Pietz, Dorothy Zeisler-Vralsted, 2021-08-18 This book explores the historical relationships between human communities and water Bringing together for the first time key texts from across the literature it discusses how the past has shaped our contemporary challenges with equitable access to clean and ample water supplies The book is organized into chapters that explore thematic issues in water history including Water and Civilizations Water and Health Water and Equity and Water and Sustainability Each chapter is introduced by a critical overview of the theme followed by four primary and secondary readings that discuss critical nodes in the historical and contemporary development of each chapter theme Further readings at the end of each chapter invite the reader to further explore the dynamics of each theme The foundational premise of the book is that in order to comprehend the complexity of global water challenges we need to understand the history of cultural forces that have shaped our water practices These historical patterns shape the range of choices available to us as we formulate responses to water challenges The book will be a valuable resource to all students interested in understanding the challenges of water use today Introducing the Mythological Crescent Harald Haarmann, Joan Marler, 2008 There is a broad cultural region with related traditions of mythical beliefs interconnected by long term contacts during prehistoric times This area called here the Mythological Crescent is a zone of cultural convergence that extends from the ancient Middle East via Anatolia to southeastern Europe opening into the wide cultural landscape of Eurasia The very old interconnections between Eurasia and Anatolia are explored in this study for the first time In a comparative view striking similarities can be reconstructed for the ancient belief systems and the imagery of both regions which suggest convergent

cosmological conceptualizations of high age The beliefs and ritual practices of the indigenous peoples of Eurasia are rooted in the shamanism of the oldest cultural layers of the Palaeolithic Although socioeconomic development in Anatolia was markedly different from cultural evolution in Eurasia the hunters and gatherers in Anatolia who adopted sedentary lifeways did not entirely lose their ancient beliefs during the transition to plant cultivation in the eighth millennium BCE Archaic beliefs and imagery fused with new practices and innovations during the development of agrarian societies One diagnostic motif which was perpetuated from the Palaeolithic to the Neolithic and beyond is represented by the production of female figurines statuettes Their significance for communal life has been linked to spiritual concepts of the continuity of life the vegetation cycle and the protection of the natural habitat of all living things as recorded in myths and historical folk art of Uralic and other peoples The bear plays a significant role as a mythical animal in the imagery of Eurasia whereas this motif was lost in Anatolia during the transition from antiquity to the Middle Ages
