Crown Us with Laurel Lois Silverstein, 2012-07-17 Crown Us

With Laurel is an exploration of the writing consciousness illustrated through author Lois Silverstein's personal journey as a writer and teacher. It uses her writing and that of students to show how the mind creates works of art. Crown Us With Laurel includes Silverstein's poems, short fiction, and essays as well as samples of her students' work and her original play VALIA The Story of a Woman of Courage. The Golden Dawn Israel Regardie, Cris Monnastre, 1989 Provides an overview of the knowledge and practices of the Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn, describes rituals of the Outer and Inner Orders, and discusses techniques of magical practice, clairvoyance, talismans, and other topics. The ROSE of Brays Bayou Sidney St. James, 2020-04-21 This novel, written in the Creative Nonfiction genre, is factually accurate. As the author, my primary goal in writing in this style is to communicate the truthful information just like a seasoned journalist, but to shape it in such a way that it reads like fiction. The rush to the Louisiana border was known to the Texans as the Runaway Scrape, the Great Runaway, or the Sabine Shoot. Whatever one calls it, the wild exodus was a nightmare of terror and suffering for women and children across the Lone Star State. It was only their burning desire for retribution which made it possible for them to keep going. REMEMBER THE ALAMO. REMEMBER GOLIAD. COME AND TAKE IT. Dilue Rose Harris told her story for the Eagle Lake Headlight in 1900. William Kell gave a copy of the manuscript to Sidney St. James in an edited form. Her story now comes forth and is told through the perspective of a creative nonfiction genre. Delicate women trudged from day to day until their shoes wore completely out and continued their journey to the east with bare feet lacerated and bleeding at almost every step. Their clothes were scant and provided no means of shelter from frequent drenching downpours and bitterly cold winds. Soldier from the Battle of San Jacinto. Constant exposure to the elements caused measles, whooping cough, and other unknown diseases. Many died from along the Sabine Shoot. One woman and her two children rode a horse that bolted into a swollen bayou and plummeted into the torrent. Horrified refugees on the other bank could only watch as a horse, mother, and children swept under, never to be seen again by the swift current. The cries of the women were distressing. They raised their hands to Heaven and declared they lost their all. They knew not where to go. Many said they preferred to die on the road rather than die at the hand of the Mexicans or Indians. Dilue Rose Harris, I would like to make a very special toast for our Second Anniversary ball. The men of Texas deserved much of the credit, but more was due to the many women across Texas. Armed men facing a foe couldn't but be brave. But my friends, the women with their little children around them without means of defense or power to resist, faced danger and death with unflinching courage. God bless the women of Texas. General Thomas Jefferson Rusk, not wishing the women and children to see their homes put to the torch in Gonzales, Texas, Sam Houston led the civilians out of the small community. Then he ordered every roof large enough to shelter a Mexican's head burned to the ground. Captain John Sharpe and his torch crew stayed behind and burned every building in site to the ground.

Houston's efforts to spare their feelings were in vain. That night however they turned and saw the orange glow on the horizon as Gonzales burned to the ground. Everything Finally the women of the Runaway Scrape justifiably regarded themselves as Veterans of the Texas Revolution. They endured dangers and hardships as harsh as those faced by their soldier husbands. Not as commonly lauded over the last almost two hundred years their efforts were just as important. Santa Anna had no secret of his objective. He wanted to drink a cup of coffee from the waters of the Sabine River and on the way rid Texas of all disloyal foreigners. His campaign ended on April 21 1836. Costume and Cinema Sarah Street, 2001. Costume and Cinema Dress Codes in Popular Film presents an overview of the literature on film costume together with a series of detailed case studies which highlight how costume is a key signifier in film texts. Sarah Street demonstrates how costume relates in fundamental ways to the study of film narrative and mise en scene in some cases constituting a language of its own. In particular the book foregrounds the related issues of adaptation and embodiment in a variety of different genres and investigates this under explored area through extensive analysis of popular films including The Talented Mr Ripley Desperately Seeking Susan and The Matrix.

The Menstrual Imaginary in Literature Natalie Rose Dyer, 2020-11-21. This book draws on literary cultural and critical examples forming a menstrual imaginary a body of work by women writers and poets that builds up a concept of women's creativity in an effort to overturn menstrual prejudice. The text addresses key arbiters of the menstrual imaginary in a series of letters including Sylvia Plath the initiator of the blood jet. Helene Cixous the pioneer of a conceptual red ink and the volcanic unconscious and Luce Irigaray the inaugurator of women's artistic process relative to a vital flow of desire based in sexual difference. The text also undertakes provocative readings against the grain re readings of the Medusa the Sphinx Little Red Riding Hood and The Red Shoes as a means of affirmatively and poetically re imagining a woman's flow. Natalie Rose Dyer argues for re envisioning menstrual bleeding and creativity in reaction and resistance to ongoing and problematic societal views of menstruation. Catalogue of English Prose Fiction in the Library, Jan. 1895 Public Library of Brookline, 1895.
