New Property in International Law Jean Ho,2024-10-04 Until now the definition of property in international law has been poorly addressed It is assumed that international law possesses sufficient content to regulate property that provisions in international instruments addressing property rights are shown to act and that resolutions of property disputes are claimed to be in accordance with international law Yet when asked to define key attributes of property in international law are the legal world draws a collective blank New Property in International Law examines how international law consistently falls short when it comes to new property regulation because key stakeholders have failed to define what property is The book considers and categorises new property into three areas cultural property common property and contingent property aiming to carve out update and impart coherence to international property law By sketching the contours of new property in international law through a rigorous analytical comparison of property concepts in the Western Soviet post Soviet Chinese and Islamic juristic traditions this work enables a balanced distillation of core attributes of new property from diverse property concepts that can then be woven into a broadly acceptable and broadly applicable definition

Sustainable Development in World Investment Law Marie-Claire Cordonier Segger, Markus W. Gehring, Andrew Paul Newcombe, 2011-01-01 Sustainable development as defined by the World Commission on Environment and Development is development that meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs. More specifically sustainable development is a process of change that seeks to improve the collective quality of life by focusing on economically, socially and environmentally sound projects that are viable in the long term. Sustainable development requires structural economic change and the foundation of that change is investment. In developing nations with low levels of domestic savings investment predictably comes from abroad in the form of foreign direct investment. A large and ever expanding number of international investment agreements are in place to govern these transactions. While these accords seek to foster development while mitigating the risk involved in these types of investments, many questions remain unresolved. This highly insightful book reflects the contributions of a variety of world renowned experts each of which is designed to provide the reader with valuable perspective on recent developments in investment law, negotiations and jurisprudence from a sustainable development law perspective. It offers answers to pertinent questions concerning advancements in investment law including the negotiation of numerous regional and bilateral agreements as well as the increasing number of disputes resolved in the World Bank's International Centre for the Settlement of Investment Disputes (ICSID) from different developed and developing country perspectives. It lays out future directions for new treaty negotiations and dispute settlement proceedings as well as ongoing investment promotion efforts against a background of rapidly evolving international relationships between economic environment and development law. It focuses on key issues in investment laws which have emerged as priorities in the negotiation of bilateral and regional investment agreements and have been clarified through recent decisions of the ICSID and other arbitral panel awards
