Robert E. Denton Jr.,2010-06-14 To simply say the 2008 presidential election was historic seems like an understatement The election was unique in many ways beyond the selection of the nation s first African American as President The drama of the election was also heightened by the historic nomination battle between Hillary Clinton and Barack Obama The contest generated issues of race and gender throughout the campaign as did the candidacy of Sarah Palin as the Republican Vice Presidential nominee And John McCain brought his own unique qualities to the campaign Vietnam War hero long term Congressional service record feisty temperament and the oldest first time presidential candidate to run for the Presidency Thus issues of race gender and age dominated the campaign both implicitly and explicitly The candidacies of Clinton Obama McCain and Palin provided the context and dynamics for charges of racism sexism and ageism Studies of Identity in the 2008 Presidential Campaign explores issues of identity politics and the presidential election Investigating all aspects of race gender or ageism the contributors to this volume address the role and function of identity politics in political campaigns and highlight challenges of identity politics in contemporary political campaigns The Oxford Handbook of Feminist Theory

S. Sharma,2011-06-06 This book is concerned with the three way relationship between neoliberalism women s education and the spatialization of the state and analyses this through an ethnography lens of women's education programs in India Family Bonds Ellen K. Feder, 2007-08-06 Feminist and critical race theorists alike have long acknowledged the intersection of gender and race difference it is by now a truism that the ways we become boys and girls men and women cannot be disentangled from the ways we become white or Black men and women Asian or Latino boys and girls And yet even as many have sought to attend to this intersection of difference most critical treatments focus finally either on the production of gender or the production of race Family Bonds proposes a new way to think about the categories of gender and race together It first explicates and then puts to work Foucault's archaeological and genealogical methods to advance the main argument of the book Gender is best understood primarily as a function of disciplinary power operating within the family while race is primarily a function of a regulatory power acting upon the family Each of the book's central chapters is an individual story or history the founding of Levittown the definitive suburb after the Second World War 1950s and 60s the development of the diagnosis of Gender Identity Disorder 1970s and 1980s and the federal coordination of scientific research on violence 1980s and 1990s Together they make up a larger story about the construction of race and gender in the U S in the second half of the twentieth century and demonstrate the centrality of the family in these constructions Rather than a formal study of Foucault's own work Family Bonds is an effort to produce genealogies of the sort that Foucault himself hoped his work would prompt Visions of Struggle in Women's Filmmaking in the Mediterranean F. Laviosa, 2010-02-01 This provocative collection elaborates a trans cultural definition of being a woman in struggle Looking at the films of women directors in countries in the Mediterranean rim this book spurs a contemporary discussion of women's human civil and social rights while situating feminist arguments on women's identity roles psychology and sexuality Although their methodologies are diverse these artists are united in their use of cinema as a means of intervention taking on the role as outspoken and leading advocates for women's problems Contributors examine the ways in which cinematic art reproduces and structures the discourses of realism and represents Mediterranean women's collective experience of struggle Moroccan Feminist Discourses F. Sadiqi, 2014-09-17 Both a scholarly and personal critique of current feminist Moroccan discourses this book is a call for a larger than Islam framework that accommodates the Berber dimension Sadiqi argues that current feminist discourse both secular and Islamic ones are not only divergent but limit the rich heritage knowledge and art of Berber women Taking Risks Julie Shayne, 2014-01-01 Explores activist scholarship in relation to feminist and social movements in the Americas Taking Risks offers a creative interdisciplinary approach to narrating the stories of activist scholarship by women The essays are based on the textual analysis of interviews oral histories ethnography video storytelling and theater The contributors come from many disciplinary backgrounds including theater history literature sociology feminist studies and cultural studies The topics range from the underground library movement in Cuba femicide in Ju rez community radio in Venezuela video archives in Colombia exiled feminists in Canada memory activism in Argentina sex worker activists in Brazil rural feminists in Nicaragua to domestic violence organizations for Latina immigrants in Texas Each essay addresses two themes telling stories and taking risks The authors understand women activists across the Americas as storytellers who along with the authors themselves work to fill the Latin American and Caribbean studies archives with histories of resistance In addition to sharing the activists stories the contributors weave in discussions of scholarly risk taking to speak to the challenges and importance of elevating the storytellers and their histories Julie Shayne took a risk with this book and the result is impressive By challenging the activism research divide that US academics so often sustain the authors in this collection challenge epistemological as well as national race class age and gender boundaries Taking Risks is a must read for researchers and students alike Amy Lind editor of Development Sexual Rights and Global Governance

What's Left of Blackness T. Fisher, 2012-10-15 This book analyzes the political transformations in black women's socially engaged community based political work in England in the late twentieth century It situates these shifts alongside Britain's political economy and against the discourse and deployment of blackness as a political imaginary in which to engage in struggles for social justice
