The Borders of Empathy in Children's Fiction Macarena García-González,2025-06-16 The Borders of Empathy in Children s Fiction centres the question of how reading fiction develops our moral imagination and our capacities to think and feel with others The question is approached with a good dose of scepticism revising tensions between ethical aesthetical and pedagogical dimensions when certain books films and other cultural materials are recommended for children This volume examines how texts addressed to children are meant to assist socioemotional education and whether we put forward adultist assumptions around such conceptualisations of the emotional The book is organised into nine chapters with some of them focusing on difficult themes such as violence xenophobia death migration as well as gender and social exclusions and some others on more general relationships between emotions media and education The chapters combine a textual analysis of recommended cultural materials for children with insights from empirical research and ethnographic approaches to children s cultures A common thread throughout the book is the open question about the epistemic injustices in knowing children and childhood and how this may be overcome by shifting our research practices with posthumanist philosophies The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4 0 license Works: Ravenscliffe. 1851 Anne Marsh-Caldwell,1851

The Gods of Thought and Memory Trish Gauntlett,2021-07-30 A fresh start in Scotland s Orkney Islands is just what artist Caris MacLeod needs Leaving British Columbia and a broken marriage behind for the wild coast of Orkney Caris is immediately captivated by Mark Raffin a mysterious aloof neighbour who has an affinity for Orkney art Despite some tense encounters with Mark Caris soon feels welcome in the community She immerses herself in Orkney s spectacular beauty and its Norse history myths and legends which lift her creative spirit and inspire her to paint She even finds herself falling in love with Mark until she sees him with another woman When an Englishwoman Sarah buys Caris s artwork and invites her to a private showing in Yorkshire Caris becomes entangled in some deep family ties and dark history all linked to her new home in Orkney Navigating a world of myth lore dreams and a touch of magic Caris begins to learn that the truth may lie in the past and the path towards reconciliation is a more complicated journey than she could have imagined Mrs. Ravens

Littell,1871 The bride of Lammermoor Walter Scott,1902 Dreamslip Brian Caswell,2001 Rebecca and Martin are twins but they share much more than just a birthday When the memories surface and the dreamslips begin they are caught up in a dangerous sequence of events as varied as Time itself With your sister lost somewhere in history and all the Time in the world to choose from where do you start looking

The Living Age ,1871 Waverley Novels Walter Scott,1866 Sixteen Walter Scott novels in their original paper wrappers Honourable Intentions? Penny Russell,Nigel Worden,2016-03-22 Honourable Intentions compares the significance and strategic use of honour in two colonial societies the Cape Colony and the early British settlements in Australia between 1750 and 1850 The mobile populations of emigrants and sojourners sailors and soldiers merchants and traders slaves and convicts who surged into and through these regions are not usually associated with ideas of honour But in both societies competing and contradictory notions of honour proved integral to the ways in which colonisers and colonised free and unfree defended their status and insisted on their right to be treated with respect During these times of flux concepts of honour and status were radically reconstructed Each of the thirteen chapters considers honour in a particular sphere legal political religious or personal and in different contexts determined by the distinctive and changing matrix of race gender and class as well as the distinctions of free and unfree status in each colony Early chapters in the volume show how and why the political ideological and moral stakes of the concept of honour were particularly important in colonial societies later chapters look more closely at the social behaviour and the purchase of honour among specific groups Collectively the chapters show that there was no clear distinction between political and social life and that honour crossed between the public and private spheres This exciting new collection brings together new and established historians of Australia and South Africa to highlight thought provoking parallels and contrasts between the Cape and Australian colonies that will be of interest to all scholars of colonial societies and the concept of honour Littell's Living Age ,1871 The Budget story books Budget story books,1894
