Revolt In Bihar A Study Of The August 19:

Indira Gandhi's India Henry C. Hart, 2019-03-04 India credited with the best institutionalized democracy of the Third World changed in 1975 apparently overnight and at the decision of one individual to a quasi dictatorship A transformation so remarkable prompted eight scholars of Indian politics to reexamine the sectors of the system they know well seeking explanations They reappraise the carry over of colonial institutions and procedures the distribution of power in the ruling party business influence the roles of the divided Communist parties the position of the administrative corps and of the army and unrest among the rural poor at its most volatile in the state of Bihar An introduction shows just what Mrs Gandhi changed the situation that triggered her action and the justification she advances A concluding chapter tests the facts of the Indian transformation against four major theories of political change in the developing world projection into politics of personality conflicts of the leader agrarian class conflict social mobilization and cultural assimilation and institutionalization
