Panther-Brick,2007-12-19 Gandhi's involvement in Middle Eastern politics is largely forgotten yet it goes to the heart of his teaching and ambition to lead a united freedom movement against British colonial power Gandhi became involved in the politics of the Middle East as a result of his concern over the abolition of the Ottoman Caliphate following the First World War He subsequently at the invitation of the Jewish Agency sought to reconcile Jews and Arabs in a secret deal at the time of the Mandate of Palestine However Jewish and British interference coupled with the Arab Revolt and the rise of the Muslim League in India thwarted his efforts Like many who would follow Gandhi was unable to solve the problems of the Middle East but this book reveals his sincere and previously obscure attempt to do so In this ground breaking history Simone Panther Brick reveals a fascinating new facet of Gandhi's work and personality Drawing on recently discovered letters from Gandhi Panther Brick traces his development from his optimistic vision for the Middle East to his plans for a non violent solution and its ultimate failure Confronted by opposition on all sides Gandhi's experience in South Africa and India was not sufficient to enable him to resolve the Palestinians problems especially after he became embroiled in a political struggle with Jinnah and the Muslim League in India The British plan to partition Palestine also helped to derail Gandhi's plans for peace in the region Even the Jewish Agency refused Gandhi's proposed negotiations proposals that were never made public Despite Gandhi's conviction that peace in the Middle East was attainable he could not overcome these many obstacles Gandhi's experience in the Middle East was in marked contrast to his other successes around the world and is crucial for a full understanding of his life and teachings Gandhi in the Middle East offers many new and revealing insights into the goals and limits of an international statesman at a critical period of imperial history Let Me Stand Alone Rachel Corrie,2015-10-30 A testament to how deeply we need the power and vision and energy of young women to transform the world Eve Ensler Rachel Corrie's determination to make a better more peaceful world took her from Olympia Washington to the Middle East where she died in 2003 as she tried to block the demolition of a Palestinian family's home in the Gaza Strip A twenty three year old American activist Corrie also possessed a striking gift for poetry writing and drawing Let Me Stand Alone a selection of her journals letters and drawings as chosen by her family reveals her story in her own hand from her precocious reflections as a young girl to her final emails Corrie's words whether writing about the looming issues of our time or the ordinary angst of an American teen bring to life all that it means to come of age a dawning sense of self a thirst for one's own ideals and an evolving connection to others near and far Negotiating Arab-Israeli Peace Laura Zittrain Eisenberg,Neil

A New Beginning for Humankind R. B.

Herath, 2012-09 The world is reaching a nuclear tipping point and a catastrophe looms Even the United Nations can't seem to do anything about the threat Given the circumstances people everywhere need to unite to prevent a disaster In this new study peace activist R B Herath explains what's at stake and what everyday people can do to solve the problem Here are some of the questions Herath seeks to answer What are the major violent conflicts in the world today Is there any guarantee that none of the ongoing violent conflicts will deteriorate into a worldwide fiasco If there is no such guarantee what needs to be done to prevent such an eventuality Is there anything more to be done to ensure lasting peace on the planet By taking steps to prevent tension from building up to a tipping point and by building a stronger system of checks and balances it's possible to resolve conflicts at all levels through peaceful means Join Herath as he seeks to change habits that promote war to habits that promote peace in the face of the present troubled state of the world

Talking to

Terrorists Carolin Goerzig, 2010-06-17 This book examines the doctrine of giving no concessions to terrorists and uses empirical research to establish whether there is any link between negotiating with such groups and the spread of violence The logic of the no concessions doctrine is based on the argument that other terrorist groups multiply when they realize that terrorism succeeds in achieving political goals Proponents of the no concessions doctrine have argued that there is a pattern in terrorist contagion which results from giving in to their demands Statistical evidence for terrorist contagion is not convincing enough however as depicting an increase in terrorist incidences as a consequence of concessions could merely imply a flawed causality Without an explanation for such correlations we are left wondering whether other reasons could be decisive in the increase in terrorist actions Based on field research in four countries and interviews with current and former members of several different terrorist groups this book establishes a qualitative relationship between concessions to terrorists on the one hand and non contagion of other terrorist groups on the other The deterrence effect intended by the imperative never to concede is seriously challenged In fact it can be precisely through concessions that groups' mentalities and actions are called into question The book will be of great interest to students of terrorism and political violence war and conflict studies security studies and IR politics Carolin Goerzig is a Post Doctoral Fellow at the EU Institute for Security

Studies in Paris and has a PhD in Political Science from Ludwig Maximilians University of Munich
