophers of art Graham Gordon Etienne Gilson Peter Lamarque and Susanne Langer
