ABSTRACT

This research describes the implementation, challenges, and solutions of multicultural education. This research is library research. The analysis shows that multicultural education promotes equality in schools to develop students' attitudes toward diversity and living together in harmony. Multicultural education is a reform movement aimed at providing equal opportunities for all students, regardless of their ethnicity, culture, language, religion, race, or class. It is crucial in Indonesia, where the school system is a social system with individuals from different backgrounds united. The success of multicultural education depends on the desire and care of the school community, especially teachers. Teachers must innovate to teach multicultural education, aiming to increase student motivation and tolerance towards diversity. In a multicultural classroom, all students from different cultures and languages have equal educational opportunities. Learning reflects culture, experiences, perspectives on linguistics and culture of a group, as well as respect for differences and student cultural similarities. Having a positive attitude towards differences can bring individuals into the community and bring the community into the wider world community. However, challenges during the implementation of multicultural education may. Indonesia's education policy should promote a democratic, egalitarian society that respects the values of humanity and equality, and values differences.

INTRODUCTION

Diversity is part of our everyday life (Agustian, 2019). If we believe that God is the Creator, then we will also believe that the diversity of human beings in this world is God's creation. The wave of democracy demands recognition of differences within the body of a pluralistic Indonesian nation. The vertical difference concerns differences in the upper and lower layers in the social field, economics politics, and education. Horizontal differences include differences in social unity such as regional language differences, traditional clothes, traditional houses, and culinary arts, as well as other symbols inherent in every ethnicity. If the complexity of the inter-ethnic process deep unstable emotional conditions, estimated to have the potential more sensitive to conflict formation between ethnicities (Agil, 2006).

Indonesia is a multicultural, multiethnic, and multireligious nation. In our increasingly diverse society, multicultural
