Civil Affairs Studies ... United States. Office of the Chief of Naval Operations,1944 Children's Books from Other Countries Carl M. Tomlinson,United States Board on Books for Young People,1998 Every child is entranced by the magic of story regardless of national boundaries Many of the most memorable childhood stories have their origins in other countries Exposing children to this multi national body of literature introduces them to the great diversity of people and cultures that populate the world at a young age enabling them to become more thoughtful and generous individuals Children s Books from Other Countries is a complete and current guide to international children s literature The concept of a bibliography of international children's literature is not new. In the past many books have accomplished this task. The last two decades, however, have not yet produced a current reference source devoted to international children's books. Children's Books from Other Countries wonderfully rectifies this lack of attention. An introductory essay provides an overview of the field including a discussion on the rationale of sharing international books with children, a brief history of the children's literature movement, related books and awards, and basic information about the International Board on Books for Young People (IBBY) and its American branch, the United States Board on Books for Young People (USBBY). An annotated bibliography contains over 700 titles from 29 different countries printed between 1950 and 1996. All titles are available in English; many have been translated, and others have originated in other English-speaking countries. The titles are organized by genre and have been selected for their high quality. They are primarily targeted for children ages 0-14, although a few outstanding young adult titles are included. Winners of the Mildred Batchelder Award and the Hans Christian Andersen Medal are listed in the appendix. Indexes include Author, Title, Index Country of Origin, Index and Subject Index. Affordable and readable, this timely resource is certainly a must for librarians and teachers and other professionals working with children. Sponsored by the United States

Signal Letters of the United States Merchant Marine, 1941 The Poet and the Lunatics G. K. Chesterton, 2001
Gabriel Gale is an eccentric poet. His madness is the madness of insight, and he uses this gift to solve or prevent crimes committed by madmen. Chesterton ably illustrates his own premise that lunacy and sanity may just be a point of view.

Cultural Encounters in Translated Children's Literature Helen Frank, 2014-04-08 Cultural Encounters in Translated Children's Literature offers a detailed and innovative model of analysis for examining the complexities of translating children's literature and sheds light on the interpretive choices at work in moving texts from one culture to another. The core of the study addresses the issue of how images of a nation, locale, or country are constructed in translated children's literature, with the translation of Australian children's fiction into French serving as a case study. Issues examined include the selection of books for translation, the relationship between children's books and the national and international publishing industry, the packaging of translations, and the importance of titles, blurbs, and covers. The linguistic and stylistic features specific to translating for children, intertextual references, the function of the translation in the target culture, didactic and pedagogical aims, euphemistic language, and explicitation and literariness in translated texts are also examined. The findings of the case study suggest that the most common constructs of Australia in French translations reveal a preponderance of traditional Eurocentric signifiers that identify Australia with the outback, the antipodes, the exotic, the wild, the unknown, the void, the end of the world, the young and innocent nation, and the Far West. Contemporary signifiers that construct Australia as urban, multicultural, Aboriginal, worldly, and inharmonious are seriously underrepresented. The study also shows that French translations are conventional, conservative, and didactic, showing preference for an exotic rather than local specificity, with systematic manipulation of Australian referents betraying a perception of Australia as antipodean rural exoticism. The significance of the study lies in underscoring the manner in which a given culture is constructed in another cultural milieu especially through translated children s literature

Sharks: A History of Fear in Australia Callum Denness, 2019-09-24 For as long as people have lived in Australia the shark has loomed large in our fears From the Noongar people of Western Australia who stayed out of the water for fear of being taken to media hysteria about attacks and even sightings today sharks occupy the dark recesses of our national psyche unlike any other predator They challenge the very sense of ourselves as Australians a people who hug the coastline and love the freedom of the surf And the dispute between whether to kill or protect sharks cuts to the political core of our nation yet another divide between the right and the left There is no denying that shark attacks have been increasing in recent years and so have our fears Where do we go from here How worried should we be Journalist Callum Denness deep dives into the history of our relationship with sharks and circles our fear by talking to activists marine biologists politicians surfers survivors and those who've lost loved ones Compelling and challenging this is the clearest picture yet of whether or not we can co-exist with sharks Don't get back into the water until you read Sharks A History of Fear in Australia
