Recoltes Des Forets Publiques Au Quebec Et En Ontario 1840 19:

Récoltes des forêts publiques au Québec et en Ontario, 1840-1900 Guy Gaudreau, 1999-02-25 Focusing on the transition from the production of squared timber to that of milled lumber and finally wood pulp Gaudreau traces the constant depletion of the resource and the companies resulting inexorable push westward from Quebec into Ontario an economic migration that led to the establishment of significant francophone communities across northern Ontario He shows how recent generations of Quebec historians have failed to provide adequate historical explanations because of an overly exclusive focus on Quebec Gaudreau's work provides an important historiographic corrective showing that the history of Quebec is part of a complex fabric that like the forests themselves does not recognize provincial boundaries Detailed annual data on the volume of principal forest products produced from Crown lands in Quebec and Ontario during the second half of the nineteenth century compiled systematically for the first time form the backbone of this study Based on these data Gaudreau describes and clarifies the timing scale and significance of transitions in forest outputs as spruce joined pine as the principal type of wood logged and as milled lumber and subsequently pulp wood joined and eventually replaced square timber as the key product The book addresses the implications of resource depletion and the economic and historical changes in the forestry industry including the transition from a commercial and artisanal process to an industrial process and the implications this had for colonization and migration

The Government of Natural Resources Stéphane Castonguay, 2021-04-15 The Government of Natural Resources explores scientific and technical activity in Quebec from Confederation until the eve of the Second World War Scientific and technical personnel are an often quiet presence within the state but they play an integral role At the turn of the twentieth century the provincial government created geology forestry fishery and agronomy services These new services drew from recently established university technical programs to amass a corps of skilled employees to support their mission exploiting resources and occupying territory St phane Castonguay traces the history of mining logging hunting fishing and agriculture in Quebec to reveal how territorial and environmental transformations thus became a tool of government By helping to define and shape such interventions scientific activity contributed to state formation and expanded administrative capacity The lessons that this thoughtful reconceptualization of resource development offers reach well beyond provincial borders

Done with Slavery Frank Mackey, 2010-02-01 Did slavery exist in Montreal and if so what did it look like Frank Mackey grapples with this question in Done with Slavery a study of black Montrealers in the eighty years between the British Conquest and the union of Lower and Upper Canada Through close examination of archival and contemporary sources Mackey uncovers largely unknown aspects of the black transition from slavery to freedom While he considers the changing legal status of slavery much of the book provides a detailed and nuanced reconstruction of the circumstances of black Montrealers and their lived experience The resulting picture is remarkably complex showing the variety of occupations held by blacks the relationships they had with those they served their encounters with the judicial and political systems and the racial mingling that came with intermarriage and apprenticeships Done with Slavery casts the categories of blackness and slavery in a new light showing that broad histories of the phenomenon must begin to take into account the specifics of the lives of marginal black populations Done with Slavery is an invitation to look at a colonial society through the prism of documented black experience revealing that the roots of the present are neither as wholesome as some would hope nor as bitter as others might suppose

Deindustrializing Montreal Steven High, 2022-06-13 Point Saint Charles a historically white working class neighbourhood with a strong Irish and French presence and Little Burgundy a multiracial neighbourhood that is home to the city's English speaking Black community face each other across Montreal's Lachine Canal once an artery around which work and industry in Montreal were clustered and by which these two communities were formed and divided Deindustrializing Montreal challenges the deepening divergence of class and race analysis by recognizing the intimate relationship between capitalism class struggles and racial inequality Fundamentally deindustrialization is a process of physical and social ruination as well as part of a wider political project that leaves working class communities impoverished and demoralized The structural violence of capitalism occurs gradually and out of sight but it doesn't play out the same for everyone Point Saint Charles was left to rot until it was revalorized by gentrification whereas Little Burgundy was torn apart by urban renewal and highway construction This historical divergence had profound consequences in how urban change has been experienced understood and remembered Drawing extensive interviews a massive and varied archive of imagery and original photography by David Lewis into a complex chorus Steven High brings these communities to life tracing their history from their earliest years to their decline and their current reality He extends the analysis of deindustrialization often focused on single industry towns to cities that have seemingly made the post industrial transition The urban neighbourhood has never been a settled concept and its apparent innocence masks considerable contestation divergence and change over time Deindustrializing Montreal thinks critically about locality revealing how heritage becomes an agent of gentrification investigating how places like Little Burgundy and the Point acquire race and class identities and questioning what is preserved and for whom

Boreal Forests in the Face of Climate Change Miguel Montoro Girona, Hubert Morin, Sylvie Gauthier, Yves Bergeron, 2023-03-01 This open access book explores a new conceptual framework for the sustainable management of the boreal forest in the face of climate change The boreal forest is the second largest terrestrial biome on Earth and covers a 14 million km² belt representing about 25% of the Earth's forest area Two thirds of this forest biome is managed and supplies 37% of global wood production These forests also provide a range of natural resources and ecosystem services essential to humanity However climate change is altering species distributions natural disturbance regimes and forest ecosystem structure and functioning Although sustainable management is the main goal across the boreal biome a novel framework is required to adapt forest strategies and practices to climate change This collaborative effort draws upon 148 authors in summarizing the sustainable management of these forests and detailing the most recent experimental and observational results collected from across the boreal biome It presents the state of sustainable management in boreal forests and highlights the critical importance of this biome in a context of global change because of these forests key role in a range of natural processes including carbon sequestration nutrient cycling and the maintaining of biodiversity This book is an essential read for academics students and practitioners involved in boreal forest management It outlines the challenges facing sustainable boreal forest management within the context of climate change and serves as a basis for establishing new research avenues identifying future research trends and developing climate adapted forest management plans

Taking to the Streets Dan Horner, 2020-07-23 The 1840s were a period of rapid growth and social conflict in Montreal The city's public life was marked by a series of labour conflicts and bloody sectarian riots at the same time the ways that elites wielded power and ordinary people engaged in the political process were changing particularly in public space In Taking to the Streets Dan Horner examines how the urban environment became a vital and contentious political site during the tumultuous period from the end of the 1837-38 rebellions to the burning of Parliament in 1849 Employing a close reading of newspaper and judicial archives he looks at a broad range of collective crowd experiences including riots labour demonstrations religious processions and parades By examining how crowd events were used both to assert claims of political authority and to challenge their legitimacy Horner charts the development of a contentious democratic political culture in British North America Taking to the Streets is an important contribution to the political and urban history of pre Confederation Canada and a timely reminder of how Montrealers from all walks of life have always used the streets to build community and make their voices heard

Le Concept de liberté au Canada à l'époque des Révolutions atlantiques (1776-1838) Michel Ducharme, 2010 Cet ouvrage revisite l'histoire intellectuelle et politique canadienne entre la révolution américaine et les rébellions de 1837-1838 au Haut et au Bas Canada en la reliant dans le cadre des Révolutions atlantiques qui ont secoué l'Europe et l'Amérique entre 1776 et 1838 Reposant sur un cadre théorique inspiré des travaux des historiens intellectuels du monde atlantique il traite plus particulièrement de l'importance du concept de liberté dans le développement de l'état dans les deux colonies Il démontre que ces dernières se sont développées à partir de 1791 en suivant un idéal de liberté qui tout en étant différent de la liberté libérale au sein des mouvements révolutionnaires de la fin du XVIIIe siècle n'en était pas moins issu des Lumières Il présente également les rébellions de 1837-1838 comme tant en partie le résultat d'un affrontement entre deux concepts très différents de liberté

Quatrième de couverture Bibliographie du Québec, 1999 Des sociétés distinctes Harold Bérubé, 2014-12-01 In 2006 fifteen suburban municipalities of Montreal partially regained the autonomy they lost during the 2002 mergers The fact that most of these were affluent suburbs did not go unnoticed Supporters of the one island one city project saw the demerged municipalities as fiscal and linguistic enclaves refusing integration into the wider metropolitan community but for merger opponents they represented the last political institutions of Quebec's anglophone community with long established local identities and distinct political cultures Harold B rub studies three of these distinct societies Westmount Pointe Claire and Town of Mount Royal between the end of the nineteenth century and the beginning of the Second World War demonstrating that they were the stage for a distinctive form of suburban governance rooted in the search for socioeconomic distinction in a quickly changing metropolitan environment Through the use of local government municipal politicians created a physical and social environment that clearly set them apart from the rest of the island and that conformed to a bourgeois suburban ideal If they were indeed home to English speaking majorities what really defined their autonomy was affluence an attention to town planning and efficient governance traits that became the foundations of strong local identities and that persist in the first decades of the twentieth century An in depth look into the roots of suburban democracy in Montreal Des soci t s distinctes explores the desire to create and maintain distinct suburban communities as the surrounding expanding city encroached upon them and serves as an important historical backdrop to ideas about urban politics collective identity and municipal amalgamation Fous, Prodiges, Ivrognes Thierry Nootens, 2007-03-19 Vivre avec un individu alcoolique d rang dans son esprit ou d pensier l exc s pouvait s av rer d sastreux pour les familles montr alaises forc es de s adapter aux exigences et aux risques du capitalisme industriel Craignant de perdre leur statut social et leur respectabilit plusieurs d entre elles ont requis l interdiction judiciaire d un de leurs membres en vue de lui retirer sa capacit civile L enfermement des personnes jug es anormales connut aussi un succ s grandissant au fil du dix neuvi me si cle America, History and Life ,2002 Provides historical coverage of the United States and Canada from prehistory to the present Includes information abstracted from over 2 000 journals published worldwide Nourrir la machine humaine Caroline Durand, 2015-04-01 Nutrition advice is ubiquitous So many experts give their opinion on which foods to favour and which to avoid that the question of diet has now become a matter of obsession While alerting the public to the dangers of obesity diabetes and other potential issues that await undisciplined eaters health professionals and government agencies also identify those responsible for these modern epidemics it is often individuals and usually mothers who make poor choices In Nourrir la machine humaine Caroline Durand traces the origins of this rhetoric and shows how nutrition has contributed to the modernization of Quebec in a period marked by industrialization urbanization two world wars and a major economic crash She analyzes the writings and images disseminated by physicians nurses nutritionists nuns teachers and civil servants and shows how the rational diet they promulgated made women children farmers and workers responsible for their own health while enjoining them to view their body as a machine of production in service to the state and the market She also discusses the evolution of Quebec dietary habits and reveals that despite the nutritional directives in place the population maintained its preferences and mostly adopted the foods that it judged affordable and desirable Nourrir la machine humaine questions the pertinence of nutritional advice within Quebec society and proposes explanations of its
