Municipal Reform And The Industrial City:

Municipal Reform and the Industrial City Derek Fraser, 1982      The Emergence of Stability in the Industrial City Martin Hewitt, 2016-12-05 The rapid eclipse of Chartism and the relative tranquility of the period 1848-67 has been one of the most enduring puzzles of nineteenth century British history. This book takes a fresh look at this conundrum, treating the period between the Reform Acts of 1832 and 1867 as a coherent whole for the first time. It suggests that previous depictions of 1848 as a watershed in British history have both exaggerated the nature of the transitions which occurred at mid-century and have overestimated both the collapse of radical attitudes and the fading of working class resentment. The experiences of the Manchester working class show that poverty, unemployment and hardship persisted through the mid-Victorian boom. While some workers may have taken advantage of economic opportunities and the various movements of social and moral reform promoted by the middle class to acquire respectability in general, attempts at middle class moral imperialism brought only marginal changes to popular culture and attitudes. Instead, it is argued, the roots of the radical collapse and of political stability lie elsewhere, in the initial failure of radical leaders to sustain a firm consensus on effective strategies of reform and in changes in the political culture of the mid-century city which closed off spaces in which independent working class politics could continue to function. In the context of the most important industrial city of the era, this study provides a wide-ranging analysis of the complex forces which forged the uneasy compromise on which mid-nineteenth century stability rested.

Intelligent Town Louise Miskell, 2019-09-15 This is the first full-length study of Swansea's urban development from the late eighteenth to the late nineteenth century. It tells the little-known story of how Swansea gained an unrivalled position of influence as an urban centre which led it briefly to claim to be the metropolis of Wales and how it then lost this status in the face of rapid urban development elsewhere in Wales. As such, it provides an important new perspective on Welsh urban history in which the role of Cardiff, Merthyr Tydfil and even Bristol are better known as towns of influence in Welsh urban life. It also offers an analysis of how Swansea's experience of urbanisation fits into the wider picture of British urban history.

Who Ran the Cities? Ralf Roth, 2017-03-02 The question of who actually ran cities in the eighteenth, nineteenth and twentieth centuries has been increasingly debated in recent years. As well as trying to understand the distribution of political power and the rise of broad political participation, urban historians have questioned how and whether elites retained influence in municipal government. The essays in this collection provide a detailed examination of the relationship between urban elites and the exercise of power, bringing together economic, social and cultural history with the political history of power, resources and decision-making. The volume challenges common perceptions of a monolithic urban elite by looking at specific case studies. Collectively, these essays provide a more sophisticated view of the exercise of urban power as the negotiation of various elite groups defined by their economic, social, political or cultural privilege. To contribute to this complex account of the history of cities, elites and their influence, the collection applies a range of methodological approaches.

to studying European and American cities as well as the wider world

Government and Community in the English Provinces, 1700-1870 David Eastwood, 1997-06-09 In this bold and original study David Eastwood offers a reinterpretation of politics and public life in provincial England He explores the ways in which power was exercised and reconstructs the social and cultural foundations of political authority in provincial England Professor Eastwood demonstrates the crucial role played by local elites in policy making and shows how English public institutions and political culture can only be understood in terms of the long run development of the English state

Body and City Sally Sheard, Helen Power, 2017-07-05 A provocative survey of new research in the history of urban public health Body and City links the approaches of demographic and medical history with the methodologies of urban history and historical geography It challenges older methodologies offering new insights into the significance of cultural history which has largely been overlooked by previous histories of public health This book explores important issues and experiences in the public health arena in diverse European settings from the Middle Ages to the early 20th century

Glasgow: 1830 to 1912 Thomas Martin Devine, 1995 Covering the period of political reform at the beginning of the 1830s to the great expansion of the city's boundaries in 1912 it examines the adjustments which had to be made to cope with some of the fastest urban growth in Europe Particular attention is paid to the people institutions and power structures as Glasgow's intricate class profile is unravelled and the pivotal role of politics and government is fully explored

A Mad, Bad, and Dangerous People? Boyd Hilton, 2008-06-19 In a period scarred by apprehensions of revolution war invasion poverty and disease elite members of society lived in fear of revolt Boyd Hilton examines the changes in society between 1783 1846 and the transformations from raffish and rakish behaviour to the new norms of Victorian respectability

Towns, Plans and Society in Modern Britain Helen Meller, 1997-08-07 In this concise survey Helen Meller aims to explore the interaction of the social and physical environment of cities All modern societies have experienced mass urbanisation and have been subject to the economic social and technological forces which have produced this urbanisation Yet all towns and cities are not the same The author points out that historical and cultural factors have played and are still playing an important part in shaping responses to these forces This becomes even more clearly evident when the urban environment becomes subject to planning Urban regeneration has facilitated not just an improvement in the physical environment of cities but in their economic and social fortunes as well This study is an accessible analysis of the way in which social cultural and physical factors have created the quality of life in British cities over the past two centuries

Crime Control and Everyday Life in the Victorian City David Churchill, 2017-12-29 The history of modern crime control is usually presented as a narrative of how the state wrested control over the governance of crime from the civilian public Most accounts trace the decline of a participatory discretionary culture of crime control in the early modern era and its replacement by a centralized bureaucratic system of responding to offending The formation of the new professional police forces in the nineteenth century is central to this narrative henceforth it is claimed the priorities of criminal justice were to be set by the state as ordinary people lost what authority they had once exercised over dealing with offenders This book challenges this established view and presents a fundamental reinterpretation of changes to crime control in the age of the new police It breaks new ground by providing a highly detailed empirical analysis of everyday crime control in Victorian provincial cities revealing the tremendous activity which ordinary people displayed in responding to crime alongside a rich survey of police organization and policing in practice With unique conceptual clarity it seeks to reorient modern criminal justice history away from its established preoccupation with state systems of policing and punishment and move towards a more nuanced analysis of the governance of crime More widely the book provides a unique and valuable vantage point from which to rethink the role of civil society and the state in modern governance the nature of agency and authority in Victorian England and the historical antecedents of pluralized modes of crime control which characterize contemporary society      English Industrial Cities of the Nineteenth Century Richard Dennis,1986-07-17 In the first full length treatment of nineteenth century urbanism from a geographical perspective Richard Dennia focuses on the industrial towns and cities of Lancashire Yorkshire the Midlands and South Wales that epitomised the spirit of the new age      The Poverty of Planning Benno Engels,2021-01-15 Using a neo Marxian perspective Benno Engels examines the absence of urban planning in nineteenth century England In his analysis of urbanization in England Engels considers the influences of property owners inheritance laws local government structures fiscal crises of the local and central state shifts in voter sentiments fluctuating economic conditions and class based pressure group activity      The politics of housing Peter Shapely,2017-10-03 Exploring the politics of housing during 1890 1990 this fascinating study examines the interaction not only of national and local politics but also of local factors such as civic culture key local players local discourse and geographical and demographic problems This book argues that increasingly tenants acted as consumers of a public service and it questions the way in which notions of consumerism shaped responses to the housing debate An analysis of the impact of legislation on housing policy in different cities is provided as well as a more detailed account of the politics of housing in Manchester including the Victorian legacy the emergence of local government intervention post war overspill estates new system built flats and their rapid deterioration rising tenant anger and protests and the beginning of a new approach based on consultation and partnerships The book will be of value to anyone studying urban history politics governance civic culture social policy and society      Corruption in Urban Politics and Society, Britain 1780-1950 James R. Moore,John Smith,2007-01-01 This collection of eleven essays looks at issues of corruption in urban Britain from 1780 1950 The contributions are drawn from a wide range of scholarly and disciplinary backgrounds and provide a broad analysis of the phenomenon of corruption assessing how debates about corruption arose the narratives used to criticise established modes of public conduct and their consequences for urban leadership      Dublin's Bourgeois Homes Susan Galavan,2017-04-28 In 1859 Dubliners strolling along country roads witnessed something new emerging from the green fields The Victorian house had arrived wide red brick structures stood back behind manicured front lawns Over the next forty years an estimated 35 000 of these homes were constructed in the fields surrounding the city The most elaborate were built for Dublin s upper middle classes distinguished by their granite staircases and decorative entrances Today they are some of the Irish capital s most highly valued structures and are protected under strict conservation laws Dublin s Bourgeois Homes is the first in depth analysis of the city s upper middle class houses Focusing on the work of three entrepreneurial developers Susan Galavan follows in their footsteps as they speculated in house building signing leases acquiring plots and sourcing bricks and mortar She analyses a select range of homes in three different districts Ballsbridge Rathgar and Kingstown now Dun Laoghaire exploring their architectural characteristics from external form to plan type and detailing of materials Using measured surveys photographs and contemporary drawings and maps she shows how house design evolved over time as bay windows pushed through fa ades and new lines of coloured brick were introduced Taking the reader behind the fa ades into the interiors she shows how domestic space reflected the lifestyle and aspirations of the Victorian middle classes This analysis of the planning design and execution of Dublin s bourgeois homes is an original contribution to the history of an important city in the British Empire Historical Geography of England and Wales Robert A. Dodgshon, Robin A. Butlin, 2013-10-22 This text has been designed to cover all aspects and phases of the historical geography of England and Wales in a single volume In its substantially revised and enlarged form the treatment of standard themes has been completely re written to take account of recent work and shifts in viewpoint while its overall coverage has been extended to embrace newer themes like symbolic landscapes and the geography of the inter war period Its comprehensiveness and freshness of approach ensure its continuing value and success as a text Breadth of coverage from prehistory to 1939 Uses a range of data sources and approaches Well illustrated with particular emphasis on key themes Major revision of 1st edition with much wider range of topics The Victorian Art School Ranald Lawrence, 2020-09-02 The Victorian Art School documents the history of the art school in the nineteenth century from its origins in South Kensington to its proliferation through the major industrial centres of Britain Charles Rennie Mackintosh s Glasgow School of Art together with earlier examples in Manchester and Birmingham demonstrate an unprecedented concern for the provision of plentiful light and air amidst the pollution of the Victorian city As theories of design education and local governance converged they also reveal the struggle of the provincial city for cultural independence from the capital Examining innovations in the use of new technologies and approaches in the design of these buildings The Victorian Art School offers a unique and explicitly environmental reading of the Victorian city It examines how art schools complemented civic Improvement programmes their contribution to the evolution of art pedagogy the tensions that arose between the provincial schools and the capital and the role they would play in reimagining the relationship between art and public life in a rapidly transforming society The architects of these buildings synthesised the potential of art with the perfection of the internal environment indelibly shaping the future cultural life of Britain Deprivation, State

Interventions and Urban Communities in Britain, 1968-79 Peter Shapely, 2017-08-16 Focusing on a series of policy initiatives from the late 1960s through to the end of the 1970s this book looks at how successive governments tried to address growing concerns about urban deprivation across Britain It provides unique insights into policy and governance and into the socio economic and cultural causes and consequences of poverty Starting with the impact of redevelopment policies immigration and the rise of the inner city this book examines the pressures and challenges that explain the development of policy by successive Labour and Conservative governments It looks at the effectiveness and limits of different community development approaches and at the inadequacies of policy in tackling urban deprivation In doing so the book highlights the restricted impact of pilot projects and reform of public services in resolving deprivation as well as the broader limits of social planning and state welfare Crucially it also plots the shift in policy from an emphasis on achieving statutory service efficiencies and rolling out social development programmes towards an ever greater stress on regeneration and support for private capital as the solution to transforming the inner city

Middle-class Life in Victorian Belfast Alice Johnson, 2020 Middle Class Life in Victorian Belfast vividly reconstructs the social world of upper middle class Belfast from c 1830 to 1890 Using extensive primary material the book draws a rich portrait of Belfast's middle class society covering themes of civic activism working lives philanthropy associational culture evangelicalism recreation marriage and family life

The Rule of Freedom Patrick Joyce, 2003 The liberal governance of the nineteenth century state and city depended on the rule of freedom As a form of rule it relied on the production of certain kinds of citizens and patterns of social life which in turn depended on transforming both the material form of the city its layout architecture infrastructure and the ways it was inhabited and imagined by its leaders citizens and custodians Focusing mainly on London and Manchester but with reference also to Glasgow Dublin Paris Vienna colonial India and even contemporary Los Angeles Patrick Joyce creatively and originally develops Foucauldian approaches to historiography to reflect on the nature of modern liberal society His consideration of such artifacts as maps and censuses sewers and markets public libraries and parks and of civic governments and city planning are intertwined with theoretical interpretations to examine both the impersonal often invisible forms of social direction and control built into the infrastructure of modern life and the ways in which these mechanisms both shape culture and social life and engender popular resistance
