time when the industry lacked the capacity to critique itself While the young studio system worked tirelessly to burnish its public image in the wake of celebrity scandal several industry insiders wrote fiction to fill in what newspapers and fan magazines left out Throughout the 1920s and 1930s these novels aimed to expose the invisible machinery of classical Hollywood cinema including not only the evolving artifice of the screen but also the promotional discourse that complemented it As likeminded filmmakers in the 1940s and 1950s gradually brought the dark side of the industry to the screen however the Hollywood novel found itself struggling to live up to its original promise of delivering the unfilmable By the 1960s desperate to remain relevant the genre had devolved into little more than erotic fantasy of movie stars behind closed doors perhaps the only thing the public couldn't already find elsewhere Still given their unique ability to speak beyond the institutional restraints of their time these earlier works offer a window into the industry's dynamic creation and re-creation of itself in the public imagination
