Chrysostom,2012 This is the extended and annotated edition including an extensive biographical annotation about the author and his life The Homilies on the Epistles to the Corinthians have ever been considered by learned and devout men as among the most perfect specimens of his mind and teaching They are of that mixed form between exposition and exhortation which serves perhaps better than any other first to secure attention and then to convey to an attentive hearer the full purport of the holy words as they stand in the Bible and to communicate to him the very impression which the preacher himself had received from the text The date of these Homilies is not exactly known but it is certain that they were delivered at Antioch were it only from Hom xxi 9 ad fin Antioch was at that time in a temporal sense a flourishing Church maintaining 3 000 widows and virgins maimed persons prisoners and ministers of the altar although St Chrysostom adds its income was but that of one of the lowest class of wealthy individuals

Fishing for Praise Paul Poulton, 2008-01-01 Praise is a hidden doorway in the world that enables us to see things outside of the universe But it s a doorway that is easily missed people walk past it thinking nothing of it not realizing the value of it But God has placed it there for us to walk through and see where he lives This look at praise takes some surprising turns and gives us insight into heaven hell the world we live in and our own souls People praise all sorts of things I find myself praising my wife or praising children footballers or chefs I even praise my dog When we praise God it is a natural extension of what we normally do every day And praise isn t one way because God praises us too When we are patient praise will come our way from the most unexpected source and it will come just when our enemies have turned up to see it God intervenes on our behalf when we leave the task of being praised to him Contrary to popular belief praise comes to those who wait We don t have to fish for it
