Biological Economies Richard Le Heron, Hugh Campbell, Nick Lewis, Michael Carolan, 2016-01-22 Recent agri food studies including commodity systems the political economy of agriculture regional development and wider examinations of the rural dimension in economic geography and rural sociology have been confronted by three challenges These can be summarized as more than human approaches to economic life a post structural political economy of food and agriculture and calls for more enactive performative research approaches This volume describes the genealogy of such approaches drawing on the reflective insights of more than five years of international engagement and research It demonstrates the kinds of new work being generated under these approaches and provides a means for exploring how they should be all understood as part of the same broader need to review theory and methods in the study of food agriculture rural development and economic geography This radical collective approach is elaborated as the Biological Economies approach The authors break out from traditional categories of analysis reconceptualising materialities and reframing economic assemblages as biological economies based on the notion of all research being enactive or performative The Geology of the Huntly-Kawhia
