Looking At New Zealand 8th Annual Edition:

Selling Britishness Felicity Barnes, 2022-08-15 From the 1920s until the outbreak of the Second World War Australia Canada and New Zealand filled British shop windows newspaper columns and cinema screens with British to the core Canadian apples British to the backbone New Zealand lamb and All British Australian butter In remarkable yet forgotten advertising campaigns prime ministers touring cricketers lady demonstrators and even boxing kangaroos were pressed into service to sell more Dominion produce to British shoppers But as they sold apples and butter these campaigns also sold a Dominion styled British identity Selling Britishness explores the role of commodity marketing in creating Britishness Dominion settlers considered themselves British and marketed their commodities accordingly Meanwhile ambitious Dominion advertising agencies set up shop in London to bring British goods like Ovaltine back to the dominions and persuade their fellow citizens to buy British Conventionally nationalist narratives have posited the growth of independent national identities during the interwar period though some have suggested imperial sentiment endured Felicity Barnes takes a new approach arguing that far from shaking off or relying on any lasting sense of Britishness Dominion marketing produced it Selling Britishness shows that when constructing Britishness advertisers employed imperial hierarchies of race class and gender Consumption worked to bolster colonialism and advertising extended imperial power into the everyday Drawing on extensive new archives Selling Britishness explores a shared British identity constructed by marketers and advertisers during advertising s golden age Foreign Agricultural Economic Report ,1974 Foreign Agricultural Economic Report United States Department of Agriculture. Economic Research Service,1961 Bulletin ,1927 Brands, Geographical Origin, and the Global Economy David M. Higgins,2018-05-26 Indications of geographic origin for foodstuffs and manufactures have become an important source of brand value since the beginnings of globalization during the late nineteenth century In this work David M Higgins explores the early nineteenth century business campaigns to secure national and international protection of geographic brands He shows how these efforts culminated in the introduction of legal protocols which protect such brands including Champagne Sheffield Swiss made watches and Made in the USA Higgins explores the major themes surrounding these indications tying in the history of global marketing and the relevant laws on intellectual property He also questions the effectiveness of European Union policy to promote regional and local foods and why such initiatives brought the EU in conflict with North America especially the US He extends the study with a reflection on contemporary issues affecting globalization intellectual property less developed countries and supply chains Biological Economies Richard Le Heron,Hugh Campbell,Nick Lewis,Michael Carolan,2016-01-22 Recent agri food studies including commodity systems the political economy of agriculture regional development and wider examinations of the rural dimension in economic geography and rural sociology have been confronted by three challenges These can be summarized as more than human approaches to economic life a post structural political economy of food and agriculture and calls for more enactive performative research approaches This volume describes the genealogy of such approaches drawing on the reflective insights of more than five years of international engagement and research It demonstrates the kinds of new work being generated under these approaches and provides a means for exploring how they should be all understood as part of the same broader need to review theory and methods in the study of food agriculture rural development and economic geography This radical collective approach is elaborated as the Biological Economies approach The authors break out from traditional categories of analysis reconceptualising materialities and reframing economic assemblages as biological economies based on the notion of all research being enactive or performative

Remaking New Zealand and Australian Economic Policy Shaun Goldfinch,2000 During the 1980s and early 1990s both Australia and New Zealand extensively deregulated their economies moving to become amongst the most liberal economies in the OECD Shaun Goldfinch interviewed more than 180 leading policy makers in Australia and New Zealand including former prime ministers ministers of finance treasurers public servants and other policy elites and examined primary government sources to demonstrate the reasons and processes involved in this remarkable period of economic reform This major comparative study sheds new light on economic policy making and change including the role of economic ideas and the importance of institutions and policy communities It contrasts the crash through approach that characterised reform in New Zealand with the bargained consensus that underpinned changes in Australia Finally it asks the critical question Has the New Zealand approach to policy change delivered better policy outcomes Mining and Scientific Press ,1915 New Zealand in World Affairs IV 1990-2005 Roderic Alley,New Zealand Institute of International Affairs,2007 At the beginning of 1990 the Berlin Wall had just fallen few believed that there was any serious threat to the environment 9 11 was just any date the Pacific was seen largely as an idyllic and stable region and Iraq was just another Middle Eastern state By 2005 Iraq meant two wars the Cold War had been replaced by the war on terror East Timor Bougainville Fiji and the Solomons were all synonyms for strife and instability in the region and sustainability global warming and climate change were everyday topics New Zealand in World Affairs IV surveys the period 1990-2005 provides a record of New Zealand's major international preoccupations describes how they were officially handled and makes assessments of how effectively the challenges were interpreted and acted upon This authoritative collection of essays the fourth in a series commissioned by the New Zealand Institute of International Affairs completes a survey of New Zealand's foreign relations since World War II
