The Working Class at Home, 1790-1940 Joseph Harley, Vicky Holmes, Laika Nevalainen, 2022-02-17 This book examines life in the homes inhabited by the working class over the long nineteenth century These working class homes are often imagined as distinctly unhomely spaces which the inhabitants struggled to fill with even the most basic of furniture let alone acquire the comforts associated with middle class domestic space The concerned reformers of industrialising towns and cities painted a picture of severe deprivation of rooms that were both cramped yet bare at the same time and disease ridden spaces from which their subjects required rescue It is an image which is not only inadequate but which also robs working class people of their agency in creating domestic spaces which allowed for the expression of personal and familial feeling Bringing together emerging scholars who challenge these ideas and using a range of innovative sources and approaches this edited collection presents a new understanding of working class homes

Protest and the politics of space and place, 1789-1848 Katrina Navickas, 2015-12-01 This book is a wide ranging survey of the rise of mass movements for democracy and workers rights in northern England. It is a provocative narrative of the closing down of public space and dispossession from place. The book offers historical parallels for contemporary debates about protests in public space and democracy and anti globalisation movements. In response to fears of revolution from 1789 to 1848 the British government and local authorities prohibited mass working class political meetings and societies. Protesters faced the privatisation of public space. The Peterloo Massacre of 1819 marked a turning point. Radicals, trade unions and the Chartists fought back by challenging their exclusion from public spaces, creating their own sites and eventually constructing their own buildings or emigrating to America. This book also uncovers new evidence of protest in rural areas of northern England including rural Luddism. It will appeal to academic and local historians as well as geographers and scholars of social movements in the UK, France and North America.

The Allotment Movement in England, 1793-1873 Jeremy Burchardt, 2002 The living standards of the rural poor suffered a severe decline in the first half of the nineteenth century as a result of high population growth, changing agricultural practices, enclosure and the decline of rural industries. Allotment provision was the most important counterweight to the pressures. This book offers the first systematic analysis of the early nineteenth century allotment movement, providing new data on the chronology of the movement and on the number, geographical distribution, size, rents, cultivation yields and effect on living standards of allotments, showing how the movement brought the culture of the rural labouring poor more closely into line with the mainstream values of respectable mid-Victorian England. This book casts new light on central aspects of early and mid nineteenth century social and economic history agriculture and rural society JEREMY BURCHARDT is lecturer in Rural History University of Reading
