these two competing visions of land and space that Donald Kueck a desert hermit who loved animals and hated civilization took his last stand gunning down beloved deputy sheriff Steven Sorensen when he approached his trailer at high noon on a scorching summer day As the sound of rifle fire echoed across the Mojave Kueck took off into the desert he knew so well kicking off the biggest manhunt in modern California history until he was finally killed in a Wagnerian firestorm under a full moon as nuns at a nearby convent watched and prayed This manhunt was the subject of a widely praised article by Deanne Stillman first published in Rolling Stone a finalist for a PEN Center USA journalism award and included in the anthology Best American Crime Writing 2006 In Desert Reckoning she continues her desert beat and uses Kueck s story as a point of departure to further explore our relationship to place and the wars that are playing out on our homeland In addition Stillman also delves into the hidden history of Los Angeles County and traces the paths of two men on a collision course that could only end in the modern Wild West Why did a brilliant self taught rocket scientist who just wanted to be left alone go off the rails when a cop showed up What role did the California prison system play in this drama What happens to people when the American dream is stripped away And what is it like for the men who are sworn to protect and serve

The Myth of an Afterlife Michael Martin, Keith Augustine, 2015-03-12 Because every single one of us will die most of us would like to know what if anything awaits us afterward not to mention the fate of lost loved ones Given the nearly universal vested interest in deciding this question in favor of an afterlife it is no surprise that the vast majority of books on the topic affirm the reality of life after death without a backward glance But the evidence of our senses and the ever gaining strength of scientific evidence strongly suggest otherwise In The Myth of an Afterlife The Case against Life after Death Michael Martin and Keith Augustine collect a series of contributions that redress this imbalance in the literature by providing a strong comprehensive and up to date casebook of the chief arguments against an afterlife Divided into four separate sections this collection opens with a broad overview of the issues as contributors consider the strongest evidence of whether or not we survive death in particular the biological basis of all mental states and their grounding in brain activity that ceases to function at death Next contributors consider a host of conceptual and empirical difficulties that confront the various ways of surviving death from bodiless minds to bodily resurrection to any form of posthumous survival Then essayists turn to internal inconsistencies between traditional theological conceptions of an afterlife heaven hell karmic rebirth and widely held ethical principles central to the belief systems supporting those notions In the final section authors offer critical evaluations of the main types of evidence for an afterlife Fully interdisciplinary The Myth of an Afterlife The Case against Life after Death brings together a variety of fields of research to make that case including cognitiveneuroscience philosophy of mind personal identity philosophy of religion moralphilosophy psychical research and anomalistic psychology As the definitive casebook of arguments against life after death this collection is required reading for any instructor researcher and student of philosophy religious studies or theology It is sure to raise provocative issues new to readers regardless of background from those who
