The Traffic in Hierarchy Ward Keeler,2017-09-30 Until its recent political thaw Burma was closed to most foreign researchers and fieldwork based research was rare In The Traffic in Hierarchy one of the few such works to appear in recent years author Ward Keeler combines close ethnographic attention to life in a Buddhist monastery with a broad analysis of Burman gender ideology The result is a thought provoking analysis of Burmese social relations both within and beyond a monastery s walls Keeler shows that the roles individuals choose in Burman society entail inevitable trade offs in privileges and prestige A man who becomes a monk gives up some social opportunities but takes on others and gains great respect Alternatively a man can become a head of household Or he can choose to take on a feminine gender identity to the derision of many but not necessarily his social exclusion A woman by contrast is expected to concern herself with her relations with family and kin Any interest she might show in becoming a nun arouses ambivalent reactions although it fulfills Buddhist teachings it contravenes assumptions about a woman s proper role In Burma hierarchical understandings condition all relationships but hierarchy implies relations of exchange not simply inequality and everyone takes on subordinate roles in their bonds with some and superordinate ones with others Knowing where power lies and how to relate to it appropriately is key It may mean choosing at times to resist power but more often it involves exercising care as to whom one wishes to subordinate oneself in what ways and on what terms Melding reflections on the work of theorists such as Dumont Anderson Warner and Kapferer with close attention to the details of Burman social interaction Keeler balances theoretical insights and ethnographic observation to produce a rich and challenging read The conundrum at the heart of this book whether to opt for autonomy the Buddhist seeking of detachment or for attachment the desire for close bonds with others is one that all humans not just Burmans must confront and it is one that admits of no final resolution
