Multivariate Archaeology:

Exploratory Multivariate Analysis in Archaeology M. J. Baxter, 2015-12-31 This volume presents four techniques of multivariate analysis commonly used by archaeologists principal component analysis correspondence analysis cluster analysis and discriminant analysis Employing ordinary language and real data sets and including extensive literature reviews the book illustrates how these statistical techniques can be applied to specific archaeological questions A new introduction by the author updates his discussion in light of subsequent developments in the field of quantitative archaeology Originally published by Edinburgh University Press in 1994

Physics Methods in Archaeometry Società italiana di fisica, 2004 The role of exact sciences in connection with cultural heritage now is well established and a new scientific branch has been generated Archaeometry Literally Archaeometry means measurement on ancient objects It is a multidisciplinary field of Investigations where the rigorous methods of exact sciences give a fundamental contribution to solving the problems associated with conservation and restoration as well as to the study itself of the cultural heritage Archaeometry as a scientific research field involves interdisciplinary groups formed by scholars of the humanistic area together with scientists physicists chemists mathematicians biologists engineers etc The primary justification for the need of involving exact sciences application of physical and biological sciences in archaeological research Every aspect of archaeological work is represented from the discovery process to the ultimate disposition of materials Thus the reader will find entries on subject matter covering disciplinary theory legislation affecting the work of archaeologists pre excavation surveying excavation methodology on site conservation techniques post excavation analysis The rapid evolution of analytical technology is often superficially treated or not covered at all in textbooks or other commonly available sources Here the latest refinements in techniques such as radiometric dating stable isotopic analysis and the PCR technique of DNA analysis are presented clearly and authoritatively The discussion of these techniques is amplified by including results of the work of professionals conducting interdisciplinary research and by covering the methodological enhancements provided by the physical and natural sciences Cultural property legislation regardless of its country of origin has affected how archaeologists conduct their work This encyclopedia covers all major U S legislation developed for the protection of cultural property including the recent Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act and offers a substantial article on worldwide legislation concerning the reburial of human remains and its effects on the present and future practice of archaeology Without some sort of conservation program at the point of excavation valuable materials may be inadvertently contaminated or destroyed Many simple and low cost techniques to promote both sample integrity and long term preservation for major classes of materials are described in this volume Traditional treatments of method and theory usually focus on prehistoric periods and are limited in their geographic range This volume includes discussions based on various historical periods on different continents as reflected in entries such as Historical Archaeology Industrial Archaeology Medieval Archaeology and Classical Archaeology

The Development of Southeastern Archaeology Jay K. Johnson, 1993-02-28 Ten scholars whose specialties range from ethnohistory to remote sensing and lithic analysis to bioarchaeology chronicle changes in the way prehistory in the Southeast has been studied since the 19th century Each brings to the task the particular perspective of his or her own subdiscipline in this multifaceted overview of the history of archaeology in a region that has had an important but variable role in the overall development of North American archaeology Some of the specialties discussed in this book were traditionally relegated to appendixes or ignored completely in site reports more than 20 years old Today most are integral parts of such reports but this integration has been hard won Other specialties have been and will continue to be of central concern to archaeologists Each chapter details the way changes in method can be related to changes in theory by reviewing major landmarks in the literature As a consequence the reader can compare the development of each subdiscipline As the first book of this kind to deal specifically with the region it will be valuable to archaeologists everywhere The general reader will find the book of interest because the development of southeastern archaeology reflects trends in the development of social science as a whole Contributors include Jay K Johnson David S Brose Jon L Gibson Maria O Smith Patricia K Galloway Elizabeth J Reitz Kristen J Gremillion Ronald L Bishop Veletta Canouts and W Fredrick Limp Bioarchaeology of Southeast Asia Marc

Oxenham, Nancy Tayles, 2006-04-20 Bioarchaeology of Southeast Asia focuses uniquely on the physical remains of the prehistoric peoples of this region Skeletal Biology of the Ancient Rapanui (Easter Islanders) Vincent H. Stefan, George W. Gill, 2016-01-07 A succinct volume presenting current views of Rapanui prehistory utilising biological evidence to modify existing archaeological and cultural anthropological preconceptions Early Metallurgy of the Persian Gulf Lloyd Weeks, 2022-08-01 This volume examines the earliest production and exchange of copper and its alloys in the Persian Gulf a major metal supply route for the Bronze Age societies of Western Asia Weeks addresses the geological and technological background to copper production in southeastern Arabia and contextualizes evidence for major fluctuations in prehistoric copper production The core of the volume consists of compositional and isotopic analyses The relationship between specialized copper production exchange and the development of social complexity in early Arabia is examined and the author addresses the broader archaeological issue of the Bronze Age tin trade which linked vast areas of Western Asia from the Indo Iranian borderlands to the Aegean in the third millennium BC Urban Elite Culture Luisa Radohs, 2023-10-09 Medieval towns were vibrant and complex social environments where diverse groups and lifestyles encountered and influenced each other Surprisingly in the study of urban archaeology the aristocracy one of the leading and most influential groups in medieval society has so far been neglected This book puts aristocracy in towns on the archaeological research agenda The interdisciplinary and comparative study explores the significance and representation of aristocrats and their interaction with civic elites in sea trading towns of the southwestern Baltic from the 12th to the 14th centuries Essentially however the analysis of urban elite culture leads to discussion of a much more fundamental issue the informative value of material culture for the investigation of social conditions The book provides new archaeological approaches to the study of social differentiation in towns and contributes to a deeper understanding of the complexity of urban social structures Object and Economy in Medieval Winchester Martin Biddle, 2025-04-03 Over 6000 objects were recovered during the Winchester excavations 1961 1971 offering insight not only into the industries and arts but the economic cultural and social life of medieval Winchester This volume covers all the objects from the finest products of the Anglo Saxon goldsmith's skill to the iron tenter hooks of the cloth industry Multivariate Archaeology Torsten Madsen, 1988 The editor opens this volume with a discussion of multivariate statistics and their usefulness in archaeology Discarding inductive statistics he describes three multivariate deductive methods principal component principal coordinate and correspondence analyses Handbook of Archaeological Sciences A. Mark Pollard, Ruth Ann Armitage, Cheryl A. dating methods quaternary paleoenvironments human bioarchaeology biomolecular archaeology and archaeogenetics resource exploitation archaeological prospection and assessing the decay and conservation of specimens Overview chapters introduce readers to the relevance of each area followed by contributions from leading experts that provide detailed technical knowledge and application examples Readers will also find A thorough introduction to human bioarchaeology including hominin evolution and paleopathology The use of biomolecular analysis to characterize past environments Novel approaches to the analysis of archaeological materials that shed new light on early human lifestyles and societies In depth explorations of the statistical and computational methods relevant to archaeology Perfect for graduate and advanced undergraduate students of archaeology the Handbook of Archaeological Sciences will also earn a prominent place in the libraries of researchers and professionals with an interest in the geological biological and genetic basis of archaeological studies

Integrating Zooarchaeology and Paleoethnobotany Amber VanDerwarker,Tanya M. Peres,2010-01-22 In recent years scholars have emphasized the need for more holistic subsistence analyses and collaborative publications towards this endeavor have become more numerous in the literature However there are relatively few attempts to qualitatively integrate zooarchaeological animal and paleoethnobotanical plant data and even fewer attempts to quantitatively integrate these two types of subsistence evidence Given the vastly different methods used in recovering and quantifying these data not to mention their different preservational histories it is no wonder that so few have undertaken this problem Integrating Zooarchaeology and Paleoethnobotany takes the lead in tackling this important issue by addressing the methodological limitations of data integration proposing new methods and innovative ways of using established methods and highlighting case studies that successfully employ these methods to shed new light on ancient foodways The volume challenges the perception that plant and animal foodways are distinct and contends that the separation of the analysis of archaeological plant and animal remains sets up a false dichotomy between these portions of the diet In advocating qualitative and quantitative data integration the volume establishes a clear set of methods for 1 determining the suitability of data integration in any particular case and 2 carrying out an integrated qualitative or quantitative approach

Bioarchaeology of East Asia Kate Pechenkina,Marc Oxenham,2025-04-01 A collection of research on migration diet and health in the past across a culturally complex region Bioarchaeology of East Asia integrates studies on migration diet and diverse aspects of health through the study of human skeletal collections in a region that developed varying forms of agriculture East Asia s complex population movements and cultural practices provide biological markers that allow for the testing of multiple hypotheses about interactions in past communities Exploring the interplay between humans and their environments this volume considers millet agriculture mobile pastoralism with limited cereal farming and rice farming in combination with reliance on marine resources Many of these rare subsistence strategies are more or less exclusive to East Asia These advanced contributions will significantly boost collaborative work among bioarchaeologists and other scientists working in the region A volume in the series Bioarchaeological Interpretations of the Human Past Local Regional and Global Perspectives edited by Clark Spencer Larsen Gathering at Silver Glen Gilmore, Zackary I, 2016-06-21 Broadening our understanding of southeastern hunter gatherers who lived between 4600 and 3500 BP Zackary Gilmore presents evidence that the Late Archaic community of Silver Glen one of Florida's most elaborate shell mound complexes integrated people and places from throughout Florida by staging large scale feasts and other public events Gilmore analyzes the composition and style of pottery at the site revealing that many of the large elaborately decorated vessels from the shell mounds were imports with nonlocal origins His findings indicate that the people of Silver Glen frequently hosted large scale gatherings that helped to create a sense of community among culturally diverse groups with homelands separated by hundreds of kilometers The history of Florida's Late Archaic hunter gatherers is shown here to be much more dynamic than traditionally thought
