F. Bruce,2006-11-01 The Time is Fulfilled In this volume of essays based on the 1977 Moore College lectures in Sydney Australia F F Bruce examines five examples of the fulfillment of the Old Testament in the New In the first essay from which the title of the book is taken Bruce addresses Jesus words in Mark 1 14 15 The time is fulfilled and the kingdom of God has drawn near repent and believe the good news Bruce stresses that in fulfilling the time Jesus is not merely responding passively to conditions favorable to the establishment of his kingdom rather he has decisively taken the initiative to inaugurate the fullness of time which he has announced The remaining essays discuss other instances of the development of Old Testament themes in the New Testament the ways in which the ministry of Jesus confirms the testimony of Moses Abraham as the prototype of those elected by God the notion of a shadow of good things to come Heb 10 1 and the spirit of prophecy Rev 19 10      The Letters to the Colossians and to Philemon Douglas J. A World Made Safe for Differences Christopher Shannon, 2001 In A World Made Safe for Differences Christopher Shannon examines how an anthropological definition of culture shaped the central political and social narratives of the Cold War era In the middle decades of the twentieth century American intellectuals understood culture as a whole way of life and a pattern of values in order to account for and accommodate differences between America and other countries and within America itself Shannon locates the ideological origins of current debates about multiculturalism in the pluralist thought of consensus liberalism The emphasis on individualism in contemporary identity politics Shannon suggests must be understood as a legacy of the Cold War liberalism of the 1950s rather than the counter culture radicalism of the 1960s A World Made Safe for Differences is a highly original and controversial book that will be of great interest to students and scholars of twentieth century American history

The Cinema and Its Shadow Alice Maurice, 2013-03-15 The Cinema and Its Shadow argues that race has defined the cinematic apparatus since the earliest motion pictures especially at times of technological transition In particular this work explores how racial difference became central to the resolving of cinematic problems the stationary camera narrative form realism the synchronization of image and sound and perhaps most fundamentally the immaterial image the cinema's shadow which figures both the material reality of the screen image and its racist past Discussing early race subjects Alice Maurice demonstrates that these films influenced cinematic narrative in lasting ways by helping to determine the relation between stillness and motion spectacle and narrative drive The book examines how motion picture technology related to race embodiment and authenticity at specific junctures in cinema's development including the advent of narratives feature films and sound In close readings of such films as The Cheat Shadows and Hallelujah Maurice reveals how the rhetoric of race repeatedly embodies film technology endowing it with a powerful mix of authenticity and magic In this way the racialized subject became the perfect medium for showing off shoring up and reintroducing the cinematic apparatus at various points in the history of American film Moving beyond analyzing race in purely thematic or ideological terms Maurice traces how it shaped the formal and technological means of the cinema
