These productions provided audiences with an unparalleled opportunity to participate in the Victorian obsession with history especially of the medieval period. In this extensive new study Stuart Sillars examines multiple facets of this complex relationship. The desire for authenticity in production in the work of Charles Kean and his followers leads to elaborate sets that define and direct the performances movement through time. Visual artists of all kinds fracture and extend the plays movements the Pre Raphaelites through new techniques and approaches illustrators through new forms of engraving and printing and photographers through the emerging forms of the medium. The book also considers the multiple forms in which performances were recorded and re created visually and absorbed into the memories of their viewers. With many previously unpublished images it draws together multiple fields to offer a new perspective on one of the most productive and various periods of Shakespeare activity.
