Recollections Or A Lifetime:

Recollections of a Lifetime Samuel Griswold Goodrich, 1856

Recollections of a Lifetime Roeliff Brinkerhoff, 1904

American Environmental Fiction, 1782-1847 Dr Matthew Wynn Sivils, 2014-09-28 While Ralph Waldo Emerson and Henry David Thoreau are often credited with inventing American environmental writing Matthew Wynn Sivils argues that the works of these Transcendentalists must be placed within a larger literary tradition that has its origins in early Republic natural histories Indian captivity narratives Gothic novels and juvenile literature Authors such as William Bartram Ann Eliza Bleecker and Samuel Griswold Goodrich to name just a few enabled the development of a credibly American brand of proto environmental fiction Sivils argues that these seeds of environmental literature would come to fruition in James Fenimore Cooper's The Pioneers which he argues is the first uniquely environmental American novel He then connects the biogeographical politics of Cooper's The Prairie with European anti Americanism and concludes this study by examining how James Kirke Paulding Thomas Cole and James Fenimore Cooper imaginatively addressed the problem of human culpability and nationalistic cohesiveness in the face of natural disasters With their focus on the character and implications of the imagined American landscape these key works of early environmental thought contributed to the growing influence of the natural environment on the identity of the fledgling nation decades before the influences of Emerson's Nature and Thoreau's Walden

Prisons and the American Conscience Paul W. Keve, 1995

In tracing the evolution of federal imprisonment Paul W Keve emphasizes the ways in which corrections history has been affected by and is reflective of other trends in the political and cultural life of the United States The federal penal system has undergone substantial evolution over two hundred years Keve divides this evolutionary process into three phases During the first phase from 1776 through the end of the nineteenth century no federal prisons existed in the United States Federal prisoners were simply boarded in state or local facilities It was in the second phase starting with the passage of the Three Prison Act by Congress in 1891 that federal facilities were constructed at Leavenworth and Atlanta while the old territorial prison at McNeil Island in Washington eventually became in effect the third prison In this second phase the federal government began the enormous task of providing its own prison cells Still there was no effective supervisory force to make a prison system In 1930 the Federal Bureau of Prisons was created marking the third phase of the prison system's evolution The Bureau in its first sixty years of existence introduced numerous correctional innovations thereby building an effective centrally controlled prison system with progressive standards Keve details the essential characteristics of this now mature system guiding the reader through the historical process to the present day
