Raw Air Poems By Cheryl Boyce Taylor:

We Are Not Wearing Helmets Cheryl Boyce-Taylor, 2022-02-15 We Are Not Wearing Helmets is a collection of political love poems rendered through the eyes of Cheryl Boyce Taylor an immigrant living in New York City For many women of color aging in America means experiencing a lack of proper medical treatment inhumane living conditions poor nutrition and often isolation Many seniors feel thrown away useless and vulnerable These poems challenge the injustices of ageism racism and oppression with rage forgiveness honor and endurance During these rough political times they are salve and balm Born in Trinidad and having grown up in Queens Boyce Taylor creates a framework for her own experience out of the life experiences and work of beloved Black women in history She salutes the women who have lifted her including Audre Lorde Fannie Lou Hamer Ntozake Shange and Winnie Mandela as well as her mother Eugenia Boyce and her beloved daughter in law Deisha Head Taylor The poems in this collection are unapologetic fierce and confrontational while remaining caring and intimate They stand strong in the face of adversity and boldly demand what is owed while still honoring and cherishing what is loved

ARRIVAL Cheryl Boyce-Taylor, 2017-06-15 Finalist 2018 Paterson Poetry Prize ARRIVAL is a poetic love story between mother and daughter The poems are road maps intertwining generations with a narrative beginning in 1950 with a woman who is pregnant with twins In her seventh month she delivers a stillborn boy and a baby girl weighing less than two pounds From there the evocation of a series of catastrophic family events brings forth Cheryl Boyce Taylor's power to strip her readers down to their most vulnerable Boyce Taylor is steeped in the narratives of Trinidad and New York City colored with metaphorical stew pot images She revels in her lyrical range as she weaves these poetic retellings of family place and identity

Mama Phife Represents Cheryl Boyce-Taylor, 2021-01-05 Award winning poet Cheryl Boyce Taylor pays tribute to her departed son Malik Phife Dawg Taylor of the legendary hip hop trio A Tribe Called Quest in this intimate collection

The Limitless Heart Cheryl Boyce-Taylor, 2023-10-17 Encompassing the breadth of Cheryl Boyce Taylor's astounding career The Limitless Heart is a time capsule of the boundless love care grief and fortitude that make her work so stirring With deep empathy thoughtfulness charisma and lyricism Boyce Taylor's work explores questions of immigration motherhood and queer sensuality among other themes Grief is both an anchor and a door throughout Boyce Taylor's poetry as seen in Mama Phife Represents a hybrid of memoir and verse on the death of her son Malik Phife Dawg Taylor of A Tribe Called Quest Questions regarding Blackness and Black womanhood in the United States are stitched throughout her books and Boyce Taylor leans into a more overtly defiant political register in her latest work We Are Not Wearing Helmets while maintaining the connective spine of the Trinidadian dialect that appears throughout all her work Selections from these books as well as her other poetry collections appear in this new volume Curated from Boyce Taylor's body of work The Limitless Heart encapsulates her progression as a writer throughout the decades of her highly successful career media responded with events like Lollapalooza and MTV's Unplugged. The book expands the canvas by examining the connections between academia and slammers especially the poets of color the youth slammers and the burgeoning hip hop poetry scene. Interviews with key players like Chicago's Marc Smith and San Francisco's Gary Mex Glazner help tell this fascinating story from the inside.

Revolutionary Mothering Alexis Pauline Gumbs, China Martens, Mai'a Williams, 2016-04-01 Inspired by the legacy of radical and queer black feminists of the 1970s and 80s Revolutionary Mothering places marginalized mothers of color at the center of a world of necessary transformation. The challenges we face as movements working for racial economic reproductive gender and food justice as well as anti violence anti imperialist and queer liberation are the same challenges that many mothers face every day. Oppressed mothers create a generous space for life in the face of life threatening limits activate a powerful vision of the future while navigating tangible concerns in the present move beyond individual narratives of choice toward collective solutions live for more than ourselves and remain accountable to a future that we cannot always see. Revolutionary Mothering is a movement shifting anthology committed to birthing new worlds full of faith and hope for what we can raise up together. Black Like Us Devon W. Carbado, Donald Weise, 2011-10-01 Chronicles one hundred years of African American homosexual literature from the turn of the century writings of Alice Dunbar Nelson to the Harlem Renaissance of Langston Hughes to the emerging sexual liberation movements of the later postwar era as reflected by James Baldwin. Original.

So Much Things to Say: 100 Poets from the First Ten Years of the Calabash International Literary Festival Colin Channer, Kwame Dawes, 2010-07-01 Robert Pinsky and Derek Walcott anchor this groundbreaking soulful poetry collection. Imagine a night of a hundred poets reading their work to an audience of intensely engaged responsive and lively people say three thousand of them. They are a loud bunch when it is time to make noise but they are silent as congregants at prayer when the poets language entrances them. Imagine the reading taking place under a tent pitched on a grassy lawn that overlooks the Caribbean Sea. Imagine that this is not the north coast of Jamaica with its cliché of white sands and coconut trees a place glutted with cruise ship passengers and bewildered tourists imagine instead a rugged coastline a landscape full of the kind of character we find in the weather beaten faces of wise old folk imagine fishermen farmers ordinary workers schoolchildren and traveling people moving around as if they have been in this place forever and as if they all belong. Imagine one hundred poets some whose names you know and some you have never heard of stepping onto the stage opening their mouths and hearts and singing out poems of great variety complexity beauty and passion Imagine laughter and tears imagine sighs of familiarity and moans of pain imagine tragedies enacted in the words that move through the shelter of the tent imagine a poem like a fist or a sharply painful open palm or the tender caress of fingers or the firm grasp of a handshake Imagine stories dropping like seeds into the ground and growing rapidly and wildly all around you This is the setting and mood of the greatest little festival in the greatest little village in the greatest little country in the world and this anthology is what the festival would look like were all 100 poets who have read at Calabash over the years to come together on a late May weekend to read So Much Things to Say is a unique gathering of a group of poets who represent at least one reckoning of the place of contemporary poetry in 2010 Contributors include Robert Pinsky Derek Walcott Elizabeth Alexander Amiri Baraka Martin Espada Terrance Hayes Valzyna Mort Sonia Sanchez Linton Kwesi Johnson Patricia Smith Natasha Trethewey Staceyann Chin and 88 others Directory of American Poetry Books ,2000
