Language and Identity in the Israel-Palestine Conflict

Camelia Suleiman, 2011-09-30 The conflict between Israel and Palestine is and remains to be one of the most widely and passionately debated issues in the Middle East and in the field of international politics An important part of this conflict is the dimension of self perception of both Israelis and Palestinians caught up in its midst Here Camelia Suleiman using her background in linguistic analysis examines the interplay of language and identity feminism and nationalism and how the concepts of spatial and temporal boundaries affect self perception She does this through interviews with peace activists from a variety of backgrounds Palestinians with Israeli citizenship Jewish Israelis as well as Palestinians from Ramallah officially holders of Jordanian passports By emphasizing the importance of these levels of official identity Suleiman explores how self perception is influenced negotiated and manifested and how place of birth and residence play a major role in this conflict This book therefore holds vital first hand analysis of the conflict and its impact upon both Israelis and Palestinians making it crucial for anyone involved in Middle East Studies Conflict Studies and International Relations

Rethinking Orientalism

Reina Lewis, 2004-09-24 The oppressed yet highly sexualized woman of the Muslim harem is arguably the pivotal figure of Western orientalism Yet as Reina Lewis demonstrates while orientalist thinking had recently been challenged Western understandings of Middle Eastern culture remain limited This book presents alternative dialogues between Ottoman and Western women Lewis examines from the position of cultural theory the published autobiographical accounts about segregated life of self identified Oriental women Demetra Vaka Brown Halide Edib Zeyneb Hanum Melek Hanum and Grace Ellison Bringing her subjects vividly to life Lewis uses these texts to challenge the Western orientalist stereotypes that have become commonplace within postcolonial theory

Willa Cather's Transforming Vision

Gary Brienzo, 1994 Willa Cather's Transforming Vision New France and the American Northeast explores Cather's search for meaning and a domestic center in particular as her search was influenced by her feelings for New France and the American Northeast Including biography critical overview and primary research into both Cather's writing and some of her most unusual historical sources this study focuses on Shadows on the Rock while incorporating this pivotal novel into the larger pattern of Cather's growing need for belonging and order Shadows on the Rock set in the city of Quebec Kebec at the end of the seventeenth century is Cather's fullest expression of love for French culture and its adaptation to New World soil But more than a mere extolling of what Mme Auclair in Shadows proudly calls our way a skill with all things domestic that she boasts renders the French the most civilized people in Europe this novel is a statement of faith in the ability of both individuals and larger societal orders to work together for the creation of an all encompassing whole Writing at mid life after the recent illnesses and deaths of her parents Cather could posit in her story of New France a familial order much larger than the domestic heart of her earlier masterpiece My Antonia In all of Quebec as in the incomplete but fruitful home of the widowed apothecary Euclide Auclair and his daughter Cecile life is sustained by a merging of gender and social roles as a bishop can become the symbolic head of an entire church as well as of a troubled family and a bellicose count can play as warm and nurturing a role as the gentlest of parents

Gender and the Making of Modern Medicine in Colonial Egypt Hibba Abugideiri, 2016-04-15 Gender and the Making of Modern Medicine in Colonial Egypt investigates the use of medicine as a tool of empire to serve the state building process in Egypt by the British colonial administration. It argues that the colonial state effectively transformed Egyptian medical practice and medical knowledge in ways that were decidedly gendered. On the one hand, women medical professionals who had once trained as doctresses (hakimas) were now restricted in their medical training and therefore saw their social status decline despite colonial modernity's promise of progress. On the other hand, the introduction of colonial medicine gendered Egyptian medicine in ways that privileged men and masculinity. Far from being totalized colonial subjects, Egyptian doctors paradoxically reappropriated aspects of Victorian science to forge an anticolonial nationalist discourse premised on the Egyptian woman as mother of the nation. By relegating Egyptian women, whether as midwives or housewives, to maternal roles in the home, colonial medicine was determinative in diminishing what control women formerly exercised over their profession, homes, and bodies through its medical dictates to care for others. By interrogating how colonial medicine was constituted, Hibba Abugideiri reveals how the rise of the modern state configured the social formation of native elites in ways directly tied to the formation of modern gender identities and gender inequalities in colonial Egypt.

A Social History Of Women And Gender In The Modern Middle East Margaret Lee Meriwether, 2018-02-12 Synthesizing the results of the extensive research on women and gender done over the last twenty years, Margaret L. Meriwether and Judith E. Tucker provide an accessible overview of the scholarship on women and gender in the nineteenth and twentieth century Middle East. The book is organized along thematic lines that reflect major focuses of research in this area: gender and work, gender and the state, gender and law, gender and religion, and feminist movements, and each chapter is written by a scholar who has done original research on the topic.
