Contemporary Greedy Institutions: An Essay on Lewis Coser's Concept in the Era of the 'Hive Mind'

MARIANNE EGGER DE CAMPO*
Berlin School of Economics and Law

Abstract: Lewis Coser perennially discussed various forms and facets of 'greedy institutions' with their total grasp on the individual. Coser's 'greedy institutions' demand undivided time and loyalty from the individual who will voluntarily devote him/herself for exclusive benefits only granted to loyal followers. Although the ancient authorities have vanished—princes with their court Jews, masters with their servants, or religious and political missionaries—one can argue that the idea of the greedy institution is far from obsolete today. Management consultants, 24/7 old-age carers from Eastern Europe and particularly the 'hive mind' of new social media show that a revisiting of Coser's theory can help in understanding modern forms of greed in institutions. This awareness may enhance vigilance against intrusions into personal autonomy.

One concept that incessantly occupied Lewis Coser's as well as Rose Laub Coser's [Coser 1999] critical thinking was the allegiance claimed by the individual in relations of power. He analysed the relations between sectarians and sects as early as in the 1950s [Coser 1954], and the relation between a powerful ruler and his eunuchs [Coser 1964] or court Jews [Coser 1972]. Further, he compared celibacy in the Catholic Church with the claim for complex marriage in the utopian communities of the late 18th and the 19th century in the United States [Coser 1967]. In another bold comparison, Coser analysed the similarities between Jesuits and Leninists in terms of their relations to the collective [Coser 1973b] and (prematurely) predicted the obsolescence of the occupational role of the domestic servant [Coser 1973a]. A shared trait of these obviously very diverse phenomena is, by and large, the lack of external coercion and the unlimited claim made on all of the individual's cathectical (i.e. mental and emotional) energy.

Sexual Politics and Greedy Institutions Suzanne Franzway, 2001 Exploration of the challenges and conflicts women face with regard to participation in unions and other labour institutions Highlights the paradox that trade unions along with other agents of social improvement demand a level of commitment that precludes many people particularly women from being involved Contends that this practice makes it difficult for women to contribute to the institutions that are supposed to be in place to protect their rights Includes notes references and index Author is Senior Lecturer and member of the Research Centre for Gender Studies at the University of South Australia and previously wrote Staking a Claim Feminism Bureaucracy and the State

The Sexual Politics of Gendered Violence and Women's Citizenship Suzanne Franzway, Nicole Moulding, Sarah Wendt, Carole Zufferey, Donna Chung, 2019-10-09 The challenge of violence against women should be recognised as an issue for the state citizenship and the whole community This book examines how responses by the state sanction violence against women and shape a woman's citizenship long after she has escaped from a violent partner Drawing from a long term study of women's lives in Australia including before and after a relationship with a violent partner it investigates the effects of intimate partner violence on aspects of everyday life including housing employment mental health and social participation The book contributes to theoretical explanations of violence against women by reframing it through the lens of sexual politics Finally it offers critical insights for the development of social policy and practice

Feminisms in Social Work Research Stéphanie Wahab, Ben Anderson-Nathe, Christina Gringeri, 2014-07-25 Social work as a profession and academic discipline has long centered women and issues of concern to women such as reproductive rights labor rights equal rights violence and poverty In fact the social work profession was started by and maintained in large part by women and has been home to several generations of feminists starting with recognized first wave feminists This wide ranging volume both maps the contemporary landscape of feminist social work research and offers a deep engagement with critical and third wave feminisms in social work research Showcasing the breadth and depth of exemplary social work feminist research the editors argue that social work's unique focus on praxis daily proximities to privilege and oppression concern with social change and engagement with participatory forms of inquiry place social workers in a unique position to both learn from and contribute to broader social science and humanities discourse associated with feminist research The authors attend here to their specific claims of feminisms articulate deep engagement with theory address the problematic use of binaries and engage with issues associated with methods that are consistently of interest to feminist researchers such as power and authority ethics reflexivity praxis and difference Comprehensive and containing an international selection of contributions Feminisms in Social Work Research is an important reference for all social work researchers with an interest in critical perspectives

Gendering and Diversifying Trade Union Leadership Sue Ledwith, Lise Lotte Hansen, 2013 Examining the experiences of leadership among trade unionists in a range of unions and labor movements around the world this volume addresses perspectives of women and men from a range of identities such as race ethnicity sexuality and age It analyses existing models of leadership in various political organizational forms especially trade unions but also including business and management approaches leadership forms which arise from fields such as community pedagogy and the third sector This book analyzes and critiques concepts expectations and experiences of union leaders and leadership in labor organizations while comparing gender and cultural perspectives Contributors to the volume draw on empirical research to identify key ideas beliefs and experiences which are critical to achieving change setting up resistance and transforming the inertia of traditionalism Women and Labour Organizing in Asia Kaye Broadbent,Michele Ford,2007-12-21 Providing a full account of the role of women in union activism in Asia covering all the major economies of the region this book successfully challenges the prevailing conception of women workers in Asia as passive and uninterested in industrial issues

Performing and Reforming Leaders Jill Blackmore,Judyth Sachs,2012-02-01 Winner of the 2007 Critics Choice Award presented by the American Educational Studies Association Performing and Reforming Leaders critically analyzes how women negotiate the dilemmas they face in leadership and managerial roles in Australian schools universities and continuing education To meet the economic needs of the post welfare nation state of the past decade Australian education systems were restructured and this restructuring coincided with many female teachers and academics moving into middle management as change agents The authors examine how new managerialism and markets in education transformed how academics and teachers did their work and in turn changed the nature of educational leadership in ways that were dissonant with the leadership practices and values women brought to the job While largely focused on Australia Performing and Reforming Leaders strongly resonates with the experiences of leaders in the United States and other nations that have undergone similar educational reforms in recent decades

Refusing Death Nadia Y. Kim,2021-06-01 The industrial port belt of Los Angeles is home to eleven of the top twenty oil refineries in California the largest ports in the country and those racist monuments we call freeways In this uncelebrated corner of La La Land through which most of America s goods transit pollution is literally killing the residents In response a grassroots movement for environmental justice has grown predominated by Asian and undocumented Latin immigrant women who are transforming our political landscape yet we know very little about these change makers In Refusing Death Nadia Y Kim tells their stories finding that the women are influential because of their ability to remap politics community and citizenship in the face of the country s nativist racism and system of class injustice defined not just by disproportionate environmental pollution but also by neglected schools surveillance and deportation and political marginalization The women are highly conscious of how these harms are an assault on their bodies and emotions and of their resulting reliance on a state they prefer to avoid and ignore In spite of such challenges and contradictions however they have developed creative unconventional and loving ways to support and protect one another They challenge the state s betrayal demand respect and ultimately refuse death Interpretive Political Science

R. A. W. Rhodes, 2017 Interpretive Political Science is the second of two volumes featuring a selection of key writings by R A W Rhodes. Volume II looks forward and explores the interpretive turn and its implications for the craft of political science especially public administration and draws together articles from 2005 onwards on the theme of the interpretive turn in political science. Part I provides a summary statement of the interpretive approach and Part II develops the theme of blurring genres and discusses a variety of research methods common in the humanities including ethnographic fieldwork, life history and focus groups. Part III demonstrates how the genres of thought and presentation found in the humanities can be used in political science. It presents four examples of such blurring at work with studies of applied anthropology and civil service reform, women's studies and government departments and storytelling and local knowledge. The book concludes with a summary of what is edifying about an interpretive approach and why this approach matters and revisits some of the more common criticisms before indulging in plausible conjectures about the future of interpretivism. The author seeks new and interesting ways to explore governance, high politics, public policies and the study of public administration in general. Volume I collects in one place for the first time the main articles written by Rhodes on policy networks and governance between 1990 and 2005 and explores a new way of describing British government focusing on policy making and the ways in which policy is put into practice.

Making Globalization Work for Women Valentine M. Moghadam, Suzanne Franzway, Mary Margaret Fonow, 2011-11-28. Making Globalization Work for Women explores the potential for trade unions to defend the socioeconomic rights of women in a global context. Looking at labor policies and interviews with people in unions and nongovernmental organizations, the essays diagnose the problems faced by women workers across the world and assess the progress that unions in various countries have made in responding to those problems. Some concerns addressed include the masculine culture of many unions and the challenges of female leadership within them, laissez faire governance and the limited success of organizations working on these issues globally. Making Globalization Work for Women brings together in a synthetic and fruitful conversation the work and ideas of feminists, unions, NGOs and other human rights workers.

Union Women Mary Margaret Fonow, 2003. For more than a quarter century steel mills in the United States and Canada have produced more than metal; they have produced a new kind of worker and union activist. Women of Steel. In an era labeled postfeminist and postindustrial, women have created spaces in this quintessentially male dominated workforce from which to mobilize for their rights as women and workers. In Union Women, Mary Margaret Fonow captures the stories of the women of the United Steelworkers. She focuses on a tenacious group who used their developing power in the union to challenge sex discrimination and to advocate for women's rights and applied their transnational resources to construct a feminist response to globalization and economic restructuring. In the process, they have transformed the organizations' resources and networks of both the labor and women's movements and have in turn transformed themselves into feminists. In Union Women, Fonow uses statistical, archival and ethnographic research methods to provide a broad historical account of women in the steel.

industry Fonow's sweeping approach allows her to examine several key issues in social movement feminist and political theory and to show that insights from these fields shape each other. She explores how social movements are gendered how working class women develop a feminist consciousness and how this process is informed by intersecting demands of race class and gender. As a comparative cross national study Union Women also demonstrates how different political and social cultures affect women's organizing and strategic decisions. Finally Fonow emphasizes that economic restructuring and globalization pose immediate challenges for women as laborers and activists and that in order to survive all unions must develop organizing and mobilization strategies informed by feminism and other social movements.

Historical Dictionary of Organized Labor J. C. Docherty, 2012-06-14 The Historical Dictionary of Organized Labor looks at the history of organized labor to see where it came from and where it has been. This is done through a chronology an introductory essay appendixes a glossary of terms and an extensive bibliography. The dictionary section

Beyond Caring Labour to Provisioning Work Sheila Neysmith, Stephanie Baker-Collins, Marge Reitsma-Street, 2012-01-01 Although women have long been members of the labour force the proportion of domestic caring and community work they provide compared to men or the state has yet to decrease substantially. Beyond Caring Labour to Provisioning Work offers a powerful new framework for understanding women's work in a holistic sense acknowledging both their responsibilities in supporting others as well as their employment duties. Beyond Caring Labour to Provisioning Work is based on a four year multi site study of women who are members of contemporary community organizations. The authors reveal the complex ways in which these women define and value their own work investigating what supports and constrains their individual and collective efforts. Calling on the state to assist more with citizens provisioning responsibilities Beyond Caring Labour to Provisioning Work provides an excellent basis for new discussions on equitable and sustainable public policies.

The Hawke Legacy Gerry Bloustien, Barbara Comber, Alison Mackinnon, 2009 Bob Hawke was a popular and effective Prime Minister whose economic and social reforms are acknowledged to have shaped modern Australia. The book offers a timely look at the legacy of the Hawke era 1983-1991 by considering both the achievements of his ministry and what remains as unfinished business. The Hawke Legacy includes interviews with Bob Hawke with his former speechwriter Graeme Freudenberg and with former Senator Rosemary Crowley contributions from two former members of the Hawke Government and scholarly accounts from historical political economic educational and Indigenous perspectives.

Education Game Changers Karen E. Starr, 2014-12-08 Education Game Changers is written for an international readership. This book refers to all education levels and sectors and builds on research in educational leadership education business and organizational change. Karen E. Starr describes policy paradoxes challenging the sustainability of educational provision as we know it and the imperatives they present for educational leadership business and governance. This book critiques the paradoxical education policy context while exploring alternative futures they may spawn. It ponders both possibilities and pitfalls that cannot be ignored by instrumental players such as governments policy makers educational leaders and business managers researchers and analysts This book unveils rising cases of education business failures around the world the paucity of governance and business skill on educational boards and the irrational contradictions faced by governments in determining education policy      Trade Unions and Democracy Sakhela Buhlungu,2006 Publisher description      Australian Greens Stewart Jackson,2016-02-01 The Australian Greens played a pivotal role after the 2010 federal election It ensured the Gillard minority government went full term and won its first House of Representatives seat But what do we really know about the Greens in Australia Is the party really just an extension of the environment movement or a professional party capable of influencing the major parties This book examines the people who make the party tick Uncovers the members and activists of the party The Australian Greens From Activism to Australia s Third Party asks whether the Greens has made the transition from a home for tree huggers and alternative lifestyles to a party ready to work in Government      Caring Leadership in Turbulent Times Mary G. Green,2014-06-01 This book analyzes education reform through the eyes of those entrenched in the process policy makers administrators middle managers principals and teachers in the context of care A senior administrator who participated in the implementation of an unprecedented series of reforms that flattened the education system in a Canadian province and rebuilt it with a new mandate examines learning from the shortcomings of the past and provides a critical enquiry that can help determine the success or failure of future reform efforts by shedding light on the obstacles to avoid problems to correct and methods to embrace in order to overcome hurt and disappointment in a turbulent environment and foster more caring and effective educational organizations Few attempts have been made to write a book about women s work from the perspective of those in senior leadership roles in education others have written about it but not experienced it firsthand This book illuminates the controversial debate between women and gender in education and challenges assumptions about equity and the caring and democratic nature of education It contributes to a broader understanding and knowledge of the complexities of leadership work within education which in turn can lead to improvement in professional relationships as well as organizational effectiveness The book contains enlightening and compelling stories about the unique and shared experiences of people navigating turbulence within an organization Author Mary Green draws on her career spent teaching and learning to provide a unique Canadian perspective and context She offers a rigorous self social historical and political reflection of educators who despite experiencing particular challenges draw purpose from faith in the possibilities and potential of more caring practice in education The content will prove useful to those committed to infusing more humanity into work in education with reference to individuals institutions and the social and political challenges in the field Specifically this book is relevant to graduate students in faculties of education policy makers principals other administrators and organizational leaders Universal issues of power and politics reveal interconnections between the personal and the global workplace underscoring the importance of care in the workplace      Decriminalizing Abortion in Northern Ireland Fiona Bloomer,Emma

Campbell,2022-10-06 Abortion remains one of the most politicized issues globally and whilst some countries such as the USA continue to experience restrictions to access to abortion Northern Ireland stands out as having enacted historical positive change in abortion law from an almost complete ban throughout the Twentieth Century to decriminalization achieved in 2019 This book documents and analyzes how this historical change was achieved This the second of two volumes places emphasis on allies and support for abortion provision illustrating how the movement has relied upon an intersectional network of social movement actors NGOs and fundraisers to maintain momentum and inclusivity It also focuses on the reality of abortion provision Each chapter is written by those directly involved in the long fought battle to change abortion law including those with personal experience of seeking abortions activists academics legal experts political actors NGOs and volunteers This interdisciplinary text will be of relevance to academics and students in the disciplines of law policy political science and sociology but also to organizers and policy makers in other global contexts and across other social justice campaigns
