Cognitive Therapy with Couples and Groups Arthur Freeman, 2013-11-22. It is with great pride and satisfaction that I welcome the publication of Cognitive Therapy with Couples and Groups. For several years, Arthur Freeman, Director of Clinical Services at the Center for Cognitive Therapy, has been a leader in attempting to extend a cognitive approach to new problems and new populations and to expand the approaches for treating the depressed outpatients for whom this approach was first developed. Dr. Freeman brought to the Center the full range and depth of a diverse clinical background which had and continues to broaden and enrich his work both as a therapist and as a teacher. I believe he has applied these dimensions of his experience fully in developing and editing this volume. The chapters in this book clearly reflect those clinical problems that have attracted the keenest interest on the part of practicing cognitive therapists which are encountered so frequently in the course of treating depression. The utilization of cognitive therapy with couples, families, groups, and in training is a clear example of this process, an intriguing topic in its own right. Conversely, coping with special clinical phenomena such as loneliness is a familiar problem to therapists of depressed patients. Laura Primakoff demonstrates her creativity and experience in her treatment of this subject. Similarly, the chapters on alcoholism and agoraphobia are timely elaborations of the original cognitive model for the individual treatment of depression.

Catalog of Copyright Entries. Third Series Library of Congress. Copyright Office, 1977. Drug Dependence and Alcoholism Arnold J. Schecter, 2012-12-06. The 1978 National Drug Abuse Conference held in Seattle marked the beginning of the second decade of these conferences and their predecessor National Methadone Conferences. They began as small conferences devoted to understanding the problems and promises inherent in methadone maintenance treatment of opiate dependent patients. The first conference was held about a decade ago in New York City at the Rockefeller University. The attendees consisted of a small group of invited clinicians, administrators, and research workers. Over the years, the conferences have increased in both breadth and depth of their coverage. On a national scale, this conference alone considered the issues of alcoholism, opiate dependence, polydrug abuse, and all other forms of substance abuse. The thousands attending each of the conferences came from all walks of life within our field. Lawyers, physicians, and basic and applied research scientists met and interacted with counselors, administrators, government officials, ex-addicts, controlled alcoholics, and others with serious interest in this field. Only at this conference was it possible to attend presentations concerning the newest findings of a cellular, molecular, and chemical basis on one day and participate in discussions of problems of disadvantaged minorities, women, and clinicians on the next day. It was uniquely possible to meet with government officials and question them publicly as well as in individual private conversations at this conference.
