Republics of Knowledge Nicola Miller, 2020-10-20 Republics of Knowledge tells the story of how the circulation of knowledge shaped the formation of nation states in Latin America and particularly in Argentina Peru and Chile during the century after Iberian rule was defeated in the 1820s Most immediately the author has sought to provide a cross disciplinary approach to the history of knowledge combining the methods of global intellectual history with a new way of thinking about nations as experienced and enacted as well as how they are imagined and in so doing offer a new interpretation of the history of independent Latin America to illustrate its wider significance in the making of the modern world By bringing these lines of inquiry together within a transnational framework Nicola Miller shows how evidence from the pioneering nations of Latin America can invite historians to rethink many of their general theories about how knowledge travels and how a sense of nationhood is created The book is designed to stimulate debate about the significance of knowledge not only in Latin America but in all modern societies As Miller explains Latin America is usually regarded as an exception to general theories notably of colonialism nationalism and liberalism and yet it was in that part of the world not in Europe that the Age of Revolution brought the founding of a second wave of modern republics and it was in Latin America that pioneering attempts were made to apply liberal principles in societies with inherited caste divisions and corporate institutions. It was there that some of the richest debates about the vexed relationship between collective identities and individualism took place.

Trials of Nation Making Brooke Larson, 2004-01-19 This book offers the first interpretive synthesis of the history of Andean peasants and the challenges of nation making in the four republics of Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, and Bolivia during the turbulent nineteenth century. Nowhere in Latin America were postcolonial transitions more vexed or violent than in the Andes where communal indigenous roots grew deep and where the Indian problem seemed so daunting to liberalizing states. Brooke Larson paints vivid portraits of Creole ruling elites and native peasantries engaged in ongoing political and moral battles over the rightful place of the Indian majorities in these emerging nation states. In this story, indigenous people emerge as crucial protagonists through their prosaic struggles for land, community, and ethnic identity as well as in the upheaval of war, rebellion, and repression in rural society. This book raises broader issues about the interplay of liberalism, racism, and ethnicity in the formation of exclusionary republics without citizens.

The Hispanic World and American Intellectual Life, 1820-1880 I. Jaksic, 2012-01-14 This book examines why several American literary and intellectual icons became pioneering scholars of the Hispanic world after Independence and the War of 1812. At this crucial time for the young republic, these gifted Americans found inspiration in an unlikely place: the collapsing Spanish empire, and used it to shape their own country's identity.

The Panama Railroad Peter Pyne, 2021-03-30 In 1848 a group of ambitious American entrepreneurs decided to embark upon a remarkable engineering feat: they would build a railroad across the Isthmus of Panama to connect the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. The creation of the Panama Railroad ranks as one of the boldest capitalist ventures in the 19th century and would require battling climate, disease, and geography before it was completed. On a human level, it would transform the destiny of thousands of lives in America, Panama, the West Indies, and Asia, as well as in Ireland. The Panama Railroad provides the first comprehensive account of the railroad's construction, going well beyond the known stories of the titans of industry involved with its construction, such as William Aspinwall, George Law, and Cornelius Vanderbilt. It seeks to correct false claims and address numerous gaps in past histories and, in particular, showcases the stories of the ordinary Irish workers willing to travel halfway around the globe to pursue an uncertain future and a perilous undertaking in the hopes of escaping the devastating aftermath of the Great Famine of 1845-49.

Inventing Indigenism Natalia Majluf, 2021-12-21 2023 ALAA Book Award Association for Latin American Art Arvey Foundation A fascinating account of the modern reinvention of the image of the Indian in nineteenth-century literature and visual culture, seen through the work of Peruvian painter Francisco Laso. One of the outstanding painters of the nineteenth century, Francisco Laso (1823-1869) set out to give visual form to modern Peru. His solemn and still paintings of indigenous subjects were part of a larger project spurred by writers and intellectuals actively crafting a nation in the aftermath of independence from Spain In this book at once an innovative account of modern indigenism and the first major monograph on Laso Natalia Majluf explores the rise of the image of the Indian in literature and visual culture Reading Laso s works through a broad range of sources Majluf traces a decisive break in a long history of representations of indigenous peoples that began with the Spanish conquest She ties this transformation to the modern concept of culture which redefined both the artistic field and the notion of indigeneity As an abstraction produced through indigenist discourse an icon of authenticity and a densely racialized cultural construct the Indian would emerge as a central symbol of modern Andean nationalisms Inventing Indigenism brings the work and influence of this extraordinary painter to the forefront as it offers a broad perspective on the dynamics of art and visual culture in nineteenth century Latin America History and Language in the Andes P. Heggarty,A. Pearce,2011-11-21

The modern world began with the clash of civilisations between Spaniards and native Americans Their interplay and struggles ever since are mirrored in the fates of the very languages they spoke The conquistadors wrought theirs into a new world language yet the Andes still host the New World s greatest linguistic survivor Quechua Historians and linguists see this through different but complementary perspectives This book is a meeting of minds long overdue to weave them together It ranges from Inca collapse to the impacts of colonial rule reform independence and the modern day trends that so threaten native language here with its ultimate demise Irrigation and Society in the Peruvian Desert Katharina Jeanne

Schreiber,Josue Lancho Rojas,2003-01-01 Nasca once home to a sophisticated ancient culture is an improbable paradise a verdant landscape in the middle of the Peruvian coastal desert one of the driest places on the face of the Earth Irrigation and Society The Puquios of Nasca looks at the legendary puquios of Nasca the underground aqueduct system built by Incans which is arguably responsible for this strange abundance of water Authors Katharina Schreiber and Josue Rojas explore the puquios their probable means of construction their function in ancient society and how they are used today Few ancient cultures were as knowledgeable about water or as technologically adept at accessing it and Schreiber and Rojas provide a fascinating glimpse of an ancient society through the seemingly mundane act of transporting water Irrigation and Society is much more than a simple treatise on water distribution it is a detailed examination of the role of large scale irrigation in the emergence of soci political complexity Andean Archaeology III William Isbell,Helaine Silverman,2008-02-01

The third volume in the Andean Archaeology series this book focuses on the marked cultural differences between the northern and southern regions of the Central Andes and considers the conditions under which these differences evolved grew pronounced and diminished This book continues the dynamic current problem oriented approach to the field of Andean Archaeology that began with Andean Archaeology I and Andean Archaeology II Combines up to date research diverse theoretical platforms and far reaching interpretations to draw provocative and thoughtful conclusions The Chankas and the Priest Sabine

Hyland,2016-05-02 How does society deal with a serial killer in its midst What if the murderer is a Catholic priest living among native villagers in colonial Peru In The Chankas and the Priest Sabine Hyland chronicles the horrifying story of Father Juan Bautista de Albad n a Spanish priest to the Chanka people of Pampachiri in Peru from 1601 to 1611 During his reign of terror over his Andean parish Albad n was guilty of murder sexual abuse sadistic torture and theft from his parishioners amassing a personal fortune at their expense For ten years he escaped punishment for these crimes by deceiving and outwitting his superiors in the colonial government and church administration Drawing on a remarkable collection of documents found in archives in the Americas and Europe including a rare cache of Albad n s candid family letters Hyland reveals what life was like for the Chankas under this corrupt and brutal priest and how his actions sparked the instability that would characterize Chanka political and social history for the next 123 years Through this tale she vividly portrays the colonial church and state of Peru as well as the history of Chanka ethnicity the nature of Spanish colonialism and the changing nature of Chanka politics and kinship from the fifteenth to the eighteenth century The Plebeian Republic Cecilia Méndez, 2005-04-21 Examines the politics of a 19th c peasant revolt in Peru looking at the organization and practice of government by the rebels to examine what a largely illiterate population understood by terms such as nation and showing the rebellion s sign Mountains: Physical, Human-Environmental, and Sociocultural Dynamics Mark A. Fonstad, 2018-12-07 Mountains have captured the interests and passions of people for thousands of years Today millions of people live within mountain regions and mountain regions are often areas of accelerated environmental change This edited volume highlights new understanding of mountain environments and mountain peoples around the world The understanding of mountain environments and peoples has been a focus of individual researchers for centuries more recently the interest in mountain regions among researchers has been growing rapidly The articles contained within are from a wide spectrum of researchers from different parts of the world who address physical political theoretical social empirical environmental methodological and economic issues focused on the geography of mountains and their inhabitants The articles in this special issue are organized into three themed sections with very loose boundaries between themes 1 physical dynamics of mountain environments 2 coupled human physical dynamics and 3 sociocultural dynamics in mountain regions This book was first published as a special issue of the Annals of the American Association of Geographers Nature and Culture in the Andes Daniel W. Gade, 1999 Essays describe how the Andean Indians respond to environmental conditions and the plants and animals with which they live Framing a Lost City Amy Cox Hall, 2017-11-22 When Hiram Bingham a historian from Yale University first saw Machu Picchu in 1911 it was a ruin obscured by overgrowth whose terraces were farmed a by few families A century later Machu Picchu is a UNESCO world heritage site visited by more than a million tourists annually This remarkable transformation began with the photographs that accompanied Bingham s article published in National Geographic magazine which depicted Machu Picchu as a lost city discovered Focusing on the practices technologies and materializations of Bingham s three expeditions to Peru 1911 1912 1914 1915 this book makes a convincing case that visualization particularly through the camera played a decisive role in positioning Machu Picchu as both a scientific discovery and a Peruvian heritage site Amy Cox Hall argues that while Bingham's expeditions relied on the labor knowledge and support of Peruvian elites intellectuals and peasants the practice of scientific witnessing and photography specifically converted Machu Picchu into a cultural artifact fashioned from a distinct way of seeing Drawing on science and technology studies she situates letter writing artifact collecting and photography as important expeditionary practices that helped shape the way we understand Machu Picchu today Cox Hall also demonstrates that the photographic evidence was unstable and as images circulated worldwide the lost city took on different meanings especially in Peru which came to view the site as one of national patrimony in need of protection from expeditions such as Bingham's

The Colonial Andes Elena Phipps, Johanna Hecht, Cristina Esteras Martín, Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.), 2004 The arrival of the Spanish in South America in 1532 permanently transformed the Andean cultural landscape Within a generation societies that had developed over thousands of years including the great Inca Empire had been irrevocably altered The arts from the Spanish colonial period those that drew on native traditions such as textiles silver woodwork and stonework as well as painting sculpture and other genres introduced by the Spanish preserve an unspoken dialogue that developed between Andean and European modes of expression This beautiful book presents silver objects textiles and other masterpieces of colonial Andean culture Essays discuss the artistry of this culture and explain how it has been recently reevaluated and celebrated for its vibrant energy reflecting the convergence of two essentially distinct cultural traditions This book accompanies an exhibition at The Metropolitan Museum of Art September 29 to December 12 2004 Elena Phipps is conservator Textile Conservation and Johanna Hecht is associate curator European Sculpture and Decorative Arts at The Metropolitan Museum of Art

Relics of the Past Stefanie Gänger, 2014-05 Relics of the Past tells the story of antiquities collecting antiquarianism and archaeology in Cuzco and Lima over the Araucanian territories and the War of the Pacific in the second half of the nineteenth and the early twentieth century While the role of foreign travellers and scholars dedicated to the study of South America's pre-Columbian past is well documented historians have largely overlooked the knowledge gathered and the collections formed among collectors of antiquities antiquaries and archaeologists born or living in South America during this period The landed gentry the clergy and an urban bourgeoisie of doctors engineers and military officials put antiquities on display in their private mansions or bestowed them upon the public museums that were being formed by municipalities and governments in Santiago de Chile Cuzco or Lima Men and some few women gathered antiquities on their journeys inland and during sociable weekend excursions but also on quotidian commercial voyages or in military campaigns They bartered antiquities with their fellow collectors or haggled about their price on the antiquities market In their hours of leisure they marvelled at them wrote about them and disputed over their meaning age and interest in learned societies informal gatherings and at meetings in universities and public museums This volume unveils a hitherto largely unknown world of antiquarian and archaeological Globalization and New Geographies of Conservation Karl S.

Zimmerer, 2006-09-15 Examining the geographical dimensions of environmental management and conservation activities implemented on landscapes worldwide Globalization and New Geographies of Conservation creates a new framework and collects original case studies to explore recent developments in the interaction of humans and their environment Globalization and New Geographies of Conservation makes four important arguments about the recent coupling of conservation and globalization that is reshaping the place of nature in human environmental change First it has led to an unprecedented number of spatial arrangements whose environmental management goals and prescribed activities vary along a spectrum from strict biodiversity protection to sustainable utilization involving agriculture food production and extractive activities Conservation and globalization are also leading by necessity to new scales of management in these activities that rely on environmental science thus shifting the spatial patterning of humans and the environment This interaction results as well in the unprecedented importance of boundaries and borders transnational border issues pose both opportunities and threats to global conservation proposed by organizations and institutions that are themselves international Lastly Globalization and New Geographies of Conservation argues that the local level has been integral to globalization while the regional level is often eclipsed at the peril of the successful implementation of conservation and management programs Bridging the gap between geography and life science Globalization and New Geographies of Conservation will appeal to a broad range of students of the environment conservation planning biodiversity management and development and globalization studies

Pampa Grande and the Mochica Culture Izumi Shimada, 2010-07-05

Pampa Grande the largest and most powerful city of the Mochica Moche culture on the north coast of Peru was built inhabited and abandoned during the period A D 550 700 It is extremely important archaeologically as one of the few pre Hispanic cities in South America for which there are enough reliable data to reconstruct a model of pre Hispanic urbanism This book presents a biography of Pampa Grande that offers a reconstruction not only of the site itself but also of the sociocultural and economic environment in which it was built and abandoned Izumi Shimada argues that Pampa Grande was established rapidly and without outside influence at a strategic position at the neck of the Lambayeque Valley that gave it control over intervalley canals and their agricultural potential and allowed it to gain political dominance over local populations Study of the site itself leads him to posit a large resident population made up of transplanted Mochica and local non Mochica groups with a social hierarchy of at least three tiers
