Improving Personal and Organisational Performance in Social Work Jane Holroyd,2012-07-06 An introduction to performance management for social workers The SAGE Handbook of Counselling and Psychotherapy Colin Feltham,Ian Horton,2006-01-05 The SAGE Handbook of Counseling and Psychotherapy Second Edition is the most comprehensive text of its kind and an essential resource for trainees and practitioners alike Comprising succinct and easy to access contributions the Handbook describes not only the traditional skills and theoretical models but also the most common client concerns brought to therapy and the particular skills required for different practice settings and client groups Feeling Machines Shawn Bender,2024-11-19 In recent years debates over healthcare have accompanied rapid advances in technology from the expansion of telehealth services to artificial intelligence driven diagnostics In this book Shawn Bender delves into the world of Japanese robots engineered for care Care robots kaigo robotto emerged early in the 21st century when roboticists began converting assembly line technologies into responsive machines for older adults and people with disabilities These robots are meant to be felt and programmed to feel While some greet them with enthusiasm others fear that they might replace a fundamentally human task Based on fieldwork in Japan Denmark and Germany Bender traces the emergence of care robots in Japan and examines their impact on therapeutic practice around the world Social science scholarship on robotics tends to be either speculative imagining life together with robots or experimental observing robot human interaction in laboratories or through short term field studies Instead Bender follows roboticists developing technologies in Japan and travels with the robots themselves into everyday sites of care tracking the integration of robots into institutional care and the connection of care practice to robotics development By exploring the application of Japanese robotics across the globe Feeling Machines highlights the entanglements of therapeutic practice and technological innovation in an age of more than human care

Knowledge as a Feeling Troy A. Swanson,2023-05-08 Much of information science theory assumes a type of rationality in how individuals process the world around them but the impact of misinformation and disinformation along with the polarization of society into competing information factions calls for new understandings around our relationships to information Advances in neuroscience and psychology shed new light on how the brain processes information using both conscious and unconscious systems Current theory in neuroscience emphasizes that the mind is not a unified whole but a network of networks constructing reality to anticipate needs Knowledge is not a rational process but centers around the feeling of knowing which is the net output of competing brain processes The feeling of knowing assumes a group context and offers a social epistemological stance that judges knowledge within this group context With knowledge built into groups power dynamics allow work to be accomplished but also privilege some group members over others The feeling of knowing has significant implications for information science challenging theoreticians and practitioners to reconsider how individuals process information For information behavior the feeling of knowing offers a fuller picture looking at conscious and unconscious processing in the production of knowledge For information literacy the feeling of knowing sheds light on how individuals evaluate information and synthesize new sources into their existing knowledge Ultimately the feeling of knowing leads us toward new reflective and metacognitive tools that help meet this moment in the evolution of our information ecosystem This book explores the idea that knowing is a feeling that results from the interactions of the brain's unconscious and conscious processes and not through the accumulation of facts It's intended to help librarians educators and information scientists better understand what neuroscience and psychology are teaching about what it means to know and how our brain learns

Classroom Voices on Education and Race Daniel Frio, 2012-10-03 Classroom Voices on Education and Race presents core educational issues with an emphasis on race and the racial achievement gap school culture and curriculum through the unfiltered and poignant voices of high school students Students from urban rural and suburban public schools express a strong desire for a more active role in their classrooms as well as for a curriculum that is more responsive to their world Current students speak out against an increasingly complex and demanding world in which standardized testing serves to detach students from their learning and from their peers They bear witness to increasingly competitive content driven classrooms that minimize open communication and critical thinking and instead foster a culture of cheating And they expose a hidden curriculum that contradicts the learning expectations of formal education In particular they speak to the persistence of racial stereotypes and segregation Burdened by ignorance and misunderstandings students address the need for honest racial dialogue facilitated by adults in their desire to cross the racial divide Educators must listen to the voices from their classrooms in order to better participate in the lives and education of their students

Why Red Doesn't Sound Like a Bell J. K. O'Regan, 2011-06-24 This work proposes a novel view to explain how we as humans can have the impression of consciously feeling things for example the red of a sunset the smell of a rose the sound of a symphony or a pain

Filipino American Psychology Kevin L. Nadal Ph. D., Kevin L. Nadal, 2010 Filipino Americans are projected to become the largest Asian American population by 2010 As the second largest immigrant group in the country there are approximately 3 million documented and undocumented Filipino Americans in the US Filipino Americans are unique in many ways They are descendants of the Philippines a country that was colonized by Spain for over three centuries and by the US for almost 50 years They are the only ethnic group that has been categorized as Asian American Pacific Islander Hispanic and even as their own separate ethnicity Because of diverse phenotypes they are often perceived as being Asian Latino multiracial and others And contrary to the Model Minority Myth Filipino Americans have experienced several health psychological and educational disparities including lower college graduation rates and higher levels of cardiovascular disease diabetes obesity teen pregnancy HIV AIDS substance abuse depression and suicide Despite these disparaging statistics Filipino Americans have made significant contributions to the US ever since their first arrivals in October 1587 from their involvement in the United Farmworkers Movement to their roles in hip hop culture and their presence in medicine education and the arts However Filipino Americans have also been referred to as the Forgotten Asian Americans because of their invisibility in mainstream media academia and politics Filipino American Psychology A Collection of Personal Narratives offers an intimate look at the lives of Filipino Americans through stories involving ethnic identity colonial mentality cultural conflicts and experiences with gender sexual orientation and multiraciality Writers courageously address how they cope with mental health issues including depression anxiety post traumatic stress and suicide Theories and concepts from the book's predecessor Filipino American Psychology A Handbook of Theory Research and Clinical Practice can be applied through the voices of a diverse collection of Filipino Americans
