Reconsidering Drugs NA NA,2000-01-01 Lawrence Driscoll's fresh examination of the meaning of drugs from the Victorians to the present asks us to listen to historical and current voices whose positions on drugs are at variance with our truths Driscoll draws on the work of figures as diverse as William Burroughs Sigmund Freud Conan Doyle and Anna Kavan to shed light on different or silenced ways of talking about drugs and to offer us a historical counter memory The result of his work is to unsettle and disturb the familiar parameters that frame our discussion of drugs revealing that others are available positions which expose our own constructions as surprisingly limited

"Addiction and British Visual Culture, 1751-1919" Julia Skelly,2017-07-05 Highly innovative and long overdue this study analyzes the visual culture of addiction produced in Britain during the long nineteenth century The book examines well known images such as William Hogarth's Gin Lane 1751 as well as lesser known artworks including Alfred Priest's painting Cocaine 1919 in order to demonstrate how visual culture was both informed by and contributed to discourses of addiction in the period between 1751 and 1919 Through her analysis of more than 30 images Julia Skelly deconstructs beliefs and stereotypes related to addicted individuals that remain entrenched in the popular imagination today Drawing upon both feminist and queer methodologies as well as upon extensive archival research Addiction and British Visual Culture 1751-1919 investigates and problematizes the long held belief that addiction is legible from the body thus positioning visual images as
