Storytelling in World Cinemas, Volume 1 Lina Khatib, 2012-04-24 Storytelling in World Cinemas Vol 2 Contexts addresses the questions of what and why particular stories are told in films around the world both in terms of the forms of storytelling used and of the political religious historical and social contexts informing cinematic storytelling Drawing on films from all five continents the book approaches storytelling from a cultural historical multidisciplinary perspective focusing on the influence of cultural politics postcolonialism women's social and cultural positions and religious contexts on film stories Publisher website

Luke and Angela Christine Nöstlinger, Anthea Bell, 1979 The Littlest Angel Sherryl Woods, 2015-03-16 From the author of Feels Like Family a Netflix Book Club Pick New York Times bestselling author Sherryl Woods brings you a fan favorite Adams Dynasty tale of navigating unexpected surprises Angela Adams refused to have anything to do with her unborn baby's reluctant father much less marry him True her pregnancy was unexpected but Clint Brady didn't have to act so dazed when she announced her impending motherhood And while Clint admitted his reaction could have been more enthusiastic the thought of baby bottles and diaper pins was enough to rattle even a rugged rancher like himself But now that the shock had passed nothing was going to come between Clint and fatherhood not even stubborn Angela

Transhuman Ben Bova, 2025-09-23 Six time Hugo Award winner Ben Bova presents Transhuman Plausible twenty first century medical research the bond between a grandfather and his granddaughter and political power all serve to make this book a must read for those who enjoyed The Fugitive A combination of thriller adventure and drama will enthrall Booklist starred review Luke Abramson a brilliant cellular biologist has one joy in life his ten year old granddaughter Angela When he learns that Angela has an inoperable brain tumor and is given less than six months to live Abramson wants to try an experimental new therapy that he believes will kill Angela's tumor Her parents object and the hospital bureaucracy blocks the experimental procedure because it has not been approved by the FDA Knowing that Angela will die before he can get approval Abramson abducts Angela from the hospital He plans to take her to a private research laboratory in Oregon Luke has turned his old SUV into a makeshift medical facility treating Angela as best he can while they are on the road desperately trying to keep his granddaughter alive long enough to give her the treatment he believes will save her life Abramson realizes that he's too old and decrepit to flee across the country with his sick granddaughter so he injects himself with a genetic factor that has successfully reversed aging in animal tests As the chase weaves across the country from one research facility to another Luke begins to grow physically younger stronger He looks and feels the way he did thirty or forty years ago But will he be able to save Angela At the Publisher's request this title is being sold without Digital Rights Management Software DRM applied

New-York Mirror, 1838 Zoom In, Zoom Out Sandra Barriaes-Bouche, Marjorie Attignol Salvodon, 2009-03-26 In the context of the transformations that Europe is undergoing Zoom in Zoom out Crossing Borders in Contemporary European Cinema attempts to serve as a testimony to the multiple ways in which European filmmakers are questioning the many borders of the continent European films have become a vital cultural space where the relationship between borders and identity is being renegotiated The films discussed here self consciously address the question of European identity while overtly crossing geographic cultural linguistic and aesthetic borders While all the articles explore the crossing of borders in Contemporary European films the volume maintains diverse themes and perspectives as subtopics It includes articles not only about films that deal thematically with border crossings but also articles that examine movies that cross borders in genres and techniques The articles have different theoretical approaches Film theory Cultural Studies History Sociology Philosophy and Psychoanalysis and cover films from well known cinematic traditions French Spanish German and Italian as well as lesser known cinematic traditions Yugoslavian Greek and Irish As a whole the essays frame the self conscious gesture by European filmmakers to define European cinema as a work in progress or at the very least as a project that like Europe itself raises as many questions as it answers This volume is a welcome addition to the growing critical literature on the evolution of the conception and practice of national cinema in Europe over the last two decades Sandra Barriaes Bouche and Marjorie Attignol Salvodon have chosen a solid selection of representative case studies that reflects different critical approaches to the problem of maintaining local or national cinema production in Europe during a period of intense globalization Their insightful introduction formulates the theme of unsettled borders and renegotiated identities that will resonate in the nine essays that follow With a focus on the critical concept of these unsettled borders the various authors explore the ways that the traditional mark of national space has been transformed through political and economic realignments as well as new technologies and the emergence of a new generation of filmmakers for whom national cinema no longer means what it did even twenty years ago The volume provides a good balance of critical approaches that includes auteur studies descriptions of state policies and the particular practices of filmmakers and producers in different parts of the continent Spain Germany Ireland the Balkans and finally useful appendices that provide a close up view of the complex nature of international co productions Marvin D Lugo Professor of Spanish Clark University This is an interesting collection of essays that has been well conceived and organised The standard of writing is high and I recommend publication I particularly commend the conceptual framework underpinning the volume This marries a cultural studies approach which still dominates the study of film in Area Studies and language departments across Europe and the US where filmic texts are increasingly used as teaching tools with the more industry based focus one tends to find adopted by Media and Screen Studies departments Thus this collection will appeal to a wide range of students and academics The introduction sets out the volume s overarching framework cogently and clearly giving a nuanced exploration of the way that the notion of the border can be used as a dynamic prism to help define and explore the limits of our understanding of Europe European identity and European culture within which cinema has long played a key role The editors give a good account for example of the way film has been employed as a space to explore the possibilities of European integration by EU politicians as well as highlighting the flaws inherent within this project They do however perhaps suggest a certain Western European North American centric view in their suggestion that the cinema of Yugoslavia Greece or Ireland is somehow less well known than other national and transnational cinemas explored here Less well known to whom However from the broad range of cinemas explored in the rest of the volume clearly this is not the case Particular high points for me are the chapters on the work of Fatih Akin by Janis Little Solomon and John Davidson s discussion of Schulze gets the Blues as well as Olivier Asselin s fascinating account of Database Cinema This will be a good addition to scholarship on European film and I look forward to receiving my copy
