

SEX-RELATED COGNITIVE DIFFERENCES

An Essay on Theory and Evidence

JULIA A. SHERMAN, Ph.D.

*Director, Women's Research Institute of Wisconsin, Inc.
Madison, Wisconsin*

This provocative book, written by one of the leading authorities in the field, provides a review and critical evaluation of accepted theories of sex-related differences in cognitive functioning. Doctor Sherman, backed by careful research and meticulous analysis, openly challenges existing opinions on this subject. She concludes that, when relevant variables are controlled, there are no appreciable sex-related differences in verbal, spatial, mathematical or other cognitive skills.

The Malleability of Intellectual Styles Li-fang Zhang, 2013-09-09 Intellectual styles are individuals preferred ways of using the abilities that they possess The extent to which one can change his or her intellectual style is a question of interest to both researchers and the general public This book presents the first comprehensive and systematic review of existing research on the malleability of intellectual styles By critically analyzing research findings derived from both cross sectional and longitudinal investigations performed over the past seven decades Li fang Zhang demonstrates that intellectual styles can be modified through both socialization and purposeful training Professor Zhang elucidates the heuristic value of these findings for the development of adaptive intellectual styles in both academic and non academic settings She proposes further avenues of research that might advance scholarly understanding of the nature of and the potential for modifying intellectual styles

Handbook of Research on Mathematics Teaching and Learning Douglas Grouws, 2006-11-01 Sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics and written by leading experts in the field of mathematics education the Handbook is specifically designed to make important vital scholarship accessible to mathematics education professors graduate students educational researchers staff development directors curriculum supervisors and teachers The Handbook provides a framework for understanding the evolution of the mathematics education research field against the backdrop of well established conceptual historical theoretical and methodological perspectives It is an indispensable working tool for everyone interested in pursuing research in mathematics education as the references for each of the Handbook's twenty nine chapters are complete resources for both current and past work in that particular area      Gender and Fair Assessment Warren W. Willingham, Nancy S.

Cole, 2013-12-16 There have been many important changes in the participation of women and men in American society over the past quarter century. Tests play a role in those changes by providing evidence of the diverse achievement and proficiency of women and men. They aid the learning process and reflect inequalities in opportunity to learn and participate. In addition, they provide useful information in considering what alternatives in education and work make most sense for individuals and influence views about groups of students, educational programs, and a wide range of issues. For all of these reasons, it is important that tests assess fairly and reflect accurately the ways young people are and are not achieving as well as desired. The test performance of women and men is a research topic of historical interest and has received much attention in recent years. Because of this increased interest, there is a great deal of new research and data available. The purpose of the study presented in this volume was to review this new information with two objectives in mind: to clarify patterns of gender difference and similarity in test performance and related achievements, and to see what implications those findings might have for fair assessment and, as a corollary, to examine the assessment process as a possible source of gender differences. This study is interested in tests used in education to assess developed knowledge and skill. In order to gain a broader view of gender similarity and difference, the contributors looked at other types of measures and other characteristics of young women and men. Their hope is to contribute to a firmer basis for insuring fairness in tests, an objective which is particularly important as the field moves increasingly to new forms of assessment in which there is less experience.      Assessing

Adolescent and Adult Intelligence Alan S. Kaufman, Elizabeth O. Lichtenberger, 2005-08-05 The classic text now updated with a new interpretive approach to the WAIS III. Assessing Adolescent and Adult Intelligence, the classic text from Alan Kaufman and Elizabeth Lichtenberger, has consistently provided the most comprehensive source of information on cognitive assessment of adults and adolescents. The newly updated Third Edition provides important enhancements and additions that highlight the latest research and interpretive methods for the WAIS III. Augmenting the traditional sequential and simultaneous WAIS III interpretive methods, the authors present a new approach derived from Cattell-Horn-Carroll (CHC) theory. This approach combines normative assessment performance relative to age peers with ipsative assessment performance relative to the person's own mean level. Following Flanagan and Kaufman's work to develop a similar CHC approach for the WISC-IV, Kaufman and Lichtenberger have applied this system to the WAIS III profile of scores, along with integrating recent WAIS III literature. Four appendices present the new method in depth. In addition to a detailed description, the authors provide a blank interpretive worksheet to help examiners make the calculations and decisions needed for applying the additional steps of the new system, and norms tables for the new WAIS III subtest combinations added in this approach. Assessing Adolescent and Adult Intelligence remains the premier resource for the field, covering not only the WAIS III but also the WJ III the KAIT and several brief measures of intelligence as well as laying out a relevant up to date discussion of the discipline. The new theory based interpretive approach for the WAIS III makes this a vital resource for practicing psychologists as well as a comprehensive text for graduate students.

Intelligence and Cognition: Contemporary Frames of Reference S.H Irvine, S.K. Newstead, 2012-12-06 In December 1984 a NATO sponsored Advanced Study Institute entitled Human Assessment Cognition and Motivation took place in Athens. It succeeded in attracting a great many of the most eminent scholars and researchers in this area both as lecturers and participants. The contributors to this book are mostly members of staff who taught at the Institute. The chapters they have written are designed to provide an introduction to the principal issues that arise in the study of the assessment of intelligence and cognition. Since most of the protagonists are represented in this book the student is provided with an excellent overview. Many different people are responsible for preparation of a book such as this. We would like to express particular thanks to Siobhan Breslin and Julie Coleman who typed the text despite an unfriendly and unreliable word processing system. Thanks are also due to Steve Gill who helped with the preparation of the figures. Finally as a mark of respect for his achievements and leadership in the field of mental measurement we dedicate this volume to Norman Frederiksen. Sidney H Irvine, Stephen E Newstead, Plymouth, September 1985.

State and Trait A. R. Smith, D. M. Jones, 2013-10-22 This third volume of Handbook of Human Performance addresses individual differences in human performance. The book considers both effects related to stable characteristics and those which are a product of either endogenous changes in state or induced by task performance itself. It includes chapters on intelligence, demographic factors, extra version and fatigue. Although a wide range of topics is covered, all contributions are linked in a consistent manner to human performance.
