Red Hugh O'Donnell And The Nine Years War:

Red Hugh O'Donnell and the Nine Years War Darren McGettigan, 2005 The Nine Years War was the greatest challenge that Gaelic Ireland presented to the Elizabethan English state The role played by the young chieftain Red Hugh O'Donnell 1572-1602 in the Gaelic confederacy which fought this war was crucial Without him the possibility of such successful and wide ranging resistance to the expansion of English power in Ireland would not have been possible This book represents a major reappraisal of O'Donnell's role It is a study of how the abuse of power by English captains and officials led to the growth of anti-English sentiment in the lordship of Tyrone and in O'Donnell's thinking itself due in large part to his imprisonment in Dublin Castle It is also a study in how the Gaelic lordships of Ulster proved themselves to be capable of military and political innovation to enable their leaders to fashion a formidable confederacy which came very close to ending English sovereignty over Ireland

Red Hugh O'Donnell and the Nine Year's War Darren McGettigan, University College Dublin. School of History, 2003 Beyond the Pale and Highland Line Simon Egan, 2025-04-22 This book offers important new insights into the history and culture of the Gaelic speaking world from the mid-fifteenth century through to the reign of James VI and I Throughout this period the reach of the English and Scottish crowns within these western regions was limited The initiative lay with local communities and royal power was contingent upon negotiating with well established and largely autonomous aristocratic lineages Moreover events within this western world could exert a powerful often unpredictable influence upon the affairs of the wider archipelago Using a series of case studies this collection examines the evolving relationship between Ireland and Scotland in rich detail It demonstrates how this world interacted with the encroaching English and Scottish states and underlines the importance of paying closer attention to this neglected area of Irish and British history

Standish O'Grady, 1889 The Cambridge History of Ireland: Volume 2, 1550-1730 Jane Ohlmeyer, Thomas

Bartlett, 2018-04-26 This volume offers fresh perspectives on the political military religious social cultural intellectual economic and environmental history of early modern Ireland and situates these discussions in global and comparative contexts The opening chapters focus on Politics and Religion and War and offer a chronological narrative informed by the re interpretation of new archives The remaining chapters are more thematic with chapters on Society Culture and Economy and Environment and often respond to wider methodologies and historiographical debates Interdisciplinary cross pollination between on the one hand history and on the other disciplines like anthropology archaeology geography computer science literature and gender and environmental studies informs many of the chapters The volume offers a range of new departures by a generation of scholars who explain in a refreshing and accessible manner how and why people acted as they did in the transformative and tumultuous years between 1550 and 1730 Conquest and Union Steven G. Ellis, Sarah

Barber, 2014-06-06 The British Isles is a multi national arena but its history has traditionally been studied from a distinctively English often indeed London perspective Now however the interweaving of the distinct but mutually dependent histories of the four nations is at the heart of some of the liveliest historical research today In this major contribution to that research eleven leading scholars consider key aspects of the internal relations of England Scotland Ireland and Wales in the early modern period and the problems of accommodating different and resistant cultures to a single centralizing polity The contributors are Sarah Barber Toby Barnard Ciaran Brady Keith M Brown Jane Dawson Steven G Ellis David Hayton Philip Jenkins Alan Macinnes Michael Mac Craith and John Morrill Nationalizing the Past S. Berger, C. Lorenz, 2016-01-19

Historians traditionally claim to be myth breakers but national history since the nineteenth century shows quite a record in myth making This exciting new volume compares how national historians in Europe have handled the opposing pulls of fact and fiction and shows which narrative strategies have contributed to the success of national histories Fadó Fadó Rónán Gearóid Ó Domhnaill, 2015-04-28 A long long time ago Fad Fad More Tales of Lesser Known Irish History is the sequel to Fad Tales of Lesser Known Irish History Matador 2013 It reveals more episodes from Irish history throughout the ages The Irish abroad are not neglected in this collection of tales many of which are not widely known or have been long forgotten about The author makes no attempt to heroise or demonise the figures though some of the characters do not deserve the obscurity to which the passage of time has condemned them while others are probably best forgotten Their stories illustrate the rich tapestry that forms Irish history Who was the walking gallows of Wicklow What was it about a cave in Donegal that attracted visitors from all over Europe What happened to the priest who evoked the ire of the Irish government How did an Irish civil servant defy the Nazis at a time when appeasement was popular Whose corpse in Galway created wonder and fear Why did a Monaghan man eat his fellow convicts And how did a Dublin woman try to assassinate Mussolini Laid out in chapters long enough to cover what is important and still retain the reader's interest this book can be started from anywhere Just like its prequel Fad Fad is a must have book for anyone interested in Irish history Making Empire Jane Ohlmeyer, 2023-10-10

Ireland was England's oldest colony Making Empire revisits the history of empire in Ireland in a time of Brexit the culture wars and the campaigns around Black Lives Matter and Statues must fall to better understand how it has formed the present and how it might shape the future Empire and imperial frameworks policies practices and cultures have shaped the history of the world for the last two millennia It is nation states that are the blip on the historical horizon Making Empire re-examines empire as process and Ireland's role in it through the lens of early modernity It covers the two hundred years between the mid sixteenth century and the mid eighteenth century that equate roughly to the timespan of the First English Empire c 1550 c 1770s Ireland was England's oldest colony How then did the English empire actually function in early modern Ireland and how did this change over time What did access to European empires mean for people living in Ireland This book answers these questions by interrogating four interconnected themes First that Ireland formed an integral part of the English imperial system Second that the Irish operated as agents of empire's Third Ireland served as laboratory in and for the English empire Finally it examines the impact that empire's had on people living in early modern Ireland Even though the book's focus will be on Ireland and the English empire the Irish were trans-imperial and engaged with all of the early modern imperial powers It is therefore critical where possible and appropriate to look to other European and global empires for meaningful comparisons and connections in this era of expansionism What becomes clear is that colonisation was not a single occurrence but an iterative and durable process that impacted different parts of Ireland at different times and in different ways That imperialism was about the exercise of power violence coercion and expropriation Strategies about how best to turn conquest into profit to mobilise and control Ireland's natural resources especially land and labour varied but the reality of everyday life did not change and provoked a wide variety of responses ranging from acceptance and assimilation to resistance This book based on the 2021 James Ford Lectures Oxford University suggests that the moment has come revisit the history of empire if only to better understand how it has formed the present and how this might shape the future
