The Syntax-Morphology Interface Matthew Baerman, Dunstan Brown, Greville G. Corbett, 2005-09-15 Syncretism where a single form serves two or more morphosyntactic functions is a persistent problem at the syntax morphology interface It results from a mismatch whereby the syntax of a language makes a particular distinction but the morphology does not This pioneering book provides a full length study of inflectional syncretism presenting a typology of its occurrence across a wide range of languages The implications of syncretism for the syntax morphology interface have long been recognised it argues either for an enriched model of feature structure thereby preserving a direct link between function and form or for the independence of morphological structure from syntactic structure This book presents a compelling argument for the autonomy of morphology and the resulting analysis is illustrated in a series of formal case studies within Network Morphology It will be welcomed by all linguists interested in the relation between words and the modern a fixation in Singapore and Southeast Asia's post war milieu which continues to thrive under presuppositions of change and subsequent adaptations. The authors thus collectively front home as a destabilised ideology and a constantly evolving physical construct. This volume does not privilege the distinction between loss and recuperation of domestic sites and ideologies or the ensuing difficulties of their reconciliation. Rather it highlights the inseparable conditions between the recovery of domestic ideals and the agents who formulate such ideals.

The Singapore Necklace Jaim Kaan, 2012

THE SINGAPORE NECKLACE Storyline The narrative took place in 1914 Singapore in a span of ten months. A part of the British Straits Settlements finding itself well into the age of the industrial revolution due to the opening of the Suez Canal and thanks to the island's unique location, Singapore grew rapidly into an important thriving trading post. The city has put itself together into a shipshape and organized place of commerce but also a proper place of living. The infrastructure kept abreast of the business development: roads were built, electricity network replaced gas lights, water was pumped and piped to industries and residences but also telephone, telegraph and postal services were part of daily life. The love story evolved not only in a place where western quality of living were injected, catering for colonial life: clubs, a horse race course, sports grounds and department stores sprung up besides markets, cinemas, parks, schools and churches but the account occurred in an era when Victorian morality of restraint, rigid social codes of conduct and class system has been instilled. Residential areas were separated based on race; non-europeans were barred from certain places and were discouraged from travelling first class. A love between a European and one from another culture wasn't quite tolerated then, certainly so were that bond between two men. In a historic era just two years after the sinking of the Titanic in the period the 1st World War unleashed in Europe and the year that the famous Singapore Sling was conceived, two young men living in Singapore, a British and a Chinese, discovered feelings for one another that they couldn't comprehend themselves. As their curiosity prevailed, the mutual fondness blossomed in the midst of a tropical setting, letting trams, rickshaws, cars, trains and boats transport them on their fine journeys and experiences. The sombre ending of the union was all to blame on the nasty World War spreading its negativity to the colonies. But in a twist of fate and after a long wait in limbo, the two lovers were united free at last.
