Between Politics and Markets Yi-min Lin, 2001-12-17 Between Politics and Markets examines how the decline of central planning in post Mao China was related to the rise of two markets an economic market for the exchange of products and factors and a political market for the diversion to private interests of state assets and authorities Lin reveals their concurrent development through an account of how industrial firms competed their way out of the plan through exchange relations with one another and with state agents He argues that the two markets were mutually accommodating that the political market grew also from a decay of the state's self monitoring capacity and that economic actors competition for special favors from state agents constituted a major driving force of economic institutional change
