Modern Historians and the Study of History Sir Maurice Powicke,1955      The Study of History ,1988 The chief objective of this text is to provide a handy reference guide for teachers students and researchers of modern European economic and social history Since the bibliography covers only works written in the English language it will probably be of less use to the last named group at least insofar as those within it are already seasoned researchers on a particular country or topic However it would have been quite impossible from the point of view of length to have included all the literature in foreign languages while to have done so would have defeated the essential aim of the volume namely that of providing a reasonably convenient guide for those who teach and study the subject but who are not primarily specialists in the field

Kelley,2006-01-01 In 1764 65 the irrepressible playwright Beaumarchais travelled to Madrid where he immersed himself in the life and society of the day Inspired by the places he had seen and the people he had met Beaumarchais returned home to create The Barber of Seville and The Marriage of Figaro plays that became the basis for the operas by Rossini and Mozart that continue to delight audiences today

This book is a lively and original account of Beaumarchais's visit to Madrid he never went to Seville and a re-creation of the society that fired his imagination Drawing on Beaumarchais's letters and commentaries translated into English for the first time Hugh Thomas investigates the full range of the playwright's activities in Madrid He focuses particular attention on short plays that Beaumarchais attended and by which he was probably influenced and he probes the inspirations for such widely recognized characters as the barber valet Figaro the lordly Count Almaviva and the beautiful but deceived Rosine Not neglecting Beaumarchais's many other pursuits ranging from an endeavour to gain a contract for selling African slaves to an attempt to place his mistress as a spy in the bed of King Charles III Lord Thomas provides a highly entertaining view of a vital moment in Madrid's history and in the creative life of the energetic Beaumarchais History and Historians R. W. Southern, 2008-04-15 This book makes a selection of writings by the great medieval historian Sir Richard Southern available to the wider audience they deserve A collection of writings by the great medieval historian Sir Richard Southern Offers a fascinating insight into the beliefs and ideas that underpinned Southern's work Contains the series of reflections on medieval historical writing that Southern produced during his tenure as President of the Royal Historical Society Also includes pieces on the nature of academic history as well as Southern's appreciations of other medievalists Brings together texts that would otherwise be difficult to locate Makes these writings accessible to the wider audience they deserve Encyclopedia of Historians and Historical Writing Kelly Boyd, 2019-10-09 The Encyclopedia of Historians and Historical Writing contains over 800 entries ranging from Lord Acton and Anna Comnena to Howard Zinn and from Herodotus to Simon Schama Over 300 contributors from around the world have composed critical assessments of historians from the beginning of historical writing to the present day including individuals from related disciplines like Jürgen Habermas and Clifford Geertz whose theoretical contributions have informed historical debate Additionally the Encyclopedia includes some 200 essays treating the development of national regional and topical historiographies from the Ancient Near East to the history of sexuality In addition to the Western tradition it includes substantial assessments of African Asian and Latin American historians and debates on gender and subaltern studies Modern Historians End the Study of History F. M. Powicke, 1955 A Global History of Modern Historiography Georg G Iggers, Q. Edward Wang, Supriya Mukherjee, 2016-09-01 The first book on historiography to adopt a global and comparative perspective on the topic A Global History of Modern Historiography looks not just at developments in the West but also at the other great historiographical traditions in Asia the Middle East and elsewhere around the world over the course of the past two and a half centuries This second edition contains fully updated sections on Latin American and African historiography discussion of the development of global history environmental history and feminist and gender history in recent years and new coverage of Russian historical practices Beginning in the mid eighteenth century the authors analyse historical currents in a changing political social and cultural context examining both the adaptation and modification of the Western influence on historiography and how societies outside Europe and America

found their own ways in the face of modernization and globalization Supported by online resources including a selection of excerpts from key historiographical texts this book offers an up to date account of the status of historical writing in the global era and is essential reading for all students of modern historiography     The Overcoming of History in War and Peace Jeff Love,2004 The Overcoming of History in War and Peace marks a radical departure from the critical tradition dominated by Sir Isaiah Berlin s view that the novel is deeply divided against itself a majestically flawed contest of brilliant art and clumsy thought To the contrary Jeff Love argues that the apparently divided nature of the text its multi leveled negotiation between different kinds of representation expresses the rich variety of the novel s very deliberate striving to capture the fluidity of change and becoming in the fixed forms of language The inevitable failure of this striving revealing the irreducible conflict between infinite desire and finite capacity is at once the source of new beginnings and the repetition of old ones a wellspring of continually renewed promises to achieve a synoptic vision of the whole that the novel cannot fulfill This repetitive struggle between essentially comic and tragic conceptions of human action far from being a pervasive flaw in the texture of the novel in fact constitutes its dynamic center and principal trope as well as the productive origin of the unusual features that distinguish it as an uncommonly bold narrative experiment     History, Its Rise and Development Harry Elmer Barnes,1919

The Historians' History of the World in Twenty-Five Volumes Various Authors,2020-09-28 Broadly speaking the historians of all recorded ages seem to have had the same general aims They appear always to seek either to glorify something or somebody or to entertain and instruct their readers The observed variety in historical compositions arises not from difference in general motive but from varying interpretations of the relative status of these objects and from differing judgments as to the manner of thing likely to produce these ends combined of course with varying skill in literary composition and varying degrees of freedom of action As to freedom of selective judgment the earliest historians whose records are known to us exercised practically none at all Their task was to glorify the particular monarch who commanded them to write The records of a Ramses a Sennacherib or a Darius tell only of the successful campaigns in which the opponent is so much as mentioned only in contrast with the prowess of the victor With these earliest historians therefore the ends of historical composition were met in the simplest way by reciting the deeds real or alleged of a king as Ramses Sennacherib or David or of the gods as Osiris or Ishtar or Yahveh As to entertainment and instruction the reader was expected to be overawed by the recital of mighty deeds and to draw the conclusion that it would be well for him to do homage to the glorified monarch human or divine A little later in what may be termed the classical period the historians had attained to a somewhat freer position and wider vision and they sought to glorify heroes who were neither gods nor kings but the representatives of the people in a more popular sense Thus the Iliad dwells upon the achievements of Achilles and Ajax and Hector rather than upon the deeds of Menelaus and Priam the opposing kings Hitherto the deeds of all these heroes would simply have been transferred to the credit of the king Now the individual of lesser rank is to have a hearing Moreover the state itself is now considered apart from its particular ruler The histories of Herodotus of Xenophon of Thucydides of Polybius in effect make for the glorification not of individuals but of peoples This shift from the purely egoistic to the altruistic standpoint marks a long step The writer now has much more clearly in view the idea of entertaining without frightening his reader and he thinks to instruct in matters pertaining to good citizenship and communal morality rather than in deference to kings and gods In so doing the historian marks the progress of civilisation of the Greek and early Roman periods In the medi val time there is a strong reaction To frighten becomes again a method of attacking the consciousness to glorify the gods and heroes a chief aim As was the case in the Egyptian and Persian and Indian periods of degeneration the early monotheism has given way to polytheism Hagiology largely takes the place of secular history A constantly growing company of saints demands attention and veneration To glorify these to show the futility of all human action that does not make for such glorification became again an aim of the historian But this influence is by no means altogether dominant and though there is no such list of historians worthy to be remembered as existed in the classical period yet such names appear as those of Einhard the biographer of Charlemagne De Joinville the panegyrist of Saint Louis Villani Froissart and Monstrelet the chroniclers and Comines Machiavelli and Guicciardini
