The Experience of the Long-term Marriage Relationship Gayle R. Beck, 1983 Abstract A phenomenological inquiry of the question What is the experience of the long term marriage relationship was explored in this study The theoretical foundation for the investigation incorporated concepts of existentialism phenomenology and humanistic psychology Review of the literature yielded a few studies of longterm marriage and an abundance of quantitative research examining factors necessary to achieve marital satisfaction This study is a qualitative examination of sustained marriage relationships that offers a comprehensive phenomenological descriptive analysis of the themes involved therein The data was collected by means of an in depth interview with a population of fifteen couples married for over twenty years living in the northern suburbs of metropolitan Detroit Michigan The analysis of data through the process of phenomenological reduction yielded major components and basic themes of the experience of the long term marriage relationship Couples interviewed described their relationship as one which commitment to one another resulted in satisfaction personal needs which in turn deepened commitment to the sustained relationship Changes in the experience of the relationship over time led to the gradual development of oneness of being and intermittent distancing from one another during the natural ebb and flow of life s crises Additionally the long term marriage relationship involved both verbal and non verbal sharing through self disclosing communication of varying degrees and intensity A desire to remain in the marriage and work toward its enhancement and enrichment was increased by the sharing of self The building of mutual life memories was another significant aspect of a sustained marriage relationship revealed by this study These memories both joyous and painful deepened the connecting links between couples Finally the experience of long term marriage relationship involved the branching outward to create develop or touch the lives of others and to affirm and further sustain the marriage This study concluded that couples engaged in long term relationships can and do experience marital satisfaction over long periods of time contrary to results of previous empirical and qualitative research It further suggested that the experience of the long term marriage relationship warranted additional study and research

Brien first explore the beginnings of the relationships and the recollections of how respondents were attracted initially The next chapters focus on dimensions of marriage as they evolve over time Collective themes emerging from the interviews are explored in relationship to gender ethnicity religion and education In view of increased life expectancies couples who stay together will remain together for longer periods of time As longevity extends into the seventies eighties and beyond it is critical to identify the significant dynamics which contribute to satisfaction among couples in stable marriages This book responds to this need among sociologists psychologists social workers marriage and family counselors and general adult readers interested in gender cultural differences and interpersonal relationships
