Seasonal Workers in Mediterranean Agriculture Jörg Gertel, Sarah Ruth Sippel, 2014-04-03 Over the last three decades there has been a rapid expansion of intensive production of fresh fruit and vegetables in the Mediterranean regions of south and west Europe Much of this depends on migrating workers for seasonal labour including from Eastern Europe North Africa and Latin America This book is the first to address global agro migration complexes across the region It is argued that both intensive agricultural production and related working conditions are highly dynamic Regional patterns have developed from small scale family farming to become an industrialized part of the global agri food system which increasingly depends on seasonal labour Simultaneously consumer demand for year round supply has caused relocations of the industry within Europe areas of intensive greenhouse production have moved further south and even into North Africa The authors investigate this Mediterranean agri food system that transcends borders and is largely constituted by invisible seasonal work By revealing the story of food commodities loaded with implications of private profit seeking exploitation exclusion and multiple insecurities the book unmasks the hidden costs of fresh food provisioning Three case study areas are considered in detail the French region of Provence a traditional centre of fresh fruit and vegetable cultivation the Spanish Almer a region where intensive production has accelerated dramatically since the 1970s and Morocco where counter seasonal production has recently been expanding The book also includes commentaries that refer to complementary insights on US Mexico Philippines Canada and South Pacific mobilities

Certifying China Yixian Sun, 2022-02-22 A comprehensive study of the growth potential and limits of transnational eco certification in China and the implications for other emerging economies China has long prioritized economic growth over environmental protection But in recent years the country has become a global leader in the fight to save the planet by promoting clean energy cutting air and water pollution and developing a system of green finance In Certifying China Yixian Sun explores the potential and limits of transnational eco certification in moving the world's most populous country toward sustainable consumption and production He identifies the forces that drive companies from three sectors seafood palm oil and tea to embrace eco certification The success of eco certification he says will depend on the extent to which it wins the support of domestic actors in fast growing emerging economies The assumption of eco certification is that demand along the supply chain can drive businesses to adopt good practices for social environmental and economic sustainability by specifying rules for production third party verification and product labeling Through case studies drawn from extensive fieldwork and mixed methods Sun traces the processes by which certification programs originating from the Global North were introduced in China and gradually gained traction He finds that the rise of eco certification in the Chinese market is mainly driven by state actors including government sponsored industry associations who seek benefits of transnational governance for their own development goals The book challenges the conventional wisdom that the Chinese state has little interest in supporting transnational governance offering novel insights into the interaction between state and non state actors in earth system governance in emerging economies

The Crisis of Global Capitalism Adrian Pabst, 2012-10-25 The current economic crisis stems from a deeper crisis of cultural imagination and civilisational ethics here is the starting point of this collection of essays which draw a new political economy facing the crisis of Western civilization This book gathers together a range of audacious and provocative readings of Caritas in Veritate the first papal encyclical that addresses issues immediately relevant for political economic and social theory These readings embody the kind of fruitful dialogue Pope Benedict XVI wanted to generate with his radical discourse for an alternative political economy

Sustainability in Agricultural and Rural Development Gerard E. D'Souza, Tesfa G. Gebremedhin, 2019-05-23 First published in 1998 this book provides a broad but in depth description of the issues concepts methods of analysis and empirical results related to the sustainable development of agriculture and rural communities Specifically it examines the relationships between sustainability and individual topics such as technology information population gender land use community and public policy A unique aspect of this book is that the topics addressed have not previously been explored together in one publication With sustainability as the common link data and evidence are presented and then interpreted in light of individual perspective and experience in the process advancing our knowledge of this important field The book comprises of 12 chapters written by prominent authors who come from government and non government organizations as well as from various academic institutions and disciplines This book is ideal for a seminar course It is particularly intended for students in production agriculture rural sociology economics and public policy environmental sciences geography and land use planning and other social sciences Its rich insights make it a useful source of information for policy makers It can also be used as a reference by professional economists and other researchers interested in issues relating to sustainable agricultural and rural development While the coverage of some topics is by necessity more technical the book is compiled with a general audience in mind Thus it should be of interest to anyone concerned with agriculture natural resources and rural issues particularly as they relate to the future of agriculture and of rural communities

Changing the equation: Leveraging true cost accounting to accelerate agri-food systems transformation Klaus, Lisa Maria, Riemer, Olivia, Müller, Alexander, 2024-11-13 The global agri food system from field to fork is failing to nourish billions of people properly is responsible for nearly a third of all greenhouse gas emissions and is a major driver of biodiversity loss As it currently operates this system imposes significant hidden costs on the environment on the workers who produce cheap food in dangerous or precarious conditions consumers and society as a whole These hidden costs or externalities include water pollution remediation social support for underpaid workers and public health costs related to diet related diseases none of which are captured by traditional economic metrics Externalities are prevalent in all sectors of the economy not just agri food systems and are systematically ignored in conventional accounting and reporting systems This omission leads to distorted market signals that encourage unsustainable business practices the consequences of which are borne by society particularly disadvantaged communities and will weigh heavily on future generations while the polluters reap financial rewards Addressing externalities is therefore essential to building an economic system that supports sustainable development

India-Africa Economic Relations in the New Global Economy Rick Rowden, 2025-03-18 While there have been many books about China s growing economic role in Africa this book explores the much less well known story of India s growing economic role in Africa And like the big debates about China s role in Africa this book similarly asks if India is acting as a helpful development partner in Africa an exploitative new colonizer or if the answer ultimately has to do with the degree of agency exercised by African governments While the book documents the significant increase in Indian aid trade and FDI in Africa in the new millennium it also offers much more It comprehensively looks at theories of economic development the debates about the role of trade and industrial policies in economic development strategies colonial and post colonial literature and controversial features of today s global political economy as the background to study Africa and frames Africa India economic relations in these broad contexts The book reviews the history of India s diplomacy trade and investment in African countries since decolonization with a focus on the increased economic ties of the past two decades The main question examined is about the longterm impact that India s economic relations are having in African economies and if India is helping Africa to successfully develop over time or not The author examines India s economic and strategic interests in the African region and offers a comparative analysis of Africa s trade with India China the European Union and other African nations The book also explores a number of outstanding issues in India Africa relations today such as Africa's role as a source of oil gas and critical minerals needed by India the lifesaving role of Indian generic medicines across the continent the nature of the agricultural development model that India is introducing in Africa and key areas where Indian and African governments are cooperating in the international arena The book offers a critical and in depth look into the partnerships India has developed with African countries and contributes to the debate on economic relations between a more developed emerging market like India and less developed countries A major contribution to the emerging area of South South economics this book part of the Critical Political Economy of South Asia series will be useful for scholars and researchers of economics development economics development studies public policy diplomacy African studies political economy South Asian economics and international politics and trade Agricultural Trade Negotiations United States. Congress. House. Committee on Agriculture, 2004

Globalization, Global Security, and New

International Realities for Modern Democracies Alaverdov, Emilia, Abuseridze, Giga, 2025-05-16 Globalization offers both opportunities and threats influencing political economic and social spheres worldwide While its everyday manifestations are often seen as natural they result from political decisions by governments and legislative bodies with the decline of sovereign states roles leaving a gap in legitimate global authority The creation of global democracy risks reflecting the dominance of a few international powers but the political processes shaping globalization remain crucial to democratic systems In terms of global security a system based on international law is essential focusing on disarmament environmental protection and combating terrorism while also addressing issues like ethno-political conflicts The current crisis in international relations marked by divergent views and the rise of proxy and hybrid wars calls for the establishment of new rules and global structures that can better reflect the complexities of a rapidly changing world Globalization Global Security and New International Realities for Modern Democracies explores the complex and interconnected forces shaping the modern world focusing on globalization global security and the evolving dynamics of international relations It examines how globalization driven by political decisions and technological advancements reshapes economies societies and cultures while creating new challenges related to sovereignty democracy and governance This book covers topics such as geopolitics global business policymaking and is a useful resource for business owners government officials policymakers academicians researchers and political scientists

Agriculture in Brazil and Argentina , The Agri-Food System in Question John

Wilkinson, 2024-10-23 To mitigate climate biodiversity and public health crises the global agrifood system needs radical change The Global North remains central to agrifood innovation but new players in the South especially Brazil and China will increasingly determine its pace and direction Investigating climate controlled agriculture and alternatives to animal proteins John Wilkinson shows that trade investment and innovation in agrifood is reorienting to the South As the global population becomes increasingly urban he skilfully illustrates the connections between social movements and technological innovation and the need for consumer acceptance of new food habits

From Agriculture to Agricology Professor Dani Wadada

Nabudere, Mapungubwe Institute for Strategic Reflection (MISTRA), 2013-07-01 In this meditation respected Ugandan academic Dani Wadada Nabudere traces the roots of the global economic crisis and warns of the threat that the decline of Western nations poses to the African continent the final frontier for those in search of new lands and resources to exploit As a deterrent to what he sees as the encroachment of super profiteers looking to Africa for the land to increase their profits in industrial agriculture Nabudere advocates for what he terms community sites of knowledge that is the use of indigenous tools and knowledge to revitalize the lives of Africa's people The book puts forth the belief that any dependence on imported knowledge and material instruments will only lead to the entrenchment of colonial stereotypes and that indigenous knowledge is imbued with the roots of complex ecosystems that require the inputs of a diversity of expertise and experiences and that are capable of producing the knowledge necessary for the residents of the African continent to reclaim the future

Political Ecology of Agriculture Omar Felipe Giraldo, 2019-02-28 This study discusses an original proposal aimed at critically analyzing the power relations that exist in contemporary agriculture The author endeavors herein to clarify some of the strategies that industrial agribusiness in collusion with the state and multilateral structures sets in motion in order to functionalize the lives of millions of farmers so that their bodies enunciations and sensibilities can be repurposed in accordance with the dynamics of capital accumulation The argument is based on the idea that agro extractivism cannot be thought of exclusively as an economic political and technological system but as a complex interweaving of cultural meanings aesthetics and affections which amalgamated under the abstract name of development act as a support for the whole system's scaffolding The book also explores the other side of the coin describing how and under what conditions social movements are responding to the calamities generated by this model The central thesis is that many ongoing agroecological processes are providing one of the most interesting guidelines at present for visualizing transitions towards post development post extractivism and the construction of multiple worlds beyond the sphere of capital Political ecology of agriculture joins the calls that question the cultural project of modernity and the predatory sense imposed by the globalized food empire and invites recognition of the importance of agroecology in the context of the end of the fossil fuel era and the likely collapse of our industry based civilization
