Picture-Work Diana Kamin, 2023-11-21 How the image collection organized and made available for public consumption came to define a key feature of contemporary visual culture The origins of today's kaleidoscopic digital visual culture are many In this book Diana Kamin traces the sharing of photographs to an image economy developed throughout the twentieth century by major institutions Picture Work examines how three of these institutions the New York Public Library the Museum of Modern Art and the stock agency H Armstrong Roberts Inc defined the public's understanding of what the photographic image is while building vast collections with universalizing ambitions Highlighting underexplored figures such as the first rights and reproduction manager at MoMA Pearl Moeller and visionary NYPL librarian Romana Javitz and underexplored professional practices Diana Kamin demonstrates how bureaucratic work communicates ideas about images to the public Kamin artfully shows how the public interfaces with these image collections through systems of classification and protocols of search and retrieval These interactions in turn shape contemporary image culture including concepts of authorship art property and value as well as logics of indexing tagging and hyperlinking Together these interactions have forged a concept of the image as alienable content which has intensified with the advent of digital techniques for managing image collections To survey the complicated process of digitization in the nineties and early aughts Kamin also includes interviews with photographers digital asset management system designers librarians and artists on their working practices

Guide to Federal Records in the National Archives of the United States: Record groups 1-170 United States. National Archives and Records Administration, 1995

National Archives Accessions National Archives (U.S.), The Record United States. National Archives and Records Administration, 1994

Indigenous Archives Darren Jorgensen, Ian McLean, 2017 The archive is a source of power It takes control of the past deciding which voices will be heard and which won't how they will be heard and for what purposes Indigenous archivists were at work well before the European Enlightenment arrived and began its own archiving Sometimes at odds other times not these two ways of ordering the world have each learned from and engaged with the other Colonialism has been a struggle over archives and its processes as much as anything else The eighteen essays by twenty authors investigate different aspects of this struggle in Australia from traditional Indigenous archives and their developments in recent times to the deconstruction of European archives by contemporary artists as acts of cultural empowerment It also examines the use of archives developed for other reasons such as the use of rainfall records to interpret early Papunya paintings Indigenous Archives is the first overview of archival research in the production and understanding of Indigenous culture Wide ranging in its scope it reveals the lively state of research into Indigenous histories and culture in Australia

British Archives Janet Foster, Julia Sheppard, 1995-09-27 Since it was first published in 1982 British Archives has established itself as the premier reference work to holdings of archives and manuscript collections throughout the UK The 3rd edition has been extensively revised and enlarged with more than 150 new entries further widening the range of the book Entries are structured to show the archives of the organisation as distinct from deposited collections and significant non manuscript material and additional details of fax number and conservation provision are included for the first time All the existing entries have been significantly updated together with the select bibliography and list of useful addresses of various organisations involved in the care and custody of archives The introduction provides an invaluable guide to researchers using archives including a summary of the relevant legislation and a detailed description of the usual holdings of county and other local authority record offices

Archival Information Steven Fisher, 2004-03-30 From original manuscripts and letters to sound recordings and birth certificates archival information plays an increasingly important role in modern research Libraries and the Internet have made finding information on a wide range of topics faster and easier but not all information particularly from primary sources is available via local library branches or online resources Using archival information presents its own challenges Materials are often located in many different places public or academic libraries government agencies historical societies or museums They are usually kept in secured areas where the public is restricted from browsing This definitive guide shows novice and experienced researchers how to find archival information It provides tips on how to use archival materials effectively and efficiently Topics covered include government archives science and technology collections military archives genealogical records business and corporate archives performing arts archives and sports collections Also provided is an overview of the world of archives including archival terminology how to contact archives and archival etiquette Whether searching for a noted author's original manuscripts trying to locate presidential papers or tracking down a repository of oral histories Archival Information is an indispensable reference

Annotation, 1981-07-09 Constructing and Sharing Memory Larry Stillman, 2009-05-27 Community Informatics is a developing field which brings together understandings about the interaction of communities and information and communication technologies from fields as diverse as Management and Information Systems Library and Information Sciences Community Development Sociology or Social and Community Welfare A key assumption of community informatics is that technologies can be used for positive social change and development particularly with disadvantaged communities or communities that hitherto have not had a public voice The volume brings together international perspectives around defining and debating the idea of community memory which as Alex Byrne President of the International Federation of Library Associations and Institutions observed in his splendid and wide ranging Introduction community memories are multilayered changeable conflicting and contested and the multilayering changeability and contest between different players provide fertile theoretical and practical ground for Community Informatics and its interdisciplinary cousins Community Informatics is an emerging new multi disciplinary approach to the study of the intersection of communities and Information and Communication Technologies This volume contains significant contributions from international practitioners and researchers in the fields of archives record keeping community knowledge management emerging information and communication technologies history community development virtual as well as real and Community Informatics as a growing discipline The content of the book is a unique contribution in the field The volume will be read by researchers and communities interested in how they communicate their past present and future Professor Emerita Gunilla Bradley Informatics School of ICT Royal Institute of Technology KTH Stockholm Sweden Practitioners researchers and theoreticians in Community Informatics will find a unique array of valuable perspectives in this book It covers the interaction of communities memories and technologies in a highly original way with regard to its breadth and the number of case studies it presents It incorporates contributions from 13 countries in all parts of our endangered planet thus providing the international perspective that is critical to understanding how communities can use technology for societal good Professor Michel Menou Les Rosiers sur Loire France Associate Centre for Information Behaviour and the Evaluation of Research University College London London United Kingdom

Cosmo Innes and the Defence of Scotland's Past c. 1825-1875 Richard A. Marsden, 2016-05-13 Today Scotland's history is frequently associated with the clarion call of political nationalism However in the nineteenth century the influence of history on Scottish national identity was far more ambiguous How then did ideas about the past shape Scottish identity in a period when union with England was all but unquestioned The activities of the antiquary Cosmo Innes 1798 1874 help us to address this question Innes was a prolific editor of medieval and early modern documents relating to Scotland's parliament legal system burghs universities aristocratic families and pre Reformation church Yet unlike scholars today he saw that editorial role in interventionist terms His source editions were artificial constructs that powerfully articulated his worldview and agendas emphasising Enlightenment inspired narratives of social progress and institutional development At the same time they used manuscript facsimiles and images of medieval architecture to foreground a romantic concern for the texture of past lives Innes operated within an elite associational culture which gave him access to the leading intellectuals and politicians of the day His representations of Scottish history therefore had significant influence and were put to work as commentaries on some of the major debates which exorcised Scotland's intelligentsia across the middle decades of the century This analysis of Innes's work with sources set within the intellectual context of the time and against the antiquarian activities of his contemporaries provides a window onto the ways in which the national past was perceived in Scotland during the nineteenth century This allows us to explore how historical thinkers negotiated the apparent dichotomies between Enlightenment and Romanticism whilst at the same time enabling a re examination of prevailing assumptions about Scotland s supposed failure to maintain a viable national consciousness in the later 1800s American Horizons Keith F. Davis, Art Sinsabaugh, 2004 This revealing monograph explores how Sinsabaugh s wide format photographs expose the bond between humankind and the earth as suggested by his images of wide horizons interspersed by skyscrapers bridges silos and highways 96 colour 200 b w illustrations Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications United States. Congress. House. Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries. Subcommittee on Oceanography, 1978 Research within the Disciplines Peggy Keeran, Michael Levine-Clark, 2014-04-28 Research within the Disciplines is designed to help reference librarians and students studying to become librarians gain that deeper understanding of disciplinary differences that allows them to comfortably solve information needs rather than merely responding to questions and practical knowledge about how to work with researchers in a library setting The book has three chapters that cover the disciplines at the broadest level humanities social sciences and sciences plus supplemental chapters that focus on associated disciplines research in history business and engineering research using government sources and across disciplines interdisciplinary and critical information literacy For the second edition of Research within the Disciplines several chapters have been added that together give a broader and deeper overview of research across all subject areas research practices of creative and performing artists and of clinical scientists research in international documents research strategies for foreign language materials and visual literacy across the disciplines Major shifts in technology have been accounted for that have changed how we do research and have expanded the range of resources available to researchers in all disciplines All of the chapters have been rewritten or heavily revised this is much more a new book than a new edition Libraries, Archives, and Museums Today Peter Botticelli, Martha R. Mahard, Michèle V. Cloonan, 2019-02-08 This book offers insights into changes brought about by the enormous growth of the internet There are new ways to share cultural heritage materials through online finding aids exhibits and other initiatives What has been accomplished across libraries archives and museums The authors consider that question by using case studies to explore activities in 14 libraries archives museums and other heritage organizations They consider what we can learn from current collaborations within and across libraries archives and museums and why some collaborations are successful while others cannot be sustained Their findings are based on observations and interviews at institutions and organizations in the United States Australia and the U K These organizations have worked to make their collections accessible Some have simply digitized their collections while others have enhanced their collection management systems Others have incorporated digital asset management systems to organize and retrieve media and to manage digital rights and permissions Most of these institutions and organizations have succeeded through strategic partnerships strategic planning and insightful leadership However the book also contains examples of institutions that have undergone transitions one of the museums closed and another closed its library Taken together the fourteen institutions shed light on professional practices today
